ITALIAN PEACE SEEN AS PAPAL CHIEF RESIGNS

Vatican Undersecretary Quits Directorate of Catholic Action.

REOPENING OF 1,000 CLUBS IS EXPECTED

Two Churches Interdicted for Parades Against Pope's Order.

Rome, June 10 (A.P.).—End of current difficulties between the Pope and the Italian government appeared imminent today as Mgr. Giuseppe Pizzardo, papal undersecretary of state, resigned as a director of the Catholic Action organization.

The government on its part, it is understood, is disposed to permit reopening of the 1,000 Catholic clubs closed by Premier Mussolini if the Vatican "purifies" them. "Purification" is explained as elimination of what the government regards as political aspects of the clubs and substitution of officers who are acceptable to the government.

Resignation of Mgr. Pizzardo, which was presented at the Pope's request—almost at his order—is taken in government circles as indication the Vatican is disposed to accede to the demand for "purification."

Named in Fascist Paper.

The monsignor was mentioned in a recent account of a purported secret meeting of Catholic Action printed in the newspaper Lavoro Fascista, which charged that he uttered anti-Fascist sentiments.

In addition to its readiness to "purify" Catholic Action, the Vatican was reported disposed to accept regrets of the Italian government over recent anti-Catholic outbursts and to drop insistence on a formal apology.

Although the pontiff by all indications was moving toward a settlement of the controversy with the government, punitive action was taken today against Catholic congregations in two southern Italy towns where religious processions were held in violation of the Pope's order. Such processions were banned by the Vatican at the height of the controversy.

Two Churches Are Closed.

Measures consisted of decrees of interdiction, an ancient Catholic penalty. Under the Pope's order all services in the churches of the two towns, Campo Basso and Capannaro, are suspended. The churches themselves must be closed.

The government's reported willingness to raise the ban on the Catholic clubs is based on the theory that such organizations should be thoroughly Italian. There is objection to "foreigners"—by which is meant citizens of the Vatican state—in places of power.

Basis of the promised settlement between the Vatican and the government has been conveyed to the Holy See either in a note or in diplomatic conversations. Because the Pope has placed Catholic Action under direction of bishops who must be approved by the government and must swear allegiance to the king, it is assumed the Vatican holds no serious objection to the nationality stipulation.

Three Fascists Arrested.

The Vatican saw an admission by the government that anti-Catholic violence must be punished in an announcement that three of the five persons sought for sacking of the Priverno Chancery had been arrested.

Although taking entire charge of the present negotiations, as he did those for the Lateran Treaty and the concordat, Premier Mussolini chooses to have them carried on through Dino Grandi, thereby upholding the dignity of his foreign minister.

The Marchese Pacelli, unofficial negotiator in this, as in the Lateran affair, is supposed to have seen Mussolini, probably at the premier's home. They are said to be good friends.

Roosevelt to Talk With Col. House

Luncheon With Confidante of Wilson Held to Be Significant.

New York, June 10 (A.P.).—The Times says Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will have luncheon Saturday with Col. E. M. House, at Manchester, Mass.

The meeting of the governor and the Democratic statesman who emerged from political retirement a week ago to "work in his own quiet way for Gov. Roosevelt's nomination in 1932" was announced as the governor prepared to leave for Groton School where two of his sons, Franklin, jr., and John, are students.

The recent statement of Col. House that he believed Mr. Roosevelt the "most available" candidate for the presidency, the paper says, gave the "Roosevelt for President" boom new impetus. Announcement of the forthcoming luncheon conference was held significant.

DEPUTIES GIVE BOND IN MEXICANS' DEATH

Ardmore, Okla., June 10 (A.P.).—A district court jury will determine the criminal responsibility of Deputy Sheriffs W. E. Guess and Cecil Crosby in the slaying of two prominent Mexican college students.

At their own request and on orders of County Judge C. N. Champion, the officers were bound over for trial on murder charges late today after testifying at their preliminary hearing that Guess shot at the youths, Emilio Cortes Rubio, cousin of the Mexican president, and Manuel Garcia Gomez, when the students drew guns.

District Judge Asa Walden granted writs of habeas corpus and fixed bail at $35,000 each, which the deputies furnished for their release pending trial probably late this month.

The bodies of the slain youths, who met death when they stopped their motor car on a highway in the residential district here early last Monday while driving home from St. Benedict's College at Atchison, Kans., were placed aboard a train for the trip to Mexico shortly after the hearing ended.

Taking sole responsibility for the shooting, Guess, who five months ago was cleared of the slaying of a suspected murderer in Texas, said:

"I didn't have time to talk. I figured we had run up against a bunch of young hijackers. When I saw one boy coming out with a pistol under the blanket he had around him I shot him. I had to look out for my own self and my own like. I shot from the hip."

Crosby said he informed the youths that he and Guess were deputy sheriffs and that he disarmed Emilio Cortes Rubio after the youth leveled a pistol at him. He was turned about, covering Salvador Cortes Rubio, the third member of the party, when the shooting took place, he said, and did not witness it. Crosby said he did not fire a shot.

Salvador Cortes Rubio, the survivor, testified that the deputies did not announce they were officers. Crosby asserted he displayed his badge to all three of the boys.

Salvador said he was standing in front of the parked car and was blinded by the headlight, being unable to see what happened between the officers and his companions.

There was much testimony concerning weapons and ammunition found in the boys' possession Matthew Alexander, a policeman, told of picking up a cocked pistol. Other witnesses told of seeing Guess take a weapon from the pocket of the dead Emilio.

Granting of bail to the deputies was with the consent of Assistant Attorney General F. M. Dudley, Special Prosecutor Claude Weaver, appointed by Gov. W. H. Murray; County Attorney Marvin Shilling and H. Valdez, Mexican counsel.

Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, may be added to the trial prosecutors. His services were sought

Wheel Chairs Dot South Lawn of White House at Annual Fete.

Eight hundred veterans of three wars, many of whom will bear scars of battles for the rest of their lives, gathered on the south lawn of the White House yesterday afternoon to receive a cheery word of greeting from the present Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy.

Disabled World War veterans in wheel chairs, veterans of the War with Spain, and veterans of the '60s, guests of the annual garden party, received the warm personal greetings of President and Mrs. Hoover.

The scene on the lawn was brightened by colorful gowns of women who have the interests of the former soldiers at heart throughout the year. Dotted through the ranks was a dash of red from the veil of a Red Cross worker; a splash of blue from the headress of a representative of the Blue Veil Ladies, or the more sedate color of the costume of one of the Gray Ladies of Walter Reed Hospital.

Escorted by Col. Campbell, Hodges and Capt. Charles Russell Train, the President and Mrs. Hoover appeared on the south lawn promptly at 5 o'clock. Mrs. Hoover was attired in a frock of printed chiffon of misty gray and pink figures on a white background. She wore a large picture hat of black hair braid.

Rows of men in wheel chairs were among the first to receive the President's welcome. Mr. Hoover found among them A. D. Stern.

"I'm going back to California pretty soon," Veteran Stern confided.

"Fine," the President smiled. "I'm not a native, but I've lived there long enough to know that's the best place for a disabled veteran. It isn't often a Californian can be happy anywhere else very long."

In this group of disabled the President stopped for a chat with Elden I. Henson, of Lewiston, Me.

"Are you going to be able to wear a leg?" he asked.

"Yes, sir," Henson exclaimed.

"That's fine," the President returned.

In another wheelchair was Tom Cushing, famous aviator, of Winston-Salem, N. C., his chair tended by Mrs E. J. Jordan, of the Gray Ladies, who each year is his "godmother" at the fete.

"I was here last year in a hospital bed, and now I'm going home pretty son," Henson said.

The President again smiled his approval.

Well to the front of those to receive the welcome of the Chief Executive and Mrs. Hoover were those who marched out when the Union was in danger. They were led by Gen. John L. Clem, "the drummer boy of Chickamauga."

Among the group were Commander Samuel Mauson, F. J. Young, E. D. Godfrey, J. H. Shepherd, John T. Ryan, George Newton Burnside, H. Wheeler, H. B. Moulton, W. F. Dorsey, Vonvis Parker, Short Sleeve, E. J. Everstock, John W. Blaisdell, John Clarke, Dr. Henry A. Johnson, John

Grand Jury May Be Asked to Inquire Into Affairs of Coast Concern.

Los Angeles, June 10 (A.P.).—The county grand jury may be asked to consider affairs of the Richfield Oil Co. of California, and the Richfield Co., a holding concern, Bonner Richardson, deputy district attorney, said today after receiving a report of an operating deficit of $54,219,091.

The report, delivered to Richardson by R. L. Haight, State corporation commissioner, said a partial investigation showed the shortage due to alleged mismanagement and stock juggling.

Although the report referred constantly to "officers and employes," four officers were named specifically in connection with "unauthorized withdrawals and misappropriations of corporate funds."

Those named were C. M. Fuller, resigned president of the California concern; J. A. Talbot, chairman of the board, who yesterday filed bankruptcy proceedings in San Francisco; R. W. McKee, assistant to the chairman of the board, and A. M. Kelley, vice president.

The California Richfield concern is in the hands of receivers, while the holding company is in receivership in bankruptcy.

Haight wrote:

"Our investigation has brought out strong indications that the corporate records of this company have been falsified in at least two instances."

"A few of the typical accounts were discussed as follows:

"C. M. Fuller, president. Fuller's debit balance of $78,109.91 on January 1, 1928, grew to $237,900.86 on January 14, 1931, six months before the stock market crash and over a period of three years. This amount remained after crediting the account with salary, $96,817.48; bonus, $104,326.08; expense accounts, $210,156.53, and miscellaneous, $81,167.46.

"J. A. Talbot, chairman of the board. Talbot's debit balance of $83,144.73 on January 1, 1928, increased to $142,688.59 on January 14, 1931; the last figure represents the amount due by Talbot after receiving the following credits: Salary, $107,407.92; bonus, $104,236; expense accounts, $122,459.90; miscellaneous, $133,881.73. * * * the investigating committee has obtained from Talbot an unsecured note for $137,272.92."

HOOVER IS TOLD BEER COULD AID TRADE REVIVAL

TEMPERANCE SOCIETY LABELS PLAN ABSURD

Women Cite Pre-Volstead Figures to Refute Liquor Bloc's Claims.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Representative Leonidas C. Dyer (Republican), of St. Louis, Mo., the home of Budweiser and Faust, yesterday told President Hoover that amendment of the Volstead act so as to permit the manufacture of 4 per cent beer would give immediately employment to 100,000 persons and would add $1,000,000,000 a year to the revenues of the Federal, State and city governments.

Meanwhile, the Women's Christian Temperance Union was issuing a statement to the effect that Americans in a dozen States each would have to drink two and a half gallons of beer a day in order to raise $1,000,000,000 for the next fiscal year.

The Wickersham commission, which had been reported as making a survey relating to the economic effects of 4 per cent beer, informed Senator James J. Davis (Republican), of Pennsylvania, that no such survey was being made.

Dyer Issues Statement.

Upon emerging from President Hoover's office, Representative Dyer said:

"I told the President nothing would do more to relieve the unemployment situation and restore confidence throughout the country than to change the law so that a nonintoxicating beer could be manufactured and sold.

"I told him that not only would it do this, but that a beer properly brewed would take the place of the home brew that is undermining the health and the morals of the country. I told him that it would greatly minimize the drinking of strong alcoholic stuff, including some that is poisonous.

"Prohibition was passed, I take it, to protect the drunkards and the weaklings. It has failed in this respect, because it is easy to get all kinds of concoctions that are having the worst possible effects on those who drink them."

Revenue Loss Cited.

Pointing out that the Federal Government and the State and county governments are losing large sums of money to the bootleggers, Mr. Dyer continued:

"Restoration of the manufacture and sale of beer will add $1,000,000,000 a year to the income of the United States, according to the testimony of the late Actuary McCoy, of the Treasury Department, before the ways and means committee of the House. Of this $1,000,000,000 in revenue, about one-fourth would go to the Federal Treasury and the balance to the States and cities.

"In 1914 there was manufactured some 60,000,000 barrels of beer. At the present time, more than this is consumed in the United States, counting the home brew and the beer

GERMAN DEBT PARLEY MEETS OPPOSITION OF U. S., BRITAIN, FRANCE

TAX DECREES CAUSE RIOTING IN 3 CITIES

(Associated Press.)

Developments relative to the suggestions for a new world conference on the revision of German reparations payments in three European capitals yesterday indicated it was not likely such a conference would be called soon.

French political circles continued to oppose the proposal and predicted that any amendment to the Young plan would cause a new round of naval construction competition among the principal European powers.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald told a Conservative member in the House of Commons such a conference "would serve no useful purpose."

American Ambassador Frederick M. Sackett was reported to have informed Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius, of Germany, that a new reparations conference would be very unpopular with the people of the United States at present.

Meanwhile, Chancellor Bruening returned to Berlin and was reported to be facing the most difficult task of his career in attempting to quiet opposition demands for taxation relief and reparations alleviation.

Riots in German Cities.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon sailing yesterday from New York for England, denied that he was going there to discuss war debts and reparations.

"Sorry if they think so," he said. "I am not."

Riots broke out at Mannheim, Kassel, and Frankfort-on-Main in Germany last night as police broke up Communists' gatherings which were protesting the emergency tax decrees.

Kassel, Germany, June 10 (A.P.).—One policeman was killed tonight as shots were fired from the dark at police attempting to break up a Communist demonstration.

The police were also bombarded with flower-pots, beer mugs and stones from the houses until all lights were ordered extinguished and all windows closed.

Quiet was restored by midnight. Police placed a ban on all public demonstrations.

Mannheim Police Attacked.

Mannheim, Germany, June 10 (A.P.).—Police were fired on tonight and barricades were thrown up in the streets when groups of Communists staged a series of demonstrations protesting against the emergency tax decrees of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening.

The demonstrations were incited by speakers at a Communist mass meeting held earlier in the evening and the affair took on a threatening aspect when police attempted to disperse the crowds.

Street lights were smashed, barricades were thrown up as the rioters gathered stones, boards and wagons. The pavement was torn up and police were met with a fusillade of shots when they arrived to restore order.

The rioters abandoned the barricades when the police appeared in strength, however, and late tonight complete quiet had been restored.

Bruening Facing Crisis.

Berlin, June 10 (A.P.).—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, returning from his visit to London late today with Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, found his troubles as responsible head of Germany's government only begun.

How to steer a course between the scylla of a creditor world as yet not ready to reduce Germany's obligations and the charybdis of a nation sullen and discouraged and groaning under the weight of the emergency decrees, is something to tax all the ingenuity of this versatile statesman.

Told Views of America.

On the steamship Europa yesterday, and during a six-hour railway journey in a private car today, Bruening and Curtius had ample opportunity to learn the views of the United States Government on the repara-

Adams Fights Ouster Of Jobs Committee

Night Watchmen Corps to Supplement Police Is Being Formed.

The District Commissioners are trying to oust George J. Adams, jr., executive secretary of the District Committee on Employment, and his staff of job-getters from room 507 in the District Building, it was revealed late yesterday when the committee moved to oppose the ouster and to continue the work through the summer. At the same time Mr. Adams announced his intention of organizing a night watchmen's service of unemployed to rival the Police Department.

A special uniformed police force of at least 100 idle men will be organized and made available for patrol work in the residential sections all night, Mr. Adams said. Twenty such men are already listed and more are obtainable, he added. The minimum service charge will be $5 a month, but it will run higher for larger estates.

POLICEMAN IS HELD IN FUND'S SHORTAGE

McKinnon Is Charged With Theft of $500; Another Faces Trial Board.

One policeman attached to headquarters was booked yesterday on a charge of embezzlement and another was suspended in connection with alleged irregularities in handling the funds of the Police Relief Association and the Retirement Association.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, revealed the alleged irregularities late yesterday afternoon, and a short time later Pvt. Alexander McKinnon, collector of the relief association, was booked at headquarters, being charged in the warrant with embezzlement of between $500 and $600 of the association's funds. He is said to admit being $500 short in his accounts. Pvt. William Kolb, collector of the retirement fund, is the other policeman involved.

McKinnon's alleged shortage of between $500 and $600 was discovered by Harry M. Luckett, secretary of the relief association, Maj. Pratt said.

Kolb had failed to make an accounting of his April collections for the retirement association Tuesday, according to Maj. Pratt, and was notified that he must turn in the money yesterday. He delivered all but $18 of it, it is said, and explained that the money represented a failure of nine men to pay their dues in the association. He will be cited for carelessness in handling the funds when the case comes before the Trial Board.

Both men wer enamed collectors by Inspector William S. Shelby more than a year ago. They were to take $2 a month from each member of the association as dues. The retirement fund provides $1,000 for members when they reach the age limit for retirement and the Relief Association provides $1,500 for families of members in event of death.

McKinnon and Kolb have been members of the Metropolitan Police Force for about ten years and both have excellent service records. McKinnon is a member of this year's graduating class of National University Law School.

SUBMARINE RESCUE REPORT DISCOUNTED

Shanghai, China, June 10 (A.P.).—An unconfirmed report received tonight said that the eight men trapped in the steel hulk of the British submarine Poseidon had been rescued. The British guardship Bruce here was without information of the reported rescue.

London, Thursday, June 11 (A.P.).—The London Daily Herald this morning quotes an admiralty official as saying at midnight he disbelieved a report from Weihaiwei, China, that eight men in the submarine Poseidon were alive and had communicated with the mother ship Medway.

"I regard the whole story of signals having been received from the Poseidon as a cruel rumor," he was quoted as saying. "We received messages from the commander in chief at Weihaiwei tonight and no mention was made of the possibility of any of the men being still alive."

Weihaiwei, China, June 10 (A.P.).—A thrilling battle for the lives of eight men trapped in the British submarine Poseidon was waged today on the waters of the North Yellow Sea.

Victory was in doubt tonight, but there still was strong hope among officers of British ships accembled at the scene that, with the aid of a Japanese salvage tug, they might raise the stricken vessel within 24 hours, possibly before the foul air of its interior overcomes the imprisoned men.

The Poseidon's parent ship, the Medway, succeeded today in establishing communication with the eight men trapped in a rear compartment when the submarine went to the bottom in 20 afthoms after a collision yesterday.

The prisoners reported themselves uninjured, but the length of time they would be able to survive with their limited supply of oxygen was necessarily fast diminishing.

So far as the Medway could estab-

Tactics Divide Paths Of La Follette 'Boys'

Wisconsin Editor, Here for Republican Meeting, Says Governor Has Turned to Business Men He Condemned in Campaign.

The La Follette "boys" of Wisconsin—Senator Robert M. La Follette and Gov. Philip La Follette—are pursuing opposite tactics to stay in the good graces of the voters, according to John B. Chapple, managing editor of the Ashland, Wis., Daily Press, who has come here to speak before the Young Republican Men and Women.

Gov. La Follette, the editor said, is growing conservative while his brother, the senator, is continuing his "A retreat by Gov. La Follette from "A retreat by Gov. LaFollette from the carping criticism of business and industry employed by his senator brother," said Mr. Chapple, "has been caused by a revulsion on the part of the people of Wisconsin from the extreme industrial socialization program before the present session of the Wisconsin legislature."

Gov. La Follette, Mr. Chapple said, is now calling business men into conferences with him, business men whom he condemned during the gubernatorial campaign.

With 300 men and women in attendance, the Young Republicans' conference will open this morning in the Willard Hotel.

Committees in charge of the convention are headed by J. Alfred Trott, of Omaha, and Mrs. Madge G. Ballard, of Terre Haute, Ind., chairmen of the five committees are:

Speakers listed on the program are Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee; Representative Arthur M. Free, of California; Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, Peter F. Snyder, assistant to the Secretary of Labor; Assistant Secretary of the Navy David S. Ingalls, Dr. James J. Robinson, professor of law at the University of Indiana; Miss Katherine V. Parker, president of the Republican Women's Club of Massachusetts; Robert A. Taft, of Cincinnati; W. Kingsland Macy, chairman of the New York Republican State committee; Mayor William B. Harrison, of Louisville, and Dr. William Starr Myers, professor of political science at Princeton University.

Marine Officer Wounded By Nicaraguan Outlaws

Managua, Nicaragua, June 10 (U.P.).—Lieut. Everett Ross, United States marine in charge of a Patrol of Nicaraguan National Guardsmen, was seriously wounded when his patrol fought a skirmish with a group of rebels under the leader Ortes 6 miles north of Jicaro, according to reports received here today.

Three of Ross' men were killed and two wounded. The bandit casualties were not known. Lieut. Ross was shot in both ankles and in one shoulder, it was said.

Canadian Gets Life Term In U. S. for Theft of Auto

First Citizen of Foreign Country to Feel Full Weight of Baumes Law Elicits Sympathy of Judge Who Has No Alternative.

Rochester, N. Y., June 10 (U.P.).—A life sentence under the Baumes law was pronounced on a citizen of a foreign country for the first time on record here today.

John Trussell, 26 years old, of Brockville, Ontario, was convicted in an auto theft case. Because three previous convictions in Canada corresponded with felonies in the United States the life term was mandatory under the New York State law.

The judge, William C. Kohlmetz, admitted that he thought the life sentence was unjust as he signed the order.

"It hurts me to send this young man to State prison," the judge said, "but I have no discretion and must thus carry out the dictates of the law."

Charles E. Callahan, Rochester attorney appointed to defend the Canadian, attacked the Baumes law before sentence was passed.

"In looking over this man's record I find the cases are as charged," Callahan admitted, "but in all my experience in the practice of law I never have felt as I do today.

"The sentence about to be imposed is mandatory, but it is un-American. We of the bar believe that suitable men of high character have been selected to act as judges and believe that they should have discretion in cases of this kind. It seems to me that if the public knew of the far-reaching effect of this law, it would bring pressure to bear on the Legislature for its repeal."

"In this case the sentence is entirely out of proportion to the offense. The ends of justice are not met by snatching this young man out of society and sending him behind the bars for life."

Ball Park Betting Curbed As Gaming Drive Goes On

White House Order Forbids Federal Employes Gambling During Working Hours; Schaefer Discounts Threat of "Ride;" Court Tests Postponed.

That busy section of grand stand directly behind home plate, before game time, and in left-field stands during the baseball game yesterday missed some of its familiar faces and od standbys. They failed to appear, as is their wont whenever the Nationals have a home game. And, as naturally follows, the big money wagered on the game, and whether a certain player would hit safely or go out, failed to change hands.

This fact was ascertained from excellent authority, none others than Headquarters Detectives Ogle, Mansfield and Pihelyi who made a personal trip to the ball yard to watch the "big shots" at play—or business, depending on the point of view.

The fourth member of the rambling detective squad, Sergt. Larry O'Dea, failed to see the game. He was busy making the rounds of other places which seemed to ned his attention.

None of the four horsemen gained much in yesterday's travels. The three at the baseball park declared they saw none of the gamblers they expected to find, while O'Dea got a "nobody home" response at the places he visited.

Incidentally, the roaming raiders have extended the sphere of their activity. Hitherto their efforts have been confined to the First Precinct. Yesterday they went to reputed gambling joints in the Third and Sixth Precincts, but found them all closed.

In connection with their work, one of the detectives let it be known that he had been "approached." It wasn't a direct approach, but he had re-tions problem through conversations with the American Ambassador, Frederick M. Sackett.

Ambassador Sackett was returning on the Europa after a visit to the United States during which he conferred extensively with officials at Washington.

Although the ambassador was noncommittal regarding the conversations with the German statesmen, it was understood he explained that an international conference for the revision of reparations and war debts would be very unpopular in the United States at present.

It is believed he explained to the German statesman that only gradually is the man on the street in the United States accustoming himself to the notion that the Young plan does not represent the final solution of the reparations problem. Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius who emphasized, with Prime Minister MacDonald and Arthur Henderson, that nothing must be done except by international cooperation, may be depended upon to take Ambassador Sackett's advice not to force any action until international public opinion is ready for it.

Stimson's Visit Awaited.

No positive step is likely to be taken immediately, unless the domestic situation in Germany forces Chancellor Bruening's hand prematurely. Certainly nothing is expected before the arrival of Secretary of State Stimson at Berlin, and probably not before Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson return the visit of Bruening and Curtius by coming to Germany.

There was no attempt to disguise, however, that the domestic situation here is a precarious one for the Bruening cabinet. Not a single political party has approved the emergency decrees.

As has been the case before, the Social Democrats must decide whether to join in the demand of the Communists, Nationalists, and National Socialists for a convocation of the Reichstag or whether, for the sake of averting possible disaster, they will once more support the cabinet's desire to have Parliament remain at home and not endanger the government's apple cart.

After a visit to President Paul von Hindenburg at his summer residence at Neudeck at the earliest possible moment, the Chancellor will face the task of persuading the Social Democrats to refrain from voting for the Reichstag convocation.

Even if the Social Democrats are persuaded to oppose the convocation at present, something which might cost them thousands of votes, the Bruening government will obtain only a breathing time until autumn, when the Reichstag is due to assemble anyway. By that time, it is regarded as certain, the chancellor must have definite assurance from abroad either that Germany's reparations payments will be lightened or a new international conference has been made possible.

illegally made and imported. In 1914 there was invested in the brewing industry about $800,000,000 and $47,000,000 in the malting industry. They employed in the brewing and malting businesses some 77,364 men and paid them $83,378,000 in wages annually."

Aid to Unemployed.

If the beer industry were restored, Mr. Dyer said, jobs would be created in the breweries, in the railroads, the coal industry and in firms manufacturing machinery, bottles and kegs. In addition, he said, a market would be created for the farmer's grain.

Representative Dyer pointed out that only one-fourth of the $1,000,000,000 which might be raised in revenue by the sale of beer would go to the Federal Government.

However, the Women's Christian Temperance Union, in its assault on the congressional "beer bloc," evidently went on the assumption that the bloc contended that the Federal Government itself would receive a billion in revenue.

W. C. T. U. Assails Plan.

"The biggest beer tax ever paid the Government in normal prewar days," the W. C. T. U. statement said, "was $67,875,672 in 1916, with the tax at a dollar a barrel, the per capita consumption at 17½ gallons annually.

"To raise a billion dollars tax in the fiscal year almost upon us would mean the drinking of twelve and one-half times as much beer as ever before, or nearly 21,000,000,000 gallons of beer a year, 2,000,000,000 gallons more than all the drinkers in America drank in ten years before the war, with the consumption increasing enormously every year."

The statement said that even if Congress did legalize beer, the stuff could only be sold in the dozen States which have no dry laws prohibiting beer. The States that do have such laws would have to modify them before beer could be sold within State lines.

Beer Bloc Scored.

"The beer bloc talks about raising that billion-dollar tax in the fiscal year, starting July 1, of this calendar year, just a few days off," the statement continued.

"Congress does not convene until December, so even if the beer program is completed immediately and beer began to pay taxes January 1 next year, there would be only six months in which to raise the billion-dollar Federal tax among the dozen States named, with a population of 346,134,000.

"These unfortunate people would have to drink 21,000,000,000 gallons of beer in six months—two and one-half gallons for every human being from new-born babes upward. This is the beer bloc's program in all its absurdity."

Call for Silver Parley May Come From Canada

(Associated Press.)

Some advocates of an international conference on silver are looking hopefully to some affirmative action by Canada. L. P. Darling, a British banker, who conferred here with President Hoover and Senate leaders this week, is now in Canada and was reported to be hopeful that Canada might call the parley.

Senator King (Democrat), Utah, who is insisting that the United States call the international conference regardless of the opposition of some European powers, visited the State Department yesterday. He hopes to see President Hoover today.

Charlottesville Woman Dies.

Charlottesville, Va., June 10 (Special).—Mrs. Henrietta Morris, wife of Lee Morris, died yesterday at her home on King street, after an illness of five months. The funeral was held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from the Hill and Irving funeral parlors, with the service conducted by the Rev. Edwin S. Sweeney, pastor of the Christian Church.

PARIS TO HAIL VISIT OF HOOVER ENVOYS

Paris, June 10 (A.P.).—Official circles in France tonight said that France was very happy that Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon were coming to Europe from the United States to get first-hand impressions of present conditions in Europe.

The problems which Europe is seeking to settle, an official spokesman said, are really international problems, to the solution of which the United States can contribute appreciably.

The assertion was made, however, that it would be a great mistake for the American people to link closely the questions of reduction of reparations and war debts with the question of disarmament.

It was regarded as significant, however, that French Socialists will begin a fight tomorrow to postpone new naval construction until the result of the disarmament conference of 1932 is determined. The general belief was that France could be induced to make heavy reductions in armaments at this time only by the negotiation of "watertight" treaties of mutual assistance which would guarantee France against aggression.

The reparations problem and France's relations with Germany stand out more prominently than ever at present, as a result of the Chequers conversations. Foreign Minister Briand's speech to the Chamber of Deputies yesterday was being interpreted as reflecting a national conviction that repeated concessions to Germany would not succeed in aiding Franco-German relations.

There is a growing French belief that an amended Young plan is not justified, and that if it were negotiated it would probably be followed by other German demands.

COMMITTEE OUSTER OPPOSED BY ADAMS

bert B. Crosby, Police Commissioner, who desires the room Mr. Adams now occupies for conference purposes.

There is a great need for private police protection in residential areas, Mr. Adams believes, and he stated that he expects to include among his clients several embassies and legations, in view of the recent attack on Dr. Don Carlos Leiva, Charge d'Affaires of the El Salvadorean Legation.

Plans are also under way to open a temporary farm for unemployed near Frederick, Md. Idle men will be given one to two weeks' work at standard wages and later, accordnig to Mr. Adams, will be given permanent jobs in Washington.

While the District Commissioners told the employment committee that space might be provided for its headquarters in the Municipal Center area, where there are a number of vacant buildings, the committee declared formally that it would consider space only in the District Building. If this is refused, the headquarters organization likely will disband, as it would require at least $100 a month to rent an office, according to Mr. Adams.

The placement bureau's solicitation and listing of unemployed, however, is to be discontinued, and the files are to be turned over to the Federal and District Employment Bureau maintained in the Police Headquarters Building. This action was taken by the committee yesterday largely because of criticism that the bureau in the District Building was overlapping the work of the permanent bureau, to which the District government contributed $10,000 annually.

Adams Will Retain Staff.

Nevertheless, Mr. Adams intends to retain his staff of five men and a young woman and will continue to hunt jobs for idle men and women among householders, for clean-up jobs and the like. As jobs are found, the workers will be obtained from the Federal-District Bureau.

While Mr. Adams has been acting as executive secretary of the employment committee since its organization last November and has promoted a football game and a wrestling match for benefit purposes, he receives no salary. His staff, however, at present costs $182 a week to maintain.

Several members favored disbanding the committee yesterday, but finally agreed to its retention in view of the fact that the organization has $6,188.86 on hand, received from the wrestling tournament, which will be devoted almost entirely to salaries and office maintenance.

The opinion also was expressed by a committee member that the American Veterans Progressive Association, which was organized on May 15, duplicated the work of the Veterans' Bureau and the Red Cross.

Delano Urges Retention.

Frederic A. Delano, chairman, explained that the committee had not been disbanded as voted earlier in the spring because of extended cold weather and the consequent continuance of unemployment. Considerable improvement was noted in May, he said.

He said he could not be as optimistic as Government officials, however, in their belief that the depression was almost over. Consequently, he favored retention of the committee organization until fall.

A financial statement of the committee, prepared by Mr. Adams, showed that there was an exact balance of receipts and expenses on May 30 of $20,396.59. The major expense items listed were $4,461.19 for salaries, $3,947 donation to the United States Employment Service and $3,000 for the placement bureau operated for a while by the Junior League. There is now a bank balance of $6,188.86, obtained chiefly from the wrestling matches.

Falling Glass Cuts Girl.

Dorothy Laughlin, 14, of Rockville, Md., was cut over the eyes yesterday when a window on the second floor of an office building on E street near Fifth northwest shattered, showering glass on the girl and her mother who were walking below. The accident was blamed on a rotted sash cord which snapped suddenly.

DEBT PARLEY DENIED BY BRITSH PREMIER

Commons Told No Good Purpose Could Be Served by Conference Now.

London, June 10 (A.P.).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, speaking in the House of Commons today, put an end to rumors arising from the visit of Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius, of Germany, that the British government contemplated an international war debt conference in the immediate future.

No useful purpose would be served by such a conference, he told a Conservative questioner in the House who had asked whether he was considering an international meeting "with a view to mutual cancellation of obligations."

"Our attitude in regard to war debts is well known," said Mr. MacDonald, "and action along the lines suggested would not in the present circumstances serve any useful purpose."

The conversations with the German statesmen at Chequers were merely a "general exchange of views," he said, and no definite conclusions or decision had been reached. He agreed that the House should one day have an opportunity of discussion which has not yet arrived.

One member reminded him that the present Parliament never has discussed interallied debts and reparations and asked him if he did not think a matter of such importance should be considered.

"Certainly," said the prime minister, "when the time comes."

He informed the House that the government had accepted Chancellor Bruening's invitation to himself, and Arthur Henderson, the foreign secretary, to visit Berlin, but said a date for such a visit had not been fixed.

Nothing occurred at Chequers beyond those matters outlined in an official communique issued at the end of the conference, he said, and he declined to discuss the week-end meeting any further.

Of the 30 men and 5 officers who survived the disaster, 21 escaped from the conning tower in the two minutes the submarine stayed afloat after she had been rammed.

Rear Admiral Charles Butler McVay, Jr., commander in chief of the American Asiatic Squadron, has placed all his resources at the disposal of British naval authorities. He also instructed the destroyer squadron under Capt. Dorich, which is spending the summer at Shefoo, to give every possible assistance. The United States submarine rescue vessel Pigeon also had been ordered to the scene of the disaster from Tsingtao to aid in the salvage operations.

Bayonne, N. J., June 10 (A.P.).—Hope for the men imprisoned in the British submarine Poseidon at the bottom of the Yellow Sea was expressed tonight by Commander Edward Ellsberg, American authority on submerisible salvage operations.

Ellsberg, who raised one sunken submarine and conducted initial operations for salvaging another, said that under favorable conditions the men alive might be saved and the vessel itself raised in a few days.

Honor to Anthem Insisted by Child

Schoolgirl Goes Home as Teacher Orders Her to Sit.

Because her 13-year-old daughter, Thelma Zier, insisted on standing when "The Star-Spangled Banner" was played in another room in the Edmonston School, Mrs. John Zier will ask for a ruling on duties of school children in this matter.

Mrs. Zier says her daughter was told to sit down, after standing when she heard the faint strains of the national anthem. The child said that she would go home, and her teacher allowed her to go. She returned to school with her mother. Mrs. Zier said she would ask the Edmonston Parent-Teacher Association to request the State Board of Education to rule on the question of when children should stand in school.

The child's father is Private John Zier of the Washington Police Force, attached to the Eighth Precinct.

Frederick, Md., June 10.—The eighty-fifth annual commencement of the Academy of the Visitation, B. V. M., was concluded today. Miss Aileen Latrobe was valedictorian and Miss Catherine Cecelia Haller salutatorian. The address to the graduates was made by the Right Rev. Mgr. C. F. Thomas, Baltimore.

The alumnae gold medal, the highest honor of the graduating class, was awarded to Miss Latrobe.

Gunshot Wound Fatal To Norfolk Attorney

Norfolk, Va., June 10 (A.P.).—Moe Levy, prominent Norfolk attorney, died here today from a bullet wound said by police to have been self-inflicted.

The shooting occurred in the attorney's office. Several persons, attracted by sounds of two shots, broke through locked doors and found Mr. Levy lying on the floor with a wound in the temple.

HOOVER SPEEDS UP STATE DEPARTMENT

New Policy Is Proclaimed to Promote Harmony in Foreign Service.

A new personnel policy, designed to increase efficiency of the State Department and at the same time to generate contentment in the foreign service, was proclaimed yesterday.

It is based on a batch of executive orders issued by President Hoover to carry out changes authorized by the Moses-Linthicum bill enacted at the last session of Congress, which bill was a sequel to the Rogers reorganization bill of 1924.

In the past, foreign service officers have had to wait several years for a raise in pay. When the raise came, it might be $1,000 or $2,000, depending on how high the officer stood.

More Frequent Raises Assured.

Under an executive order just issued by President Hoover, the pay scale will remain where it is, but the raises will be broken up into sums of $100 or $200 and awarded more frequently.

Another welcome change ordered by the President has to do with leave. In the past, a foreign service officer got a maximum of 60-days' leave a year. Sometimes part of this was spend in traveling, but in any event the officer never was home often enough or long enough to get a thorough taste of his homeland. Even if he passed up his 60-days leave one year, he could not add it to the leave he would get next year.

Leave May Be Accumulated.

Under the new executive order, these diplomats may now allow their leave to accumulate and may take as many as 180 days off in one year. This benefit will be extended to clerks as well as officers.

Two of the President's executive orders are expected to cause a faster turnover of veteran employes and thus speed up promotions.

One order makes it possible for the Secretary of State to retire with an annuity those officers found to be "definitely unsatisfactory," and another allows officers to retire after 30 years of service, instead of, as at present, waiting until they are 65 years of age.

There is another order which permits a clerk in the foreign service to take an examination for the position of foreign service officer after five years' service. Under this order the clerk need only take an oral examination.

Carolina Farmers Live On Own Home Produce

Monroe, N. C., June 10 (A.P.).—Farmers of Union County, according to T. J. Broom, county agent, are "living-at-home" more than ever before this year. The spring crops of hay, oats, and wheat were especially fine and more lespedeza is being grown than ever before.

Practically every farmer has a home garden; Irish potatoes are being grown on nearly every farm; sweet potatoes are being planted; and, though nearly every farm has a surplus of milk, butter and eggs, there is little cash money, he said.

Shepherd College Bestows Degrees

19 Get First B. A. Honors West Virginia School Has Granted.

Special to The Washington Post.

Shepherdstown, W. Va., June 10.—Shepherd College recorded an important event in its 58-year history here yesterday when it bestowed, as part of the annual finals, its first four-year bachelor of arts degrees.

The school was not a degree-granting school until four years ago when legislative enactment conferred that power. The class yesterday is the first completing the work under the new authority. Nineteen of the 81 students in the graduating class were given the degrees. The remaining 62 received the standard normal school diploma, for two or more years' work.

F. G. Welshans, Shepherdstown, was named president of Shepherd alumni at the annual gathering last night at which the classes of 1881, 1891, 1901, 1911, 1921 and 1931 were featured. Allen Hawkins, Wardensville, was named vice president; Miss Sula Dehaven, Martinsburg, corresponding secretary; Miss Mary Donnelly, Shepherdstown, recording secretary, and Mrs. C. N. Byron, Shepherdstown, treasurer.

CONFERENCE SEEKS IMPROVED ROADS

Fairfax County Chamber Committee Will Meet State Officials.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce has instructed its special highway committee to meet with the State highway comission in Richmond to present recommendations for increasing traffic safety and efficiency.

Members of the committee, who reported on condition of State roads in the county, are: W. P. P. Reid, chairman; Herbert Williams, Earl Saum, George P. Harrison, Joseph Berry, William J. Cleveland and Mrs. E. D. Vosbury.

Herbert Williams told of a conference with Chief Engineer C. S. Mullin of the State highway commission, in Richmond. They discussed the road situation in Fairfax County with special reference to constructing a road from Mount Vernon to the Washington-Richmond highway near Woodlawn and the taking over of the privately owned Washington-Great Falls pike from Langley to Elkins. Williams said Mullin advised it would cost approximately $35,000 to improve and widen the shoulders of the road to Great Falls. He felt the toll gate on this road should be removed prior to the bicentennial celebration next year.

Williams told the chamber it was important to have a committee meet stockholders of the Washington-Great Falls and Dranesville Highway Co. prior to the Richmond meeting, as the stockholders had indicated they were willing to turn their right-of-way over to either the State or the county. He also stated that if the highway commission were unable to take over this section of the road under the 2½ per cent clause, it would be advisable to ask the State Legislature next spring to pass a special enabling act.

A committee composed of J. W. Gaines, Capt. Thurlow White and W. P. P. Reid was appointed by President Edmund H. Allen to prepare a list of nominations to be voted on at the July meeting. The July meeting will be held in McLean as guests of the McLean School and Civic League.

The Falls Church Town Council has passed an ordinance requiring licenses to sell fireworks within the town or within 1 mile of the corporate limits. The license, to be issued by the town clerk and approved by the mayor, will cost $10. The ordinance provides that the license can be canceled at any time if excessively dangerous fireworks are being sold.

Mayor L. P. Daniel said this ordinance, recommended by the League of Virginia Municipalities, is used by many cities and towns in the State. The Town of Falls Church is located in both Arlington and Fairfax Counties, and when Commonwealth Attorney William C. Gloth, of Arlington County, was informed of the council's action he expressed the belief that such an ordinance was unconstitutional.

Gloth stated that under section 3006 of the Virginia code jurisdiction of corporate authorities of each town or city, in criminal matters and for imposing and collecting a license tax, shall extend 1 mile beyond the corporate limits of such town or city, except that such jurisdiction of the corporate authorities of towns situated in counties having a density of population in excess of 300 inhabitants per square mile shall extend only to the corporate limits of such town.

He declared that exception alone would protect residents of Arlington County within the 1-mile limit.

The Ladies Aid Society and the Women's Missionary Society of the Lewinsville Presbyterian Church will hold a joint meeting this evening in Dunham Hall, near McLean.

Members of the Women's Guild, of the St. Mary's Episcopal Church, will hold a food sale this afternoon in the Parish Hall at McLean.

The Ladies' Guild and the Women's Missionary Society of the Falls Church Episcopal Church will hold a joint picnic this afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. L. Harrison, of East Falls Church.

The meeting of the Home Demonstration Club at Burke, scheduled for today, has been postponed until Miss Sarah E. Thomas, Fairfax County home demonstration agent, returns from Camp Kahlert, Md. L. C. Beaner, a garden specialist from Blacksburg, Va., will be guest speaker at the next meeting.

The Fairfax County School Board will sell the old Franconia schoolhouse and land this afternoon at 2 o'clock to the highest bidder. The Springfield schoolhouse, with two acres of land, also will be sold at public auction this afternoon.

The Lee District Improvement Association will meet this evening in the auditorium of the schoolhouse at Lorton.

Republican Chosen Frederick's Mayor

Maj. Munshower Upsets Tradition of 30 Years by Election.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., June 10.—Maj. Elmer F. Munshower, Republican, defeated Lloyd C. Culler, Democrat, in the triennial city election for mayor yesterday by a majority of 141. The vote was Munshower, 2,197; Culler, 2,056. The latter was seeking his fourth term and Munshower was twice elected to the board of aldermen.

Aubrey A. Nicodemus, Republican, was reelected city register over Meredith R. Vanstaub by a majority of 1,387. Successful members of the board of aldermen were G. Hunter Bowers and Charles P. Hiteshew, Republicans, and August T. Brust, incumbent; Charles T. Butcher, a former member, and Herbert S. Schroeder, Democrats. G. William Shipley and John S. Renn, Democrats, members of the board of aldermen seeking to succeed themselves, were defeated.

A very large vote was polled. It was the second time in 30 years that a Republican was elected Mayor of Frederick.

Mexicans Denounce Killings.

Mexico City, June 10 (U.P.).—A festival for inauguration of the Tlanguistengo highway was postponed on order of Gov. Vargas Lugo of Hidalgo, as "sign of mourning for the villainous assassination" of two Mexican youths near Ardmore, Okla., the governor informed President Pasqual Ortiz Rubio today.

Resentment against the shooting of the two youths, one of them a cousin of the president, continued high. The newspaper Grafico carried an editorial captioned "Assassination as a Sport."

"The Ardmore incident illustrated the low esteem in which the authorities of some States hold the lives of foreigners, especially Mexicans," the editorial said, adding that it was hoped measures taken by the United States would restrain sheriffs "from making a sport of assassination."

Warehouse, Two Barges and Tug Burned at New Bern, N. C.

New Bern, N. C., June 10 (A.P.).—Two barges, a tugboat and a warehouse used by the Carolina Lines, Inc., were destroyed here early today by fire. The damage was estimated at $200,000.

The blaze, of undetermined origin, originated in the warehouse shortly after 3 a. m. It was brought under control four hours later. The building was located on the waterfront at the foot of Craven street and the boats were tied up at the dock there. One barge and the tug burned and sank at the dock. The other barge was cut free and floated in flames down the Neuse River.

The Carolina Distributing Co. owned the boats valued at $95,000. Twelve thousand bags of sugar, worth $60,000, were stored in the warehouse. Other contents of the warehouse included soft drink stocks of the Carolina Distributing Co., estimated by officials of the company to be worth $20,000.

Man Visiting Sister Dies While Working Garden

ALEXANDRIA BOARD SELECTS TEACHERS

Three Instructors Are Chosen to Fill Vacancies in High Schools.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The city school board has elected teachers for Alexandria schools. For the high schools, three new teachers were elected, to fill vacancies caused by resignations. Miss Clara Pitts was elected supervisor of the elementary grades, this being a new position created on the recommendation of Dr. W. S. Y. Critchley in his survey last March. Henry T. Moncure was reelected principal of the Alexandria High School and C. H. Strader, superintendent of the George Mason High. J. F. Wilson will be given complete charge of athletics at the George Mason High, and will be relieved of teaching so as to devote all his time to athletics.

In the Alexandria High School the new teachers are Ian M. Coleman, Isoline B. Lucas and Irving Lindsey, the latter being mathematics teacher, which position he held several years ago. Others for this school are Miss Carmen Andujar, Miss Eleanor Appich, Miss Eddie Dickert, Mrs. Henrietta Massey, Mrs. Ruth Elgin, Miss Kroes Ficklin, Mrs. Margaret Forshee, Maurice Given, Miss Ida Hill, Miss Grace King, Miss Charlene Kircofe, A. S. Millikan, Mrs. Mary Parker, Miss Corinne Reardon, Miss Louise Rowlett, Mrs. Pearl Ranow, Miss Ruth Watkins, Mrs. Charles H. Wise, Miss Margaret Yates and R. C. Hammond.

For the George Mason High School the teachers chosen were Theodore Bohn, Mrs. Goldie Day, Miss Thelma Stephenson, C. H. Strader, Miss Helen Ware, J. F. Wilson, Miss Jean Wright, Robert E. Knight, jr., and Mrs. Robert M. Allen.

Mrs. W. H. Woodward was elected principal of Lee School, and Robert W. Evans, principal of Jefferson School, to fill a vacancy.

For the Mount Vernon School, these new teachers were chosen: Miss Elizabeth Nicholson, Miss Mary Ellen Cato and Mrs. Marguerite W. Hoy.

For Parker-Gray School for colored children, Mollie H. Brooks, Edith V. Williams and Leola R. Carter were elected to fill vacancies.

The teachers for the Alexandria High School summer school are C. H. Strader, Charles Wise, A. S. Millican, Miss Kroes Ficklin and Miss Carmen Andjuhar. For the graded summer school the teachers will be Miss Leah Dolph, Mrs. Cora Kelly, Miss Margaret Helm, Miss Myra Farmer and Miss Mary Appleton.

Approximately 350 persons will attend the banquet tonight in the George Mason Hotel, marking the close of the summer reunion of the Scottish Rite Masons of the Valley of Virginia. The conferring of the thirty-first and thirty-second degrees this afternoon will close the work of the session, which has been highly successful.

Dr. Robert South Barrett will deliver the opening address of welcome at the banquet, and will introduce Edmund H. Allen, of Newington, who will preside as toastmaster. An address will be delivered by Hon. Jefferson Myers, commissioner of the United States Shipping Board, and an entertainment program will be given which will include selections by a quartet of the National Broadcasting Co., of Washington, and by Clarence W. Sutton and Duncan C. Thomson.

A member of the class which has just completed the degrees, who will be chosen today by the class, will deliver an address on "Impressions of the Class."

A special guest at the banquet will be John H. Cowles, grand commander of the supreme council of Scottish Rite Masons in the United States. Col. John H. Trimyer is chairman of the banquet committee.

Miss Sybil Baker, director of Washington playgrounds, was the speaker Tuesday evening, when the Business and Professional Women's Club entertained 145 girls who are graduating from the seventh grade into high school, at supper in the George Mason Hotel, with the president of the club, Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson, presiding, and the program in charge of Miss Louise Rowlett, educational chairman, and Mrs. Albert M. Briggs, program chairman.

Miss Baker gave a talk on the importance of higher education for girls who are going to enter the business world, and particularly urged them to always see an open door ahead to attain, that people in the world are divided into two classes, those who see only a closed door and those who see an open door to strive to enter.

Mrs. Helen Springman, principal of Jefferson School, and Miss Margaret Abramson, a teacher in that school, were guests of the club, the latter directing an entertainment by the pupils, a sketch, "Penrod and Sam," with Evelyn Brawner, Louise Payne, Eleanor Wallace, Leslie Arnold, Kenneth Sawyer and Dick Moncure as the participants; and a chorus of 40 girls in a group of songs, with Mrs. D. C. Book at the piano.

The address of welcome was given by the club president, Mrs. Shepperson, and the response was by Margery Garvey, for Jefferson School, and Virginia McCool, of Mount Vernon School. Each girl was given a present, contributed by the club members.

The annual commencement exercises of the George Mason High School will be held at 8:15 o'clock this evening in the auditorium of the school, when the address to the graduates will be delivered by Dr. Walter J. Young, professor of education in the State Teachers' College, Fredericksburg.

The program, over which R. C. Bowton, superintendent of schools will preside, will include invocation by the Rev. John S. Sowers, pastor of the Del Ray Baptist Church; selections by Bue R. Perry and Frank B. Perry; presentation of awards by C. H. Strader, principal; presentation of the Kiwanis Club medal, by the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church; presentation of the Rotary Club medal, by Judge William S. Snow; selections by Lola Kirkham; valedictory, Miss Theresa Carter; presentation of diplomas, by Urban S. Lambert, chairman of the city school board, and benediction by the Rev. Mr. Sowers.

The graduating exercises of the Alexandria High School will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium, with the address to the graduates by Dr. Walter J. Young. Henry T. Moncure, principal, will present the awards. The graduating class will number approximately 70.

Twenty-one young ladies were graduated from St. Mary's Academy yesterday.

The ceremonies opened with the academic march of the graduates. High mass was sung by the Rev. Thomas A. Rankin, pastor of St. Mary's Church. Present in the sanctuary were the Rev. Michael Igoe, of Richmond; the Rev. Michael J. Cannon, of Manassas; the Rev. Bernard J. McKenna, of Leesburg, and the Rev. Hugh McFadden, of Alexandria. St. Mary's Glee Club sang "Missa Dea Gratias," by Gerald Rean.

The Rev. Michael Igoe, in his address to the graduates eloquently pleaded for a steadfast pursuit of the ideals which had been included in them by their teachers, and describing the material trend of thought and action in the world at the present time.

In the commercial course: Audrey Elizabeth Williams, Virginia Veronica Ewald, Mildred Louise Cox, Rose May Sperling, Ethel Ann Loeb, Nora Mary Magner, Alexandria; Della Madeline Knapp, Lewisburg, W. Va.

General certificates presented by the Catholic University for having successfully completed the course of study prescribed for its affiliated schools were awarded to Frances Angela Kelly, Catherine Ann Schlagg, Margaret Ann Lawler, Frances Margaret Van Doren, Lillian Agnes Nalls, Mary Cornelia Carne, Caroline Frances Pearson and Margaret Mary McGahey. Special certificates were presented by the Catholic University of America to Patricia Ernestine Griffith, Eleanor Jane Aitcheson, Ruth Elizabeth Jones and Harriet Claire Thurgood.

For the final award of the Theodore H. Ficklin Literary Society, of the Alexandria High School, the emblems have been presented by Miss Kroes Ficklin, sponsor and critic, for whose father the society is named. The winners are Mary Hinton, Roberta Hoy, Lewis Harvey, Jack Batcheller, Margaret Moncure, Marian Moncure, Janet Stutz, Josephine Painter, Barbara Schellhorn, Edward Hitt, Francis Rosenberger, Haywood Davis and Elizabeth Apperson. Officers for the year just past were Mary Hinton, president; Roberta Hoy, vice president; Lewis Harvey, secretary-treasurer, while officers to be installed in September are Bonelle Thomas, president; Edward G. Hitt, vice president, and Evelyn Morris, secretary-treasurer.

Marshall L. King, of this city, has been notified by J. Murray Hooker, of Richmond, State chairman of the Democratic committee, that he has been appointed a member of the executive Democratic committee, to succeed Thomas R. Keith, of Fairfax County.

In his report for May, Dr. W. Lewis Schaffer, city health officer, states that thirteen cases of measles and four cases of German measles were reported during the month. Among the other communicable diseases reported were scarlet fever, twelve cases; three of chicken pox, eleven of mumps and one case of diphtheria.

There were 42 births and 37 deaths recorded in the month.

The infant welfare clinic report shows 272 visits and 38 babies admitted to the clinic, while that in Potomac shows 87 visits to the health center. The report of the public health nurse shows 49 new patients visited.

Mrs. T. Clifton Howard has been elected vice president of the Alexandria United Charities, and announcement made that the organization will shortly move into the rooms formerly occupied by the Red Cross, adjoining the city health office in the city building.

C. Page Waller as program chairman of the Kiwanis Club will present Mrs. Reba Barrett Smith as the speaker at the luncheon meeting of that club today at 12:30 in the George Mason Hotel. Mrs. Smith will speak on the Florence Crittenton Home.

The regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in Gadsby's Tavern, with the president, Mrs. F. Clinton Knight, presiding.

Disease Menaces Tobacco Plants

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., June 10.—Blue mold, a disease which withers tobacco plants, has made its appearance in the Pittsylvania County tobacco fields, and J. E. Stone, farm demonstration agent, has issued a warning to growers to watch their crops closely and to combat it with a spray upon detection. Thus far its appearance is not extensive.

Early in the season North Carolina agricultural authorities placed an embargo on plants imported from Georgia, where the disease was found in substantial proportions.

Usually, Stone says, the malady appears in the plant beds, but occasionally the germ does not develop until the young shoots have been transplanted and it spreads rapidly.

MISS STARR FAITHFULL.

BOSTON CLEW FAILS IN GIRL'S DROWNING

Medical Adviser Declares Miss Faithfull Neither Drunk Nor Drugged.

New York, June 10 (A.P.).—While Alvin E. Edwards, Nassau County district attorney, was in Boston today seeking the slayer of Miss Starr Faithfull, his medical adviser announced the girl's death was caused by drowning and she was neither intoxicated nor drugged when she died.

Ever since Miss Faithfull's body was found on the beach at Long Beach, Long Island, Monday, Edwards has been convinced the case was neither suicide nor accident, but homicide.

"The girl was murdered in New York City and taken to Long Beach," he said before leaving for Boston. "Two men are involved. One is politically prominent and the other is a member of the medical profession. I intend to have both of them in custody in a few hours and the case cleaned up."

Boston Quest Fruitless.

Edwards took extradition papers and confession blanks to Boston, such was his confidence of solving the mystery. But when he left again for New York the blanks were still blank and his medical adviser's report seemed to indicate the whole theory on which he had been working was faulty.

While Edwards, in Boston, was questioning Francis Peabody Hamlin, steamship company man, who had known Miss Faithfull and who volunteered to tell what he knew of her recent movements, Stanley E. Faithfull, the girl's stepfather, gave an interview to reporters here. He acknowledged having given police information that turned their attention to Boston, but denied he had mentioned any politician or physician.

Girl Was in Hospital.

A reporter remarked that the city department of hospitals confirmed the report that Miss Faithfull had been taken to the psychopathic ward of Bellevue Hospital in 1930, the records showing she was detained one day for alcoholism.

Mr. Faithfull today said he had mixed four drinks for Starr and a young woman friend and then had left the apartment. The next afternoon Starr was in Bellevue.

He later learned from the other young woman that Starr drank all four cocktails and was later introduced by her friend to a Joseph Collins. Mr. Faithfull added he had sought Collins in vain ever since.

Returning from Boston tonight Edwards said Hamlin was in Boston when the girl disappeared. He was never in love with the girl and had nothing whatever to do with the case, the prosecutor asserted.

Maryland's Eagles Elect Philip Roman

Hagerstown to Be Chosen for Next Convention; Members Increase.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., June 10.—Former States Attorney J. Philip Roman, State vice president the past year, was today elected president of the Maryland State Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles. He succeeds Charles F. Cramer, of Frederick, who will be the State representative at the Grand Aeria, which meets in Toledo.

Other officers elected are V. F. Feete, Brunswick, State vice president; James L. Birch, Highlandtown, State chaplain; Dr. W. S. Sudler, Highlandtown, State secretary; Robert G. Witter, Frederick, State treasurer; Howard Galbreth, Cumberland, State conductor; William J. Cubbage, Cumberland, inside guard; Guy Cockerell, Frederick, outside guard; John Zink, Cumberland, A. P. Miller, Lonaconing, and Harvey Washter, Hagerstown, trustees.

The matter of selecting the place of next meeting was left to the new officers, and Hagerstown will be agreed upon, it was announced. The State per capita tax for the incoming year was fixed at 20 cents, a reduction of 5 cents. The report on membership showed an increase of 36 per cent in the State, with Cumberland Aerie in the lead with 150 new members.

River Shore Raid Nets Liquor Still

Raiding along the river shore below Virginia Highlands in Jefferson District yesterday, Deputy Sheriff Harry L. Woodyard, with Officers Edward Duncan, James Scott and Charles Hager, seized 26 half-gallon jars of alleged liquor, one 15-gallon still and destroyed a quantity of beer.

Officers Scott and Hager, dressed as workmen, approached a house claimed to be occupied by Jack Reed and purchased alleged liquor from a man who gave the name of G. C. Hannah. Reed and Hannah were both arrested, Reed charged with illegal possession and Hannah with selling and illegal possession. The alleged liquor was taken as evidence.

Waiving hearings before Assistant Trial Justice Bryan Gordon both men were held for action of the grand jury which meets Monday at opening of the June term of the circuit court. They were released on $500 bond each.

Phone Honor Given To Gore Fire Hero

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., June 10.—For placing duty above his own personal safety, Ivan F. Vannoy, repairman for the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Virginia, received $250 and the silver Vail medal at a luncheon here today. Presentation was made by Charles H. Weber, general manager for the company in Virginia, and was witnessed by former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd and several public utilities officials.

Relieving a telephone operator who had been on duty in Gore, Va., when a fire broke out and threatened to destroy the town, Mr. Vannoy handled all calls, summoned fire apparatus and ordered dynamite to check the blaze. When adjoining buildings collapsed and the telephone room began to smoke, he moved the switchboard across the road to an open field and resumed service successfully.

In addition to the medal and check, presented by Mr. Weber in behalf of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., a bronze plaque in commemoration of the act has been awarded the company for which he works.

POINT'S JUNE WEEK MARRED BY STORMS

Alumni Exercises at Military Academy Are Forced Indoors by Rain.

Special to The Washington Post.

West Point, N. Y., June 10.—June Week at the United States Military Academy will come to a close tomorrow morning with the graduation of the class of 1931 with appropriate ceremonies at the Battle Monument on Trophy Point. Two hundred and ninety cadets will receive from the hands of the Assistant Secretary of War, Frederick H. Payne, their diplomas and commissions as second lieutenants in the Army. If the weather continues to be rainy the ceremony will be held in the gymnasium.

Two of the most impressive and pleasing ceremonies had to be transferred indors today because of the incessant rain which fell throughout the day. The program called for the alumni exercises and a review of the cadet corps in the grass plain. However, the alumni day ceremony, which is usually held at the Thayer Monument, had to be transferred to Cullum Hall, where, in the presence of the visiting alumni, cadets of the graduating class and the cadet choir, an abbreviated ceremony was carried out. The review was cancelled. At noon the luncheon of the association of graduates was held at the officers' mess and was followed by the annual meeting of the association. The reception to the graduating class and alumni given by Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent, was held in the gymnasium during the afternoon.

Graduation parade, the chief event of the day, was held, however, in spite of the elements, the rain slackening for the moment. After parade came recognition of the plebes, an event in every cadet's life. Tonight the four classes are holding the big graduation hop. Although the attendance this week has been kept down by weather conditions, there are nearly 3,000 persons present.

Immediately following the graduating ceremonies tomorrow morning the newly made officers will be granted leave of absence until mid-September. The class of 1933 will be granted a furlough until August 28. The new first class will leave here on Saturday next for the Chesapeake Bay region, where it will receive intensive training at Fort Monroe, Fort Eustis and Langley Field, in Virginia, and Fort Meade, in Maryland. It will be gone from West Point until about July 6. On July 1 the new plebe class will be admitted.

2 Capital Doctors Are Given Medals

St. Elizabeths Attendants Win Recognition for Brain Studies.

Langenstrauss, of 1009 Eleventh street northwest, both attached to the staff of St. Elizabeths Hospital, in recognition of specimens illustrating diseases of the brain, was announced yesterday by the American Medical Association, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Philadelphia.

The association awarded its gold medal for the best scientific exhibit to Dr. Jacob Furth, of the Henry Phipps Institute, University of Pennsylvania, for original investigation on experimental lukemia and excellence of presentation.

The silver medal went to Dr. Bedford Shelmire, Baylor University of Medicine, Dallas, Tex. Dr. W. E. Dove, United States Bureau of Entomology, Charleston, S. C., received a medal for original work on arresting the spread of tropical fever by the tropical rat mite.

WILLIAM FLETCHER, VETERAN, DIES AT 94

Confederate Soldier Was Furniture Merchant Here for Years.

William H. Fletcher, Confederate veteran and formerly in business here for many years, died Tuesday at John Dixon Home, a week and two days before he would have reached the ninety-fifth milestone.

He had been a member of Benjamin B. French Lodge, No. 15, F. A. A. M., for more than 80 years. That group will hold special rites for him today when he is buried at Congressional Cemetery. Other services will be held earlier at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Alfred C. Fisher, 3843 Garrison street northwest.

After serving in the Confederate Army throughout the Civil War under Gen. Stonewall Jackson, Mr. Fletcher came to Washington from Winchester, Va., his home, in 1865. He became engaged in the furniture and carpet business almost immediately and was active in that line until about twelve years ago when he retired. He was married twice, his first wife, who was Miss Mary E. Ward, dying in 1879. His second wife, Mrs. Sarah E. Fletcher, died in 1929. He had resided at the John Dixon Home where he died since her death.

Mr. Fletcher was a trustee of the old First Presbyterian Church, later merged with the Church of the Covenant. He was of late years a consistent attendant of the Church of Incarnation.

Coming from a well-known Shenandoah Valley family, Mr. Fletcher also was from a family distinguished for its longevity.

His mother died aged 99. Mr. Fletcher was the grandson of Capt. John Ignatius Ettinger, captain of Gen. Washington's bodyguard during the Revolutionary War. His brother, Lewis J. Fletcher, was the youngest captain in the Confederate Army, also serving under Gen. Jackson, and was killed at the battle of Malvern Hill.

Mr. Fletcher had only one child living, Mrs. Fisher, but a number of other relatives, both here and in Virginia, survive him.

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Place your finger on your Adam's Apple. You are actually touching your larynx—this is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords.

What is the effect of modern Ultra Violet Rays upon tobacco? Dr. E. E. Free, one of America's well-known scientists, who was retained by us to study Lucky Strike's manufacturing process, addressing the Illuminating Engineering Society, said:

"The essential effect of the Ultra Violet is the production of better tobacco and of cigarettes regarded by virtually all smokers who have tested them as milder and with a lesser tendency to cause throat irritation."

Here in America LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette that employs Ultra Violet Rays in connection with its exclusive "TOASTING" Process—the only cigarette that brings you the benefits of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process which expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos.

CLAUDEL RECEIVES HONORARY DEGREE

French Ambassador Praised at Catholic University as 432 Graduate.

The Catholic University of America yesterday conferred the honorary degree of doctor of letters upon Paul Claudel, French Ambassador to the United States, when 432 students were awarded academic degrees at the institution's forty-second annual commencement.

Dr. William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, made the commencemnes address, and in the course of his speech he declared that "a science of education is developing entirely apart from any consideration of the philisophy of education."

This science, he declared, has been so objective and so detached from the use of schools for the promotion of any kind of program that it has aroused no antagonism and opened no controversy along political, social, economic or religious lines.

Claudel Is Praised.

The Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore, in conferring the honorary degree upon Ambassador Claudel, lauded the diplomat as being distinguished by ability, faith and upright living, and declared that France had sent us a worthy representative of an illustrious mother as Ambassador.

Others who received honorary degrees were the Right Rev. Paul Ladeuze, rector of the Catholic University of Louvain, doctor of laws, and the Very Rev. Agostino Gemelli, rector of the Catholic University of the Sacred Heart, doctor of laws.

In his address, Commissioner Cooper declared that publishers of school books frequently send one set of histories to children above the Mason and Dixon line, and another to those below the imaginary boundary.

Standard Facts Urged.

He urged that a selection of facts concerning the period of civil disturbance be selected by a competent group and standardized, so that no prejudice would be instilled in the minds of the youth from both sections of the Nation.

Joseph Francis Carven delivered the valedictory, and Archbishop Curley, chancellor of the university, pronounced the benediction.

Degrees were conferred as follows:

Bachelor of science in architecture—Albert Edward Alexander, Guy Lane Dinges, Charles Jerome Dorman, John Louis Rochon Grand, Robert Leslie Praeger, Thomas Michael Sheehan.

WORLD HELD IN NEED OF TRADE TRIBUNAL

Huston Thompson Says Such Instrument Might Cure Economic Ills.

Durham, N. C., June 10 (A.P.).—Formation of a world trade tribunal as a means of bringing harmony out of the present economic conditions was advocated by Dr. Huston Thompson, former chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, addressing the 1931 graduating class of Duke University today.

Dr. Thompson described the "battle line" of tomorrow as representing chaos on one side and a world trade tribunal on the other. To this battle line he summoned the graduates.

"We are in a state of shell shock and disillusionment," Dr. Thompson declared. "We have lost faith for the moment in ourselves, and fear has taken possession of us. It is for this reason we are in need of you who are about to enter upon the stage of life as no generation in the past has needed another."

Outlines Tribunal's Functions.

"How are we going to disarm the nations physically until we disarm economically?" he asked. "Do not all present-day wars come, in the last analysis, from economic pressure? There is every reasonable hope that we will adjust justiciable matters through the World Court. There is no forum, however, where the great concrete, economic problems have an opportunity of being settled. Until there is, what hope is there for a real disarmament?

"I propose that we set up a world trade tribunal whose representatives shall be selected, just as members of the World Court, through the League of Nations. It can function in an independent way upon the world's major economic problems. I know that Woodrow Wilson had this in mind when he was fighting to put the covenant in the Versailles Treaty. If it had not been that he was struggling against such great odds to get any covenant through, I am confident that he would have inserted a paragraph providing for such a tribunal just as he did for the international labor office in the World Court. The need for it can be appreciated when we realize that the interrelation and interdependence of nations today and the impossibility of any one nation's seeing beyond the color and circumstances of its nationalistic life.

America's Experience Cited.

"Few of the great economic problems can be settled simply by discussion in economic conferences of the league. We learned in evolution of governmental affairs in America that it was necessary to set up courts and commisions that could handle concrete cases. The time has arrived for dealing with the concrete internationally. The league will always be most important in bringing about international cooperation. It will be the forum where problems will first be presented and discussed. Then they can be assigned to either the World Court, the labor office of the world trade tribunal to be acted on in concrete form."

The tribunal would not offend nations by issuing orders, the speaker explained. He said it would hold hearings and make investigations at the instance of the League of Nations and publish the findings made. These would be sent to the offending nations and published to the world.

It would be this publicity that would bring about the agreement of the nation in the wrong to the verdict of the trade body, he added.

DR. COOPER SAYS FREEDOM IN PERIL

G.W.U. Speaker Warns Each Amendment Is Threat to U. S. Liberties.

Declaring American freedom in jeopardy, United States Commissioner of Education William John Cooper last night told a George Washington University graduating class that "our land of the free" has become the heritage of a generation "ready and willing to sweep away the constitutional guarantees of liberty."

He held up the eighteenth amendment as an example of this trend, and, "to show that he was not prejudiced against the cause," cited the seventeenth amendment along with it. He asserted that a "danger to freedom" is involved every time the Constitution is amended.

The occasion was the one hundred and tenth annual commencement exercises of the university at Constitution Hall. More than 700 graduates of various colleges and departments reecived degrees. Dr. Cooper himself received the honorary degree of doctor of science at the hands of Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of the university.

Attacks War Psychology.

Dr. Cooper's assault was not so much upon constitutional amendments as it was upon the "generation born and educated during the war crisis and the years immediately following it."

He was fearful lest they "come to regard the war attitude as the normal condition of a free people and that valued popular rights which meant so much to the founders of our republic will not be appreciated by them and so will be lost to their children."

"In our intolerant attitude toward peaceful advocates of distasteful causes," he said, "and in our use of force in breaking up their assemblies, we do indicate that 'freedom is not as precious to this generation as it was to some of their ancestors.'"

Foresight Held Lacking.

Discussing the eighteenth amendment, he said that proponents of prohibition were considering chiefly the merits of their cause, and did not foresee the vast transfer of police powers to the Federal Government it was to involve.

Likewise those who were responsible for the seventeenth amendment did not foresee "that popular election in a large and populous State placed a poor man at a disadvantage in contrast with a rich man, and that an independent candidate would have no chance in opposition to a well organized machine," he said.

GLOOM AND RAINBOWS.

Between the profound abyss of gloom in which Sir George Paish, the British economist, gropes and groans and the sunny uplands trod by the cheerful Assistant Secretary of Commerce, Julius Klein, there is a wide gulf.

Back in 1927 Sir George was crying out with the voice of a prophet that Americans were living in a fool's paradise. Now he is solemnly proclaiming, "I told you so." On the surface it does look as if he possessed unusual clairvoyant powers. But when one remembers that Sir George is the chief apostle of gloom, that he never sees anything but black depression so long as the United States refuses to assume Great Britain's debts, his wailing becomes less ominous. The very fact that he is beginning to predict new and unforeseen calamities probably means that he fears the world will regain prosperity without canceling the war debts.

Dr. Klein, on the other hand, is convinced that the bottom of the depression was reached last January, and that since that time the country has been gathering strength for the ascent up the opposite side of the valley. When the upward climb does begin he believes that prosperity will return with a suddenness that will surprise depression-ridden business.

Between these views perhaps the actuality will be found. The public is not so optimistic as is Dr. Klein, and the individuals are few indeed who have passed under a shadow as black as that which clouds the vision of Sir George Paish. Many factors tend to strengthen public confidence. The cheapness of credit, the abundance of money, the increasing demand for goods to replenish exhausted stocks and replace worn-out articles, all point to a stimulation of business activity. A general feeling of good will exists between capital and labor and there is no threat of organized disturbances in this field. The economic stage is set for business recovery.

Nevertheless, there is some danger in making an about-face too abruptly. Unseasoned predictions of returning prosperity tend only to weaken public confidence. Mistaken forecasts of the expected upswing have been heard so frequently since the depression began that any repetition of optimistic claims loses its effectiveness. The public knows too well that no one is able to run ahead and tell the world what lies just over the next hillock.

What the public needs most is a determination to gauge the situation as it is, and to make the most of it. So long as prosperity is expected just around the corner, needed retrenchment may be neglected and people may be less inclined to work themselves out of trouble. Whatever may be achieved in the future will be based on hard work that is done now. Those who simply hang on in the hope that fortune will come without effort on their part are liable to be disappointed. Let business face facts—current facts—and begin a new climb on the assumption that there is hard sledding ahead, but that intelligent and persistent work will bring its rewards. This is no time for lazy reliance upon an automatic return of prosperity, or for giving up to the counsel of despair.

FIGHTING LEPROSY.

Announcement is made that the fund for the Leonard Wood memorial for the eradication of leprosy has been fully subscribed. Americans have contributed more than $2,000,000 that will be employed to aid in the campaign to exterminate the dread disease in the Philippines.

Gen. James G. Harbord, who has been chairman of the board in charge of collecting this memorial fund, in thanking the 50,000 subscribers gives assurance that the proceeds are being distributed under the guidance of experienced scientists and that the encouraging results in leprosy treatment and the international good will that have resulted are but forecasts of greater progress in these respects in the future.

A report by the president of the organization, Mr. Perry Burgess, gives interesting details of the centuries-old fight against leprosy as it is being advanced by Americans. After American occupation of the Philippines a treatment station was established at Culion, which is now the largest leprosy colony in the world, caring for nearly 6,000 inmates. A large proportion of the health appropriation of the insular government of the Philippines goes toward the expense of fighting this single disease.

In 1927, following the appeal of Gen. Wood, then Governor General of the Philippines, a campaign was started in the United States to raise the $2,000,000 fund to cooperate with the island government in the heavy task with which it was confronted in combatting leprosy, as well as to make available to other parts of the world the latest discoveries of science with respect to this disease. The plans, now happily realized, are to spend about one-fourth of the amount raised in new buildings and equipment, the balance to be used as semiendowment, both principal and interest to be expended over a period of about fifteen years.

The first appeal for funds in this country was signed by Henry L. Stimson, former Governor General of the Philippines, now Secretary of State, while the board of directors of the memorial comprises a number of prominent Americans headed by Chief Justice Hughes. The recent completion of the model leprosarium on the Island of Cebu, 400 miles south of Manila, with a capacity of 780 patients, is one more step in the splendid humanitarian work which this fund is helping to extend. Its research work is world-wide in its application.

ANOTHER WHEAT SURPLUS.

Forecasts from the Bureau of Agricultural Economics that this year's crop of winter wheat will amount to about 100,000,000 bushels more than the five-year average brings into bold relief the failure of the Farm Board to curtail wheat production. The latest estimates indicate that the harvest which is now beginning will amount to 649,115,000 bushels. This compares with a crop of 604,337,000 bushels in 1930 and an average of 547,427,000 during the last five years.

Such an enormous harvest forebodes lower prices than the farmer has yet seen. The Farm Board is hoarding approximately 200,000,000 bushels which it bought up last year to relieve the market. To this a new surplus, probably of equal volume, must be added. It is improbable that the Farm Board will be able to dispose of its holdings without a great sacrifice in price and without demoralizing the market. Presumably this Government-owned wheat will remain in storage, eating up its own value through deterioration and carrying charges. Farmers and their cooperative associations will be left to struggle with the new surplus.

To what extent the Farm Board is responsible for this situation can not be accurately measured, but no one who has watched the reaction of wheat growers to the board's policies can doubt that the board has been a powerful influence in stimulating a larger crop. The vast acreage which is about to be harvested was planted while farmers were under the impression that the board intended to remain active in the wheat market. It is highly improbable that the crop of hard winter wheat would have been increased by 10 per cent if farmers had not pegged their hopes on price-pegging by the Farm Board.

After winter crops were in the ground the Farm Board apparently saw its mistake. In order to avoid a heavy increase in spring plantings also, the board announced that it would not attempt to stabilize prices on this year's crop. As a result the acreage sowed to spring wheat decreased 12 per cent, but the crop of winter wheat is so large that nothing short of a freak of nature could prevent the addition of an enormous amount to the existing surplus.

It is true that members of the Farm Board have talked themselves hoarse trying to induce farmers to cut down their wheat acreage. But advice amounts to nothing so long as there are prospects of obtaining a fair price for next year's crop. It must be admitted that thus far the board has worked at cross purposes. Its acts encouraged overplanting while its words pleaded for curtailment. The board is now confronted with the necessity of starting all over again on a wheat curtailment program, but this time it will be hampered by its blunder in accumulating last year's surplus, to say nothing of its loss of prestige and the depletion of its funds.

FOR PURE FOOD.

Entrance of the American Medical Association in establishing a system of indorsing pure and wholesome food products, is making a most interesting experiment. At present the public is protected only by the pure food law enforced by the Department of Agriculture. Most foods unfit for public consumption are kept from the market under the operation of this statute, but the public is still victimized by false advertisements and innumerable dietary fads and frauds.

The Medical Association intends to indorse every wholesome food that is brought to its special committee for investigation, providing that it is honestly advertised. When a food product has been brought into conformity with the association's standards it may use a seal showing that it has the indorsement of that organization's specialists. All foods so approved must be submitted for frequent tests to see if their standards of excellence are being maintained. The committee will also undertake to censor all advertisements of these indorsed products. If they should be falsely represented to the public the indorsement would, of course, be withdrawn.

The rigid scrutiny to which products are subjected by the committee is illustrated by its action on the 500 foods which it examined last year. Seventy-five were allowed to use the seal, but 425 were found to be objectionable in some respect. In many cases the objection relates to inaccurate advertising. Some manufacturers are renaming their products, and others are changing the character of their advertisements to bring their foods within the association's requirements.

This committee has an opportunity to perform service of inestimable value to the public. The Government is not able to detect all misbranded and adulterated foods. It does well to protect consumers from deliberate fraud and impurities. The medical association proposes to add to this service a guide to excellence in edibles. It is quite impossible for the buying public to know the relative value of comestibles in these days of manufactured foods, yet it is highly important that the housewife should be able to choose wisely. The contribution which the medical association proposes to make will be most welcome.

Food manufacturers are not, of course, required to have their products tested by this voluntary committee, but the value of an indorsement by the medical association is incentive enough to induce all high grade firms to seek its approval. No fee is charged for investigating a food, and the chances of an unworthy product being indorsed are negligible. This experiment should go a long way toward improving the quality of food that is consumed, as well as driving out useless concoctions and promoting truthfulness in advertising.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., June 10.—A long standing problem, sometimes growing into the proportions of a dispute between the President and the Senate, exists over the making of appointments. Individual senators, representatives and other public officers and members of political committees often claim the right to make a choice of whom the President shall appoint.

No President is likely to have sufficient knowledge of conditions and persons so that he can make the thousands of appointments required without the help and advice of others. Naturally he asks senators and representatives to help about selections in their States and districts. But there are other sources of information, and the responsibility for nominating is with the President. Any mistake will be charged to him.

The correct procedure is to observe the Constitution, the law and the facts. The appointing power is in the President. The confirming power is in the Senate. Let him consult the senators in the usual way about proposed appointments and little difficulty will arise. No President can surrender the all-important appointing power. No senator or representative wants to be ignored. Like other seeming difficulties, it will be solved by everybody patiently doing what the Constitution directs. CALVIN COOLIDGE.

FACTS ABOUT THE TARIFF

From the Manufacturers Record.

The opportunity offered for attack on the United States protective tariff by certain business and financial groups is by no means the least American misfortune in the world-wide depression. The harm is accentuated by the fact that in time of stress loose talking develops in proportion with loose thinking, and bare assertions are swallowed without investigation and without thought of experiences in the past.

Summarized, the main bases for these attacks are: (1) America must purchase freely from foreign lands, to provide money with which the foreigners can buy American goods; (2) the United States is under moral and economic obligation to help foreign countries up to prosperity; (3) the widespread and often almost prohibitive tariffs of other lands are merely retaliatory measures against the American protective tariff.

Against these points may legitimately be presented the following facts: Lowering the American tariff would not promote American export trade appreciably, if at all; over 65 per cent of our imports enter free of duty; (2) the United States can best help the rest of the world by first helping itself; (3) foreign tariffs are not directed against American goods alone, but have been revived by various countries for individual protection against each other.

Under the first head, it is computed that the consumption capacity of all the world outside the United States is approximately one-sixth per capita of American capacity. The American market is overwhelmingly the market for American goods, and the foreign market is of little weight in comparison. By throwing this American market wide open to the near-pauper products of other lands the United States would lose its own primary market, without gaining appreciable increase in its foreign sales.

American merchandise exports under the McKinley protective tariff in 1893 and 1894 ran to $1,730,000,000, compared with $1,660,000,000 under the Wilson low tariff in 1895 and 1896. The last year of the Wilson law, 1897, showed $1,050,000,000 in American exports, as against $1,230,000,000 in the first year of the Dingley protective law, 1898. Under the Fordney-McCumber high tariff in 1929, American exports totaled $5,240,000,000, or $120,000,000 more than each of the years 1914 and 1915 showed under low tariff, even with heavy war demands from abroad. American exports have flourished under a protective tariff.

The United States absorbs approximately 90 per cent of American production. To throw this market wide open to the products of near-pauper labor, in comparison with labor at American wage levels, inevitably will force American labor and capital into idleness. This has been proved conclusively under low tariff laws.

Deprived of the protective tariff, American labor must sink to the pay and living standards of the cheapest among its foreign competitors. The American people would not be able to buy the foreign goods which the antitariff group urges them to purchase, "so that foreigners, in turn, will buy our goods." The general foreign poverty, conspicuous in comparison with the United States, would invade American economic life and debase living standards. We submit that the United States can best help the rest of the world, economically and in morale, by maintaining our own standards and inspiring others upward, rather than by degrading ourselves.

Consider the climate, be charitable. When the American women return who have been taken to court in London, greet them as if nothing had happened.

Ralph Capone, Al's brother, protests against the little $300,000 error in the tax board's claim. He says he lost more money gambling and on horse races than he received, and anyhow it should be exempt because his business was all illegal. Smartness just runs in that family.

Minister Tardieu convulsed a Paris audience by explaining that "you can have anything you want to drink in a New York restaurant if you bring it along yourself and check it in the cloakroom." Americans present were amused at Andre's naive supposition that you could check a drink in New York and ever see it again.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE future of a nation is determined in the schoolroom. This is a truism.

But there are schools of many kinds, and the one that makes the deepest impression is the one that makes the strongest appeal to self-interest.

It teaches girls how to dress and how to fix their hair; it teaches older women how to set the table, how to furnish the living room, how to greet guests; it teaches manners, customs and standards.

From the movies young America learns that "nice" people—the kind of people he envies and mimics—have an abundance of money, made without soiling their hands; that all such people serve cocktails in their homes; that the young women smoke many cigarettes and kiss a great deal; that both sexes, married and single, take their love-adventure where they can find it; that the chief end of life is to dress well, drive fast, make wisecracks, make money and make whoopee.

This is not intended to be an indictment of the cinema. Making movies is a business, conducted for profit, and must keep a watchful eye on the box office. It provides what the public is willing to buy.

But with or without movies, America must provide another kind of schooling to avoid disaster.

Young people can be taught any kind of standards.

Tell a youth in Russia that you are trying to get rich and he will answer: "What! Devoting your life to private gain! How vile!"

He has been taught that selfish efforts to get a profit are swinish. To work for the common good is his ideal and his religion. To him it seems as decent and as natural as the desire to "get ahead" seems to an American.

You may not agree with the teachings of Communism, but at least you will admire the forethought and sound sense that prompt leaders in Russia to teach children the standards and ideals necessary to preserve their conception of the perfect civilization.

There is no national standard of decency and good citizenship.

Parents and teachers and religious institutions urge young people to "be good" and to love their country, but character-making is left to chance environment, the public prints, the cinema and circumstance.

You may sneer at "regimentation" if you will, but the flower no longer cultivated again becomes a weed.

PRO AND CON

The Republican Surplus.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The Republican national committee reports a surplus of $53,062. This is a comfortable balance, considering that it has made no appeal for funds and lacks an "angel" of the Raskob pattern. More interesting is the fact disclosed in the report that the committee has been spending some money, $75,783, since March 1. This is what it has cost to reply to the Democratic antiadministration barrage. The Democrats, of course, have spent much more, and they have piled up a deficit of $707,000, of which $295,000 is owing to Mr. Raskob.

On March 1 the Republican committee had $124,510 on hand. Since then it has received contributions of $4,836. During the same period Mr. Raskob advanced $40,000 to his committee and contributions from outsiders amounted to only a few hundred dollars. The Republicans, unlike their Democratic brethren, have no need to engage professional money-raisers, offer medals to financial life-savers and employ other strenuous measures for providing the sinews of war. The Democrats have prepared a 1932 budget calling for $6,000,000 as a starter. They may get it if Mr. Raskob is willing to contribute about $5,900,000 more. That would be in proportion to his recent loans and contributions.

Premature Progressives.

Detroit Free Press.

The Progressives are busy remedying all the ills of which the country is a victim. They generally start that job about a year before the national party conventions are held, and get it all out of their systems by the time the gavel falls.

Columnist Calvin.

Atlanta Constitution.

The report is given out that former President Coolidge is tiring of his contract to furnish a daily 200-word article for a newspaper syndicate. It was predicted in these columns when he began that work that it would eventually become irksome to him. Even the most seasoned professional columnists of the daily press find it necessary to flagellate their spirits and brains at times in order to keep up their "demnition horrid grind." They all confess it.

Few persons not engaged in catering to the daily reading public can even imagine the mental strain on one who undertakes to find every day things worth while to write about to the satisfaction of his own sincerity.

If he is writing a specialty column, whether it be concerning politics, features of current life, the humor suited to the period, health counsel, advice to the erotic, or to the disillusioned in the bogs of married life, he comes upon "blind spots" on the roll of his routine. He often throws up his hands and says "What's the use?"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

When America Neglects Her Defenses and Fighting Presbyterians Become Conscientious Objectors, Look Out for War.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As one whose early and principal sources of nutriment were oatmeal and the Shorter Catechism, I note with some amazement that the Presbyterian general assembly has taken cognizance of Federal discrimination in favor of the Quakers as to military service and against Presbyterians who may be conscientious objectors. With all due deference to Hon. Andrew Mellon and Hon. Will Hayes, who are presbyters in my church, modern Presbyterians are not cast in the mold of our forebears.

A proverb in the land o' cakes and brither Scots runs to the effect that "Presbyterians are as prone to fight as sparks are to fly upward." Indeed I have heard the argument well supported that if there had been twelve braw Scots, armed with claymore and dirk, instead of a wheen o' feckless fisher folk, the great tragedy as reported in the Scriptures never could have taken place in the outskirts of Jerusalem.

Rumblings of war from Europe or the prediction of Ludendorff of another war of nations in July 1932, should have no terrors for a Presbyterian of the old school. Europe is always on the verge of war and Ludendorff is merely war-minded. The most dependable signs of the near approach of war are to be found here in the United States.

When we refuse to believe war possible and leave off being prepared—that is an almost certain sign that war is in the offing. We are nearly always caught unprepared. My brother went through the war in the Philippines armed with a Springfield as against the Mausers of the bland Filipino. He had his share of embalmed beef and weevilly bread because the country had prepared for eventualities. In the last war we wasted billions of dollars in the last minute desperation to do what millions would have done if we had taken our time to it. We are paying for that folly now in the existing depression. But do we learn? We do not. We cry peace when there is no peace—and the very fact that we cry peace is the one sure omen of impending war. The other sign that tends to confirm it is not Ludendorff's prophesy but, at least to me, is when Presbyterians become conscientious objectors. In such case I would expect a war of unexampled violence very shortly.

Baltimore Citizen Asks Gov. Roosevelt's Attitude on League of Nations.

To the Editor of The Post:—Sir: To Mr. Franklin Roosevelt: The American people would like to ask you if you intend to try to revive dead issues, which they have again and again pronounced un-American, undesirable and dangerous to the safety, independence and freedom of the Government and people? These issues, so far as America is concerned, are marked "The League of Nations and its World Court." No matter if Col. House or the devil himself is backing you, the people will overwhelmingly defeat any one who would betray them by selling their birthright to liberty and independence to save a few shekels for the international bankers.

HENRY W. FILLMAN.

Baltimore, Md.

Washington Man Doesn't See as Many Drunken Persons as in the Old Days.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am interested in reading the letters published in your paper from time to time about prohibition. Some of them are most extraordinary in their statements.

Take, for instance, the letter published the other day, in which the writer says "he can truthfully say that he sees more and worse drunken people under prohibition than he ever saw in the old wet days."

Perhaps this man is too young to remember those days; perhaps not. I should like to know where they find all these drunks. What places do they frequent?

In the old wet days one did not have to frequent any particular place to see them, for they were on the streets, and if you happened to pass the vicinity of a saloon any time late in the evening you could always see them staggering about.

I have not seen half a dozen drunks in the past year in Washington. Of course, you may have to go to some of these places to see them. I go back and forth across the city every day to business, and down town to the moving pictures and around the city everywhere and very seldom do I see a drunken person.

To me these days are such a vast improvement over the old ones that I hope we shall never go back, and we can not, for going back is not in the line of progress. This is a new age, fast traveling, through the air, on the ground. There is no place for drinkers. We do not want them at the helm; we can not trust our lives to them.

Give the young folks time. The worthless ones will adjust themselves.

Statue of John Brown Suggested for Statuary Hall—But From What State?

10,000 SLAUGHTERED IN CHINESE BATTLE

Reds Use Farmers as Human Shield to Face Fire of Machine Guns.

Nanking, June 10 (A.P.).—Wholesale slaughter of noncombatant farmers, used by reds in Kiangsi province as a human shield to cover an advance against government troops, was told in dispatches today from Nanchang. It was estimated 10,000 persons were slain.

Despite the reports of red and bandit incursions, the government insisted its campaign against them was meeting with success and that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek soon would establish headquarters at Nanchang.

Hankow reports, however, said Nanchang itself might fall to advancing reds as government troops, with shattered morale, were offering only feeble resistance.

The slaughter near Kiangtu took place when the reds attacked 3,000 government troops.

Federal Force Massacred.

Fearing to charge against raking machine-gun fire, the reds drove noncombatants before them. Government troops, knowing the red attackers lurked behind the human shield, opened fire and mowed down thousands. Machine guns overheated and jammed as the carnage progressed and the reds broke through to massacre the government troops.

Overflowing from Kiangsi Province, 40,000 other Reds were reported descending upon Yenping, in northern Fukien. Provincial soldiers retreated before them, and foreign missionaries fled to the seaport of Foochow. Ten American refugees said the whole country about Yenping was overrun by Reds.

The City of Changshu was reported captured and Fuchow, 10 kilometers from Nanchang, was besieged.

Both Pay Neutral General.

For the moment the insurrection brewing in south China lost importance in the face of destruction by Red armies. The famous "silver bullet" of Chinese conflict—bribery—was said to have been used by both the Canton insurgent government and the Nationalist government at Nanking.

Gen. Chen Ming-Shu, ousted governor of Kwangtung Province, was reported to have returned from Japan and accepted money from both sides in return for his pledge of neutrality.

U.S. Court Building To Start in Autumn

Specifications for Bidders Will Be Ready Next Month, Lynn Says.

Construction of the United States Supreme Court Building may get under way in September, according to David Lynn, architect of the Capitol, who yesterday made known the specifications will be ready for distribution to bidders by July 15.

Bids will be opened September 2, it was said. The building will be erected of white marble on a site facing the Capitol between East Capitol street, Maryland avenue, First and Second streets. Congress has authorized $9,740,000.

Cass Gilbert, Cass Gilbert, jr., and John R. Rockart have drawn plans for the building. They call for a three-story building, with a courtroom 80 feet by 80 feet, about one-third larger than the present courtroom in the Capitol Building. There will be space for a law library and offices for the various justices.

Newspaper Paper Tariff Raise Urged

(Associated Press.)

Higher tariffs on newsprint paper were urged yesterday by O. M. Anderson, of Everett, Wash., before a meeting of the United States Timber Conservation Board.

Anderson said a way was needed to stop dumping newsprint in the United States at less than the cost of production. He added strict legislation was needed to bar products produced by conscripted labor.

R. S. Kellogg, of New York, secretary of the newsprint Service Bureau, presented charts showing consumption of newsprint in the United States had increased from 6 pounds per capita in 1860 to 62 pounds in 1929 and that now it is about 55 pounds per capita.

Bar Group Eliminates Charges for Initiation

By a margin of seven votes, members of the District Bar Association voted to eliminate initiation fees to the association. More than 120 lawyers attended the meeting at the Cosmos Club.

The association empowered George P. Hoover, president, to select five lawyers to make a study of title, trust, collection and other businesses of a similar nature here. The committee will report at the October meeting. The American Bar Association will be invited to hold its 1932 session in this city.

TENNESSEE KEEPS 'MONKEY' STATUTE

Nashville, Tenn., June 10 (A.P.).—The Tennessee House of Representatives today voiced its approval of a statute prohibiting teaching of the theory of evolution in schools wholly or partly supported by State funds by rejecting a bill to repeal the law.

There were only 14 votes against the motion to reject the repealing measure, offered by Representative Robert M. Murray, and 58 votes in behalf of rejection.

Before the vote, Murray spoke in defense of his bill, which he said was introduced in a "spirit of enlightenment." "I'm getting tired of having people of other States refer to Tennessee as the State with the monkey statute," he said.

Orators Differ on Law.

The vote on the repeal measure today was preceded by considerable oratory of the champions of the evolution law.

"Uncle Billy" Matthews, oldest member of the House, said, "If the doctrine of evolution is right, then our Bible is wrong."

Representative Robert P. Brown, of Hickman, joined those seeking the rejection of the repealing statute. "I don't know whether man evolved from a monkey or not," he said. "I believe that God created the universe and that He made man. The law has nothing to do with your religion or belief. If you want to believe that you descended from a monkey, it is all right with me. Or you may continue to believe that God created us in His infinite wisdom.

"This law is slumbering peacefully in our State statutes and will never do any harm to a single individual in this House. It is not as important to worry about how you came here as what is going to become of you hereafter."

Says Law Hurts State.

W. Y. Boswell, of Morgan County, favored repeal of the evolution statute.

"It has done more to injure the good name of the State, and more to indict the intelligence of Tennessee than any bill that was ever passed," he declared.

Tennessee's antievolution law's first spring into the limelight was when John T. Scopes was indicted at Dayton, Tenn., in 1925 on charges of violating the statute. He was charged with teaching the theory of evolution in a school supported by State funds.

Clarence Darrow, noted criminal lawyer of Chicago, and Dudley Field Malone, of New York, came to the little mountain town to defend the young teacher. William Jennings Bryan was among those prosecuting the case in the name of religious fundamentalism. Scopes was convicted and fined. The Tennessee Supreme Court later upheld the constitutionality of the law.

Will Celebrate Bunker Hill Day.

The big annual outing of the Massachusetts State Society of Washington, held in commemoration of Bunker Hill Day, which is a holiday in the old Bay State, will be held Saturday afternoon and evening, June 20, at the Olney Inn, Md., it has been announced by George A. Hernan, chairman of committee on arrangements.

Cabinet Group Joins in Fete For Disabled

Kline, sr., J. R. Finney and E. R. Campbell.

Among those from Walter Reed Hospital was Albert Gonzales, a blind veteran, who has completed a high school course, as well as the difficult course in Braille since his residence at the hospital.

Cabinet Members and Wives Join in Greeting.

Cabinet members and their wives were at the party. Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, wife of the Secretary of State, came down from the south portico of the White House unattended, soon to find herself the center of a group of friends. She was becomingly gowned in a frock of black and yellow printed crepe, with small yellow flowers on the dark background.

Among the most popular guests with the veterans were more than 50 pretty girls in summer frocks representing each State and the insular possessions in the veterans' bureau.

Then there were ten maidens who formed the cigarette brigade. Following the greetings President and Mrs. Hoover retired to the south portico and watched while the broke out fags and matches for the veterans. Later uniformed aids supervised the provision of bountiful supplies of refreshments.

Miss Margaret Hagen, field director at St. Elizabeths, assisted by Dr. J. L. Henderson, shouldered the responsibility for guests from that hospital. Patients were taken to the White House by the Motor Corps of the Red Cross, of which Mrs. F. G. Montgomery is captain.

145 From Naval Hospital Are Greeted.

From Mount Alto, the diagnostic center, came 130 veterans, in charge of Miss Agnes Brophy, director there of the Red Cross service. Aiding her was Mr. Earle Gregory and Dr. Victor Almone, commanding officer at the hospital.

Walter Reed was represented by a large contingent of former soldiers. Looking after their needs in preparation for the party was Miss Margaret Lower, field director, who could not attend the fete, but "on the ground" and in charge of the group were Brig. Gen. C. E. Darnall, Col. William Kelter and Mrs. Mabel Shackleford, recreational director, all assisted by the Grey Ladies.

Mrs. Gann Heads Group Of Cabinet Family.

The Cabinet group was headed by Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, who came in with Mr. Gann. She wore a gown of chiffon, printed in green and beige. The Secretary of War, Mr. Patrick J. Hurley, arrived late without the attractive Mrs. Hurley, who is not in town. Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, wore a smart costume of blue and white printed crepe, with a coat of black georgette and a black straw hat. In the course of the afternoon she wandered about looking for Massachusetts veterans with whom she could talk about her home State. Finding a group of elderly men, Mrs. Adams asked if she could sit and chat for a few minutes. One of them moved around in his chair, and with a strong New England twang, said, "Yes, ye kin set as long as ye like, but I ain't no conversationalist." Mrs. Adams interested him sufficiently to discover that he was from Massachusetts and had married an Adams, and so in true Boston fashion, the Adams spoke to the Adams.

Mrs. Mitchell, wife of the Attorney General, wore a gown of Lanvin green printed crepe, with a large black hat. Mrs. Brown, wife of the Postmaster General, also was in green with a smart green hat to match her costume. The Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Robert Patterson Lamont joined the Cabinet group early in the afternoon, the latter looking smart in a black and white ensemble.

The chief of the Veterans' Administration, Maj. Gen. Frank T. Hines, was graciously greeted by many of the men, and Mrs. Hines, wearing a costume of black crepe, with a small black straw hat, chatted with the many people whom she met.

Mrs. Eugene Meyer, jr., wife of the governor of the Federal Reserve Board, who came from the portico of the White House shortly before the appearance of the President and Mrs. Hoover, was approached by a police officer with the query, "Are you one of the invited guests?"

Mrs. Hoover Heads Guests At Women's Club Fete.

Mrs. Hoover headed the list of honor guests at the first annual luncheon given by the Federation of Women's Clubs at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday. Among guests of honor were Mrs. George Lorimer, wife of the editor of the Saturday Evening Post, a guest of Mrs. Hoover at the White House; Mrs. Edward E. Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis; Mrs. Frank W. Mondell, president of the League of Republican Women; Mrs. John Dickson Sherman, past president of the General Federation, and one of the presidential commissioners of the Bicentennial Commission; Mrs. John F. Sippel, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Tilman Parks, wife of Representative Parks, of Arkansas.

Strickland Gillilan, editor of the Nation's Capital Magazine, guest speaker, gave a "Confidential Confab." Mrs. Flora McGill rendered a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Mildred Kolb Schultze. Mrs. Raymond B. Dickey, violinist, was heard in a group of selections, accompanied by Mrs. C. W. Freitag. Greetings from the General Federation were extended by Mrs. Sippel, with response from Mrs. Virginia White Speel, General Federation director.

Mrs. Edgar B. Meritt, president of the federation, presided over the gathering. Hostesses were Mrs. Russell Clinchy, Mrs. Charles Grandfield, Mrs. Ellis Logan, Mrs. Frank Morrison, Mrs. Ernest Gude, Mrs. James Underwood, Mrs. Ella S. Haight, Mrs. Frank J. Brunner, Mrs. Charles Keyser, Mrs. R. E. Holm, Mrs. A. B. McManus, Mrs. L. E Felter, and Mrs. Henry Albers. Miss Marion Hunter and Miss Marion Rose acted as pages.

Mrs. Hurley to See West Point Exercises.

Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, wife of the Secretary of War, has gone to West Point to attend the graduation exercises. She will be a guest on the yacht of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred I. du Pont. The four Hurley children are in Ventnor, N. J., where Mrs. Hurley will join them.

The surgeon general of the Public Health Service, Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, will arrive in New York today abord the Leviathan, after passing some time in Europe.

Mr. Warren Delano Robbins, United States Minister to Salvador, who was recently appointed chief of the new division of protocol in the State Department, was the guest of honor at a luncheon given Tuesday in New York by the Pan-American Society at India House.

Mr. Robbins was introduced by Mr. John L. Merrill, president of the society. Those at the speaker's table included Mr. William Miller Collier, former Ambassador to Chile and Spain; Mr. Edward F. Feely, Minister to Bolivia; Mr. Montgomery Schuyler, former Minister to Salvador; Commander G. M. Dyott, who recently led an exploring expedition into Brazil, and Mr. William Manger, chief of the finance division of the Pan-American Union.

Martha Mead to Wed In Hyannisport, Mass.

The marriage of Miss Martha Montague Mead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Jennings Mead, to Mr. William Ladd Hallowell, son of Mrs. John W. Hallowell, of Boston, will take place at noon, June 30, in the church of St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, at Hyannis Port, Mass., with the Rev. Dr. Ze Barney Phillips, rector of Epiphany Church, Washington, officiating.

Miss Mead, who will be given in marriage by her father, has chosen as her attendant, Miss Eleanor Hallowell, sister of the bridegroom. Mr. John W. Hallowell will be best man for his brother. The ushers will be Mr. Roger Hallowell, another brother; Mr. Winthrop H. Churchill and Mr. Robert Hallowell, of Boston, cousins of the bridegroom; Mr. James J. Mead, jr., of New York, and Mr. Montague Mead, of Washington, brothers of the bride; Mr. Louis Stott, of New York, and Mr. Norman Vaughn, of Boston.

A breakfast will follow the ceremony at the summer cottage which Mr. and Mrs. Mead will occupy for the season, at South Yarmouth, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Lawson have returned to Washington from Johannesburg, South Africa, for an indefinite stay. The former has been serving there for three years as United States Trade Commissioner. They were the guests in whose honor Dr. and Mrs. Everett M. Ellison entertained at dinner on Tuesday.

Smart Wedding Makes Bride Of Miss Eustis

Select Company Witness Rites of Union With D. E. Finley.

One of the smartest weddings of the spring season took place yesterday. It was that of Miss Margaret Morton Eustis, daughter of Mrs. William Corcoran Eustis, and Mr. David E. Finley, son of Mrs. David E. Finley, of York, S. C. The ceremony was performed in the afternoon by the Rev. Campbell Mayers, at Oatlands, the country home of the bride's mother, near Leesburg, Va., in the presence of a small group of close friends and relatives, who motored from Washington for the wedding.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Morton Eustis, wore a gown of white chiffon, fashioned on princess lines with flowing draperies, and a veil of old lace, which had been worn by her mother.

She carried a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Miss Anne Livingston Eustis, schoolgirl sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a frock of pale-blue chiffon with a wide-brimmed hat to match and carried a bouquet of summer flowers in shades of pink. Miss Edith Eustis, another sister of the bride, was absent from the wedding, as she is in England visiting.

The best man was Mr. Gist Finley, of York, S. C., a brother of the bridegroom, and the ushers were another brother, Mr. S. R. G. Finley; the Counseltor of the British Embassy, Mr. Ronald Ian Campbell; the Second Secretary of the Belgian Embassy, Count Francois de Buisseret; Mr. Herschel Johnson, of the State Department; Mr. Arthur Hellen and Mr. Foxhall Daingerfield, of Washington, and Mr. Roger Cortesi and Mr. Floyd Blair, of New York.

A reception followed the ceremony at Oatlands for those who had attended the wedding, after which Mr. and Mrs. Finley started for New York, from where they will sail to Europe. On their return they will make their home in Washington.

Miss Eustis is the niece of Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, of Westbury, Long Island, and the granddaughter of Mr. George Eustis, member of Congress from Louisiana before the Civil War, and the great-granddaughter of W. W. Corcoran, Washington philanthropist, who built and endowed the Corcoran Gallery of Art.

On her mother's side she is the granddaughter of Levi P. Morton, Vice President under President Harrison, and Governor of New York.

Mr. Finley is the son of the late David E. Finley, for many years member of Congress from South Carolina. On coming to Washington, Mr. Finley was appointed special assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Paul Mellon's Horses Will Be Shown Today

Entries of Secretary's Son to Be Exhibited at Upperville, Va.

For the first time, the horses of Mr. Paul Mellon, son of the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Andrew W. Mellon, will be shown on the Virginia circuit, at the Upperville horse show, today and tomorrow. A number of the Mellon horses have been sent from Ireland to Rokeby, the former Oxnard estate in Loudoun County, Va., which Mr. Mellon has recently purchased.

Although Mr. Mellon is still a student at Cambridge University in England and will not be expected at Rokeby until later in the summer, much interest centers in the Mellon entries. His cousin, Mr. Richard Mellon, of Pittsburgh, whose famous Rolling Rock Stables have for several years been a source of enjoyment to those who frequent the neighboring horse shows, will probably be among the exhibitors today and tomorrow, as no exhibitor of importance in Virginia or other States will be absent from the list of the country's oldest horse show.

Mr. Paul Mellon will be accompanied to his home in Virginia by his mother, Mrs. McMullen Mellon, who is now in England for his graduation from Clare College, Cambridge, which he has attended since his graduation from Yale University in 1929.

They will be the guests of Senator and Mrs. James Couzens and Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffries Chewning, jr.

The Rev. Joseph Brennen, of St. Mary's Church, Fredericksburg, Va., will christen the child.

Van Der Elst, Belgian Baron, Is Entertained

Arthur O'Briens Hosts of Informal Luncheon at Esta Brook.

Col. and Mrs. Arthur O'Brien entertained informally at luncheon yesterday at their country estate, Esta Brook, in honor of Baron Emmanuel van der Elst, of Brussels, who has returned to Washington for another brief visit before going to New York preparatory to sailing tomorrow for Europe. He is the brother of Baron Joseph van der Elst, who married Mrs. O'Brien's daughter, the former Miss Allison Roebling.

Baron Emmanuel van der Elst was here with the Belgian delegation to the International Chamber of Commerce, and since that time has made an extensive trip through the West and Canada, accompanying M. Georges Theunis, former president of the International Chamber of Commerce, and Mme. Theunis.

Col. and Mrs. O'Brien will travel abroad for two or three months. They will sail from New York, June 25, for Vienna, to visit Baron and Baroness Joseph van der Elst for several weeks before traveling elsewhere on the continent. Baron van der Elst is serving as first secretary of the Belgian Embassy in the Austrian capital.

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to care for a pandanus. The leaves on mine are beginning to turn brown on the edges. MRS. HELEN P.

The pandanus requires a warm, sunny place in winter and a place near an open window or on a semi-sunny porch in summer. It should be watered whenever you see that the surface soil in the pot is dry. When watering it, give it enough to moisten all the soil in the pot. Spray the foliage once each week. With such care it should do well.

Please tell me how to care for a snake plant and a dracena. The dracena is in a small pot 4 inches high and 3¾ inches across the top. Do you think this plant requires transplanting? MRS. M. M. C.

If your dracena is 10 inches high it likely should be transplanted. This plant must have a warm, sunny place throughout the entire year. It demands a rich soil and a great deal of moisture. Keep the snake plant in the sun in a rather sandy soil and water it twice each week, giving enough water at each application to moisten all the soil in the pot.

Please tell me what to do, my seedlings in my flower garden are being cut close to the ground by some worm. DOROTHY G. P.

Your seedlings are evidently being ruined by cut worms, one of our most destructive garden pests. The only remedy for cut worms is a poison bait. The easiest poison bait to use and the one which I believe yields the best results is a patent preparation. If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope, I shall be glad to send you the name of this product.

Please tell me whether you think gas fumes from my furnace might have been responsible for the loss of 50 geranium cuttings. We were away and the house became filled with coal gas. After the windows had been open all night with a temperature hovering around zero, the cuttings died. MRS. HENRY J. T.

The gas or the severe cold might either or both be responsible for the death of your cuttings.

The inclosed leaves were taken from my window boxes last summer. I took your advice and brought these plants inside last fall, starting young plants from cuttings. They have been beautiful all winter. Now I am proposing to plant them once more in the outside boxes. Please tell me the best soil for them. This winter I started them in the original soil, but now I must use fresh loam. Also tell me the name of the vine. MARION B. P.

Variegated vinca is the name of the vine. It will do best on a soil composed of good loam, sand and manure in equal parts.

Please tell me if the inclosed leaf is from a hardy azalea. MRS. D.

The leaf is from an azalea, but it is impossible to determine the variety from one leaf, as all azalea leaves are much alike.

The leaves of my house plants, which are now out on the porch, are covered with minute webs. Are these made by red spiders. If so, what is the remedy? READER.

The webs indicate red spiders, which are not hard to get rid of. All that is necessary is to spray both sides of the foliage (daily) with cold water. It will take two weeks of spraying to get rid of these pests.

Kellogg's RICE KRISPIES

Interprets the MODE

New York, June 10.

WATCH out, Lovely Ladies, that you don't give the smallest hint of masculinity in the togs you gather together for "roughing it"—for if you do, you just aren't fashionable, that's all! 'N' a lovely lady who isn't fashionable just isn't anything worth bothering about, if you see what I mean, because she won't be pretty according to this year's standards unless she has wit enough to see that even her most severe sports clothes must be feminine!

O-o-o-h, I hope that isn't so involved that you'll just go off and buy frosty things and stand around looking on while other active lasses have all the fun. But seriously now, no matter what sport you pursue actively, do relieve your costume with some feminine and charming detail. Does that sound odd in these days of trousered elegance? It needn't, because trousers are no more an indication of masculinity these days than our longer skirts and coiffures are of feminine helplessness. You see, we did like the idea of freedom and activity that trousers gave us—but we thought knickers hideous and gave them up for shorts, then thought shorts uninspired and gave them up for pyjamas, 'n' then thought pyjamas such a perfectly fascinating subject that we widened them and frilled them and hid them with this and that until they were a far cry indeed from their masculine inception.

Naturally, we do go in for mannish tweeds for our sports suits, and divided skirts for lots of sports, and shorts for the beach and tennis court, but we do pretty them up somehow with a gay scarf or blouse or some device that leaves them just as comfortable as ever, but distinctly feminine just the same. And the clever woman is going to go right on adopting men's sensible ideas and twisting them into her own delightful versions—and she will keep pace with him in his sports and while she charms his heart and eye with her beauty.

The day of romantic appeal hasn't passed, my dears, when such exquisite pyjamas as the ones I sketched today are created by such a couturier as Redfern! 'N' I'm just as glad as a lark that we can be truly lovely, in the old story-book fashion, in our intimate lounging wear and at the same time comfortable—for no costume, for indoors or out, sacrifices practicality to just plain good looks! The lounging pyjama today is of wide, black silk mesh, over a pink satin foundation, and with a belted pink satin blouse. And the jacket sleeves are edged with ostrich cuffs, and the trouser hems are too—and if that isn't something different in the pyjama story then I give up.

* * * * *

I just wish you would have one utterly luxurious lounging pyjama in your outfit—for the good of your soul! Honestly, now, you don't know how relaxing and stimulating such a thing is.

* * * * *

Wouldn't you like a chic little dress that would not only be smart for many daytime occasions but would be fresh for them as well, no matter how busy you are? Wel-l-l-l, I've designed just such a dress, with darling little collars and cuffs that you can change for freshness quick as a flash, and wear in any number of cute little ways for variety—and I was so pleased with it that I made a leaflet about it. So you'd better be quick in getting your stamped, self-addressed envelope off to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for these clearly illustrated directions for making this dress-of-a-thousand-uses!

* * * * *

A gift for The One Man is the marvelous box and clock, from Hermes, that I sketched for you above. The box is gorgeously lacquered in jade green, silver and black, with roomy compartment for cigarettes, 'n' the modernistic clock in the center keeps absolutely accurate time and marks the passing of the hours by its two silver balls. Even a mere man would like a birthday a week if he was sure of getting such stunning gifts as this!

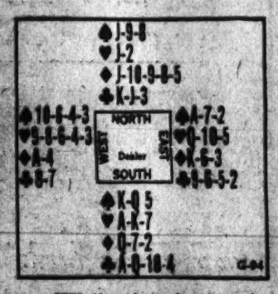
WORK ON BRIDGE

A Leading Question.



WITH the above hand at Auction, South would play a one No Trump contract; at Contract Bridge it would be three No Trumps.

In either game West would lead a Heart, and Declarer with Jack and one small in dummy and Ace-King and one small in closed hand, would make an effort to capture three Heart tricks by playing dummy's Jack. The play would be quite correct, but it would fail in this hand because East holds the Queen and therefore the first Heart would have to be won. When this happened, South led a small Diamond which was won by East's King. East returned a Heart, with one of South's top Hearts. South ducked once, won the third round and led another Diamond. West's Ace won and he cashed his two Hearts and afterward East's Ace of Spades won; so the adversaries took six tricks.

The Correct Play.

The Declarer could see when he won the first trick that he was in trouble; he had only one stopper left in the adverse suit and the adversaries held the Ace and King of his Diamond suit, and another Ace. Declarer could have taken two Spades, two Hearts and four Clubs, but that would not have made game. To get game he must win three Diamonds in addition to two Hearts and four Clubs.

No one could say whether game could have been won, but a promising try for it could have been made. If the Ace and King of Diamonds were held by West, Declarer's case was hopeless; if both were held by East, and East also had the Ace of Spades, he could make game without difficulty. If one high Diamond was held in each adverse hand (the more probable distribution) he could not make game if East won the first Diamond trick, but could if West did so, unless West also had the Ace of Spades. He would be more apt to force West to win the first Diamond if he led a Diamond from the North hand; so to trick 2 he should have put North in with a Club and then have led a Diamond.

East still could defeat the contract by playing the King second hand, but that play would have been distinctly of the double-dummy order, and unless it was made Declarer would go game.

Transarctic Submarine Is 1,000 Miles at Sea

New York, June 10 (A.P.).—Sir Hubert Wilkins' transarctic submarine Nautilus tonight was more than 1,000 miles at sea on her way to London and the North Pole.

A radiogram to the New York American from Sir Hubert reported his craft in 47.50 west longitude and 40.40 north latitude. He said the Nautilus had made 250 miles in 24 hours. The ice patrol cutter, Pontchartrain, escorting the Nautilus, had turned back.

FRIENDSHIP ENVOYS WILL ARRIVE TODAY

Flag Association Group Will Assemble Tonight for European Trip.

Boys and girls who will go to France and England as "Envoys of Friendship" under auspices of the United States Flag Association face a busy day after arrival in Washington this morning. Out-of-town "envoys" must obtain passports and have them visaed by the British and French Embassies.

Both boys and girls will be fitted with tailor-made gray suits which will be used as traveling uniforms.

In the party will be three Washington girls and one Washington boy, Miss Catherine DuBois, Miss Helen Dettweiler, Miss Dorothy Skirm and Thomas J. Hayes, the last two representing school children of the Capital as result of a contest conducted by the United States Flag Association with cooperation of The Washington Post. Miss DuBois, who speaks French fluently, has already been selected to speak in French for the girls at the good-will mass meeting of children at Paris.

To Get Acquainted Tonight.

Preparations for the trip are expected to occupy the whole day for the "envoys" and will be followed by a get-together conference at the Mayflower tonight, at which time the boys and girls will get acquainted and will receive instructions.

Belonging to youth organizations, groups and schools having a total membership of 10,000,000 children, these youngsters will go to France and England for a double purpose. First will be to extend from the children of America greetings of good-will to the children of France and England to strengthen bonds of friendship.

Second object of the trip is to invite the children of France and England to join in inauguration of a movement creating a lasting friendship that will impel them, in later years, when they will hold in their hands the reins of government of their respective countries, to repair to the conference tables rather than battlefields for settlement of disputes that may arise.

The undertaking has been indorsed by Secretary of State Stimson, former Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, Gen. John J. Pershing, Admiral William S. Sims, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur and Admiral William V. Pratt.

Foreign Officials Cooperate.

Officials in both France and England have expressed interest in the plan and assured the president general of the flag association that they would cooperate in every way possible to make the visit a success.

Basic purpose of the trip, national headquarters of the flag association explains, is to inaugurate a universal friendship movement which, through children of the earth, will lay foundation for the establishment of permanent peace within the next two or three generations.

Plans for this purpose have been worked out by the association on the theory that there is no loftier patriotism than keeping one's country out of war, through honorable and peaceful means.

EDWARD M'MAHON'S RITES.

Boy Victim of Baseball Accident to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Edward P. McMahon, 16 years old, 6502 Eastern avenue, Takoma Park, D. C., who died Tuesday night in Providence Hospital from blood poisoning which developed from a broken leg suffered while playing baseball, will be held from the Church of the Nativity tomorrow morning following brief ceremonies at the home of his sister, Mrs. George Schultze, 3513 Rittenhouse street northwest. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Young McMahon, who had been a student of Mount St. Mary's School at Emmitsburg, Md., is survived by his father, William McMahon, of the Eastern avenue address; three brothers, James, John and William McMahon; a sister, Mrs. George Schultze, and an aunt, Mrs. L. F. Randolph, all of this city.

ALBERT B. QUENCER DIES.

Brother of Washingtonian Was Attorney for Railroad.

Albert B. Quencer, assistant general attorney for the New York Central Railroad, died at his home in New York City Tuesday night, according to word received at the home of his brother, Clinton A. Quencer, 1827 Monroe street northeast.

Born in 1869 at Watertown, N. Y., Mr. Quencer was a graduate of Cornell University. He had been with the New York Central since 1893. In addition to his brother, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Rita Quencer; two sons, Edward and Arthur Quencer; two daughters, Miss Myra Quencer and Miss Edith Quencer, and a sister, Mrs. Jane Parker.

The brother here was to leave last night for New York to attend the funeral today.

ELECTRIC OFFICIALS DELAY RATE ACTION

Potomac Company Directors Expected to Start Fight June 24.

Directors of the Potomac Electric Power Co. yesterday afternoon took no action regarding the sliding rate scale ordered Tuesday by the Public Utilities Commission, but it is understood they will decide their course of procedure at regular meeting of the board June 24.

Officials of the power company declined to discuss plans or the trend of discussion at yesterday's meeting, but there is little doubt in public utility circles or in the minds of District officials that the utility will oppose the new scale in court.

First step which is expected to be taken by the power officials will be to seek an injunction to delay operation of the sliding scale until right of the commission to abrogate the consent decree is settled by court decision. This is not expected to be sought, however, until after the next directors' meeting.

Meanwhile the sliding scale will be in effect with the power company's basic rate return cut from 7½ to 7 per cent and its excess profits being shared more by the public than by the company, if the total revenue reaches the 10 per cent it has averaged in the last six years under the court agreement.

While Harleigh H. Hartman, vice chairman of the commission, was quoted yesterday as denying that the sliding scale abrogated the consent decree, People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech, who first conceived the idea, stoutly maintained that it did. In support of his contention he called attention to the careful wording of the commission's announcement, which made no mention of the consent decree, but several times referred to an "arrangement" with the power company.

Mrs. Underhill Dies From Heart Attack

Wife of Representative Was Stricken on Eve of Leaving Capital.

Mrs. Edith L. Underhill, wife of Representative Charles L. Underhill, of Massachusetts, died Tuesday after a heart attack, it was announced at the representative's office here yesterday. The Underhills, whose local residence is the Hotel Roosevelt, left here to go to their Massachusetts home several weeks ago, when the representative's wife became ill.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Winter Hill Congregational Church in Somerville. Mrs. Underhill was a native of Galesburg, Ill. They were married in 1892.

Mr. Underhill was elected to the House and came to Washington in 1920. He is a Republican and chairman of the committee on accounts. Besides her husband, Mrs. Underhill is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Phoebe Ballard, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. Doris Schmidt, Forest Hills, Long Island, and two sons, A. Perry Underhill, Keene, N. H., and Ensign Jesse J. Underhill, U. S. N.

Lindbergh's Plane Has Gun Fittings

However, Such Equipment Is Standard and May Not Be Utilized.

New York, June 10 (A.P.).—The plane in which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh are shortly to fly to the Orient is equipped with synchronizers which permit mounting a machine gun for firing between the spinning propeller blades.

This does not mean, however, that the Lindberghs intend to arm their ship against possible forays with brigands or beasts. The fact that the plane has the synchronizers was revealed in a statement issued by the company which made the motor.

However, aviation reporters were told by Casey Jones, veteran flier, intimate friend of Lindbergh, and an officer of the company, that the engine was a type largely used for military purposes and therefore had the synchronizers as a standard equipment.

Man Treated for Cuts In Auto-Trolley Crash

Ralph Krause, 23, 618 Allison street northwest, was treated for cuts on the face yesterday as result of a collision between the automobile in which he was riding and a street car. The accident occurred at Thirteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

According to police, Edgard S. Crown, 44, of Oglethorpe street, near Fourth street northwest, was operating the automobile, which was badly damaged. The trolley was operated by L. R. Williamson, of Kentucky avenue, near C street southeast.

Canadian Election Law Altered.

Ottawa, Ontario, June 10 (A.P.).—Legislation designed to remove the necessity for reelection of members of Parliament on acceptance of a cabinet post was formally adopted as a government bill today.

Action Upon Mayflower Postponed to Monday

Justice Oscar R. Luhring yesterday postponed until Monday a hearing on the motion of counsel for the Mayflower Hotel Corporation to strike out the rule he issued on them to show cause before him why a temporary receivership of the hotel property should not be granted.

Attorneys William E. Leahy, Edmund Toland, and William J. Hughes, representing the owners and operators of the Mayflower, and Mabel Walker Willebrandt, appeared in court, but Justice Luhring was busy with another case. The justice said that he would calendar the hearing for Monday morning. "I have made one mistake," he said in court, and I don't want to make another. Therefore, I am going slowly. The motion to dismiss the bill, being the most important item, will be taken up first."

FOX FILM CONTROL GOES TO NEW BOARD

Reorganization Started Year Ago Completed as Banks Dominate Affairs.

New York, June 10 (A.P.)—Reorganization of the Fox Film Corporation, begun a year ago when William Fox relinquished control after financial difficulties, was completed today with the election of eight new directors representing important banking interests.

The infusion of new blood into the directorate of one of the large units the motion picture industry marked the passing from the scene of Fox, who retired from the board of the company he created and headed for a quarter of a century. A year ago he yielded the presidency to Harley L. Clarke, powerful figure of the utility and motion picture equipment industries.

In a 15-minute perfunctory session of stockholders held in the theater atop the company's new headquarters, the change in directors was effected without a dissenting vote. Only four of the old directors remain on the board of twelve men.

At a meeting prior to the stockholders session directors placed the class A and class B stocks on a $2.50 basis by the declaration of 62½ cent dividends. Mr. Clarke said it was hoped the company would be able to return to the $4 basis in the third quarter.

Although the motion picture industry has not been immune from the effects of the business depression, Mr. Clarke said, in a statement, that it suffered less than almost any other business.

"There are signs of business improvement," he added.

Former Banker's Trial Begun in Tennessee

Nashville, Tenn., June 10 (A.P.).—Rogers Caldwell, a financial power in Tennessee and many portions of the South before his banking houses collapsed last fall, pleaded not guilty in court here today to six counts of an indictment charging him with fraudulent breach of trust.

The jury to try him was completed this afternoon. Routine preliminaries were disposed of to prepare for the taking of testimony tomorrow. District Attorney General Richard M. Atkinson said Judge M. R. Hiser, of the Hardeman County Court, would take the stand tomorrow and testify regarding a trust agreemnt Caldwell is accused of violating.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT HAS been a source of considerable amusement to more than one old-timer in Washington this week to hear Paramount's picturization of Willard Mack's "Kick In," at the Palace, referred to as "just another gangster picture."

As a matter of fact, "Kick In," in its stage form as tense a melodrama as was ever penned, was written and first presented in Washington, with John Barrymore in the stellar role, some fifteen or eighteen years ago, long before gangsters in the present meaning of the word had been heard of. It was not so much a gangster picture as a masterpiece of suggestion and suspense.

I saw it in film form for the first time Tuesday night and detected no great deficiency in Clara Bow's performance in a role that is distinctly secondary. The star part in the play was, and always will be, the role created by Barrymore and now played on the screen by Regis Toomey. The major discrepancy in the celluloid version lies in the casual manner in which the original drama's chief claim to distinction as an expert bit of dramaturgy has been destroyed. It is no fault of Hard-luck Clara's, and probably antedates her selection as feminine star of the film.

As Willard Mack wrote the play, the audience never caught a glimpse of Benny, the crook who was wounded and spirited into the attic of the house occupied by Chick and Molly Hewes, died there and was spirited out again, a corpse, to keep the cops off the trail of a pair of lovers who had turned straight. This threat against their freedom was always one of suggestion. The audience never saw the body of Benny, any more than the police did. What they did see was a clever war of wits between "Whip" Fogarty, the detective; Commissioner Garvey and two reformed criminals determined to stay out of the toils of the law.

The dramatic effect was as different from the thin decoction thrown upon the silver sheet at the Palace as champagne is different from grape juice!

Here is as swiftly gaited a bit of gelatine as you are apt to come across. It is raucous, ribald and rowdy, but none can charge it with being either uninteresting or lacking in humor. It is packed with gatling-gun dialogue—some of it just as explosive—and has been especially well cast. Despite the fact that there are only four feminine characters in the play, and only two of them vital to the story, I see no reason why women shouldn't get as big a kick out of this picture as men. Those present Tuesday midnight certainly did. Such laughing!

But it is the men who make the play. You have never seen Adolphe Menjou in a part in the remotest degree like that of Walter Burns, the hard-boiled editor. He plays it a thousand per cent better than I would have guessed he could, and at least two thousand per cent better than the late Louis Wolheim would have been able to. And George E. Stone, by the way, strengthens the impression created in "Cimarron" that he is a surprisingly able character actor.

If you miss this one, at the Palace next week, you are passing up one of the real whangs of the season—and I wouldn't fool you!

Next week's complete lineup, now that you mention it, will be as follows: Palace, Adolphe Menjou, Pat O'Brien, Mary Brian and Mae Clarke in "The Front Page," and "Crazy Rhythms," stage revue; RKO-Keith's, Kay Francis and Ricardo Cortez in "Transgression;" Earle, Edward G. Robinson and Evalyn Knapp in "Smart Money" and the California Collegians, headlining the vaudeville bill; Metropolitan, Charles Starrett and Louise Huntington in "The Viking;" Fox, Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter in "Daddy Long-Legs," second week, and Fanchon & Marco's "Vaudeville" idea, new; Columbia, Gloria Swanson and Ben Lyon in "Indiscreet," second week.

And next Monday afternoon, June 15, at 5:30 o'clock, the National Theater Players will undertake their greatest adventure, the presentation of Eugene O'Neill's epic drama, "Strange Interlude."

An unprecedented advance sale assures the Players' success in this venture. It is believed the house record for summer engagements will be broken to smithereens, so great is the interest in what has been generally recognized as a rare theatrical bargain.

When "Strange Interlude" was brought to Washington by the Theater Guild the price charged for the best seats was $4.40. This, in contrast to the $1.50 now asked for the same seats, may be taken as some slight indication of what the National Theater Players really mean to the amusement lovers of the Capital.

Clifford Brooke, the director, realizes that his troupe faces the most difficult task ever undertaken by a repertoire company. Therefore, he laid his groundwork a full fortnight ago and most of his players already have committed their long parts to memory—an augury of an impressive first-night performance.

The National's "opposition" next week will be the Community Drama Guild's performance of "The Piper" in the Sylvan Theater, on the Monument Grounds, Wednesday and Thursday nights, and Gypsy Rose Lee in "Rumba Girls," at the Gayety all week.

Would any one care to join this column in a crusade to restrict those short-sleeved, skin-tight polo shirts to polo players, on polo fields?

WOODLAND BEACH IS FINE RETREAT

Post Colony Offers Relief From Heat of Capital During Summer.

When July and August roll around with their days of bright sunlight; rainless, breezeless nights; blistering streets and sidewalks and stuffy apartments, will you be suffering because you have no place to go for relief? Or will you be one of the wiser individuals who took advantage of a great opportunity to avoid all the discomforts of the summer season?

Hundreds of Washington residents have planned ahead and taken advantage of an offer that has seldom been rivaled in value, made recently by The Washington Post and which is still open to readers of The Post.

That offer is the opportunity to purchase, for a very reasonable price, a lot in a summer home development site in a beautiful section of Maryland, not far from Washington but far enough to present all the delights of living in the "country" during the summer season.

Price Is Reasonable.

The place for your summer cottage is Woodland Beach, on the South River in Maryland, just 32 miles from Washington. The reason you ought to have a lot at the Beach is that you will probably never get another chance to purchase a summer home site so reasonably. The price set for every lot at the Beach is $93 and you don't even have to pay all that in cash. You may secure a lot by subscribing to The Post and paying $9 in cash, the remainder to be split up into monthly installments of $3.50.

Then, too, Woodland Beach offers you considerably more than just a bargain for a piece of land. Located right on the South River, it lists among its recreation possibilities, fishing, boating and bathing, all of them alluring on days and nights when temperatures are hitting the high spots.

Amusement Offered For All.

Already there is erected on the site a dandy community clubhouse, which will be deeded to the association of lot owners at Woodland Beach. There are amusement devices for the children. Other improvements will follow the development of the site into a high-class summer colony and you will find yourself extremely thankful that you got in early on the deal and picked a choice location.

If you haven't already become a Woodland Beach enthusiast, don't delay. Call at The Post today and look over the fine array of lots still available. Make a choice, and then on Sunday take the family out there for a picnic and to see the place. You won't be disappointed.

Contract for Botanic Building Is Awarded

The George A. Fuller Co., of Washington and New York, yesterday was awarded the contract for constructing the conservatory building in the new Botanic Garden to be developed at the foot of Capitol Hill, David Lynn, architect of the Capitol, announced.

The structure, which will cost $604,000, will be one story high and 183 by 284 feet. A dome will surmount the central portion. The new Botanic Garden will occupy the territory from Maryland avenue to Canal street, and between First and Second streets just south of the old garden.

SOCIETY

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph McHale were the guests in whose honor Mr. and Mrs. Abner Drury entertained 28 guests at dinner last evening. Mrs. McHale was, before her recent marriage, Miss Miriam McCarthy, of Chicago.

Miss Elizabeth Wolfe To Wed in Bridgeport.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Johnson Wolfe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund S. Wolfe, of Bridgeport, Conn., and formerly of Washington, to Mr. Rushton L. Ardrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Ardrey, of New York and Rye, N. Y.

The ceremony will take place on June 26, at the United Congregational Church in Bridgeport, the Rev. Dr. James H. Taylor, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church in Washington, officiating.

A reception will follow at the Brooklyn Country Club.

Two belated wedding announcements are of interest to Washington.

The marriage of Miss Ellen Crowhurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. James Crowhurst, of Newark, N. J., to Carl Henry Shaifer, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Henry Shaifer, of Chevy Chase, Md., took place in the Bethlehem Chapel of Washington Cathedral on Saturday afternoon.

The ceremony was performed by Canon Dunlop in the presence of the relatives of the bride and bridegroom. Mr. and Mrs. Shaifer left immediately afterward for a motor trip through Virginia and Maryland, and after July 1 will be at home in Belleville, N. J.

On Friday, June 5, Lieut. Duke Wright, U. S. A., aviator stationed at Langley Field, and Miss Joan Greenleaf, of Hewlett, Long Island, were married in Bethesda M. E. Church by the Rev. Carroll Burrus.

Miss Mary Ruane Wed to Nicholas Auth.

The marriage of Miss Mary Margaret Ruane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ruane, to Mr. Nicholas Auth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Auth, took place yesterday morning at 11 o'clock at the Church of Blessed Sacrament, the Rev. Thomas G. Smyth officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and her attendant was Miss Eunice O'Connor. Mr. Henry Auth, jr., brother of the bridegroom was best man and the ushers were Mr. John Hennessy, Mr. John Ruane, Mr. Eugene Larkin and Mr. Lester Boseley.

On their return from a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Auth will make their home in Chevy Chase.

The marriage of Miss Patricia Rowena Nolan, daughter of Representative and Mrs. William I. Nolan, to Mr. John Palmer, jr., son of former Representative and Mrs. John W. Palmer, took place yesterday in the home of the bride's parents in Minneapolis.

Bride Leaves on Foreign Trip.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride will leave Washington tonight for Norfolk, Va., whence he will sail for Europe for a vacation. His tour will include England, Scotland, Norway and Sweden. He will sail tomorrow night. Mr. Bride will be back at his desk on July 25.

YEARS OF GRACE - - - By Margaret Ayer Barnes

SYNOPSIS.

Five days later Jimmy suddenly appears in Jane's garden to ask her if she has changed her mind. Jane firmly tells him that she will never change her mind, that she will stay with Stephen and the children and that he must return to Agnes. Jimmy says he will never go back to his wife and that he is leaving for the Orient next day. They bid one another a tearful and affectionate farewell.

JIMMY—CHAPTER XIII.

JANE stood staring at the map of Europe that Stephen had tacked upon the living room wall. Over the battlefields where men were fighting and dying while Jane stared at the map, She had been staring at it just like that for five days.

For more than three months that map had hung on the living room wall and Jane had thought nothing of it. She had not shared Stephen's interest in the fluctuating battle-line. To Jane, preoccupied with desolate thoughts of Jimmy, the war had been merely an irrelevance. A quarrel of diplomats that was no concern of hers. Even the thought that Andre, at the age of 39 might be drawn into the conflict had failed to arouse her. Jane was preoccupied with desolate thoughts of Jimmy.

He had left Chicago without trying again to speak to her. He had disappeared into silence. Silence that had lasted for two months. Then she had had a picture postcard with a Chinese stamp upon it. A Chinese stamp and picture of a little tower-like temple. Jimmy had written just four lines beneath it. "Here's the Chinese shrine, Jane, where I'd have made you an honest woman. Today the temple bells are tinkling out of tune."

Then a Curious Silence.

That was all. And again there had been silence. A curious silence in which the vast echoes of war could rumble without arresting her attention, but which could always be shattered by the postman's ring. Silence, for which Jane waited to hear again from Jimmy. Five days ago—it was the 9th of November—Jane had received his letter. At the sight of the New York stamp her heart had leapt up—was it with thankfulness or a strange, instinctive revulsion? Jimmy had returned to Agnes. Jane had opened the letter. She could not understand it. It was dated in Berlin on the 10th day of August.

"I'm going to war, Jane. I've joined the German Army. I joined it under the influence of beer and a blond. I wasn't too drunk, though, to remember my old friends Karl Marx and Bach and Beethoven and Wagner, and just drunk enough to have let Martin Luther slip my mind.

"I've got a pull with a Prussion I roomed with when he was a cub reporter on the New York "Staats-Zeitung." He's an officer now, and he made me an aide because of my English. It was all awfully irregular, for the army here is highly organized. Nevertheless, he did it and I'm going to see action at once. If they set me to using my English, I'll probably be shot at dawn by the British. Anyway, I'm writing the Kaiser that, before I am, we've got to take Paris, because I've never seen it. I'd like to enter it in style the first time.

Still Adores Her, He Writes.

"I'm sending this letter through the lines in a spy's pocket. He's going to ramble around through Switzerland and Italy to Washington and hopes to come back with a blueprint or two, just in case we follow England into the war. He'll mail it in New York, if he ever gets there.

"And now, Jane, to be quite serious for a minute, do you know that I adore you? Do you know that I feel about you just as I did on the day I left you? Do you know that I wish to God that I didn't? Darling—there's nothing much to say. If you had come with me, I certainly should not be going to war. This quarrel's not of my making. If you had, we'd be safe in that cannibal's village by this time, eating roasted missionary in an undusted living-room. But you wouldn't, and you were wrong, but I couldn't do anything about it. I can't do anything about it now, not even about the way I feel—so I'm going to war, because that, at least, will be something else again. I certainly don't want to be killed. Why, I don't know. If you won't marry me, there is nothing new under the sun—but there might be, under the sod, where proverbially there is neither marriage nor giving in marriage.

"I bet I live to sack Paris absent-mindedly, because I will be thinking of you. Your JIMMY."

How Like Jimmy to Do It.

Jane stood staring at the map of Europe. Somewhere on that wavering battle line, as she stood there, Jimmy was fighting in the quarrel that was not of his making; Jimmy was seeking "something else again," under a rain of shot and shell. How like Jimmy, how terribly like Jimmy, to go to war on that casual quest! To go to a war that had become a crusade in the minds of all civilized people, in an attitude of ironic detachment. To become—of all things—a Prussian officer at a moment when a Prussian officer represented to the minds of his countrymen a symbol of all evil. How like Jimmy to become a Prussian officer because of a beer and a blond and a few romantic thoughts on Karl Marx and Bach and Beethoven and Wagner! Jimmy—in a Prussian helmet, looking like a caricature of the crown prince. No, not that—for there would always be his quizzical eyebrows and his pointed ears and his ironical smile, exactly like a faun's. A faun, mocking himself, in a Prussian helmet—that would be how Jimmy would look, even in the heat of battle. That would be how Jimmy would look, if he lived to sack Paris. If he lived to sack Paris absent-mindedly, because he would be thinking of her.

His Death Unthinkable.

If he lived! The thought of Jimmy's death was unthinkable. Jimmy's death in a conflict about the issues of which he did not care a damn. A conflict into which he had been driven by her unkindness—No, she would not think that. She would never think that. She had done what she had to do. She had never really regretted it. She would not regret it now. Jimmy had been driven into that conflict by his own restless spirit by his——

The ring of the doorbell roused Jane from revery. Not the postman's ring, though, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Jane returned to the map again. Sarah stood a moment on the threshold, unnoticed.

"Mrs. Carver," she said. "Mrs. Carver, here's a telegram."

Jane turned from the map and stared at her in silence. No, she thought, dully, no, it would be a cable! She took the yellow envelope from Sarah's hand. She opened it without misgiving.

"Jane, dear, this may be a shock to you. Have just received letter from Prussian officer in French prison camp that Jimmy had joined the German army and was killed on the Marne. Had had no word from him since he left Chicago. Jane, dear, this seems for me the end of everything. Could you come to me?

"AGNES."

Room Turns Black Before Her Eyes.

The yellow papers fluttered from Jane's fingers. The chintz-hung living-room turned black before her eyes. She caught herself, however, before falling, on the back of Stephen's armchair. She closed her eyes a moment and then dully opened them. The familiar living-room had returned. Suddenly she felt Sarah's hand upon her elbow, she heard Sarah's voice in her ear.

"Mrs. Carver—here—sit down a moment. I'll get a glass of water."

Jane shook her head. She stooped suddenly down and picked up the yellow papers. She read the message through once more. All feeling seemed dead. She felt only the need for practical action.

"I'm all right, Sarah," she said smoothly. "I—I must talk to Mr. Carver." She walked to the telephone in the pantry and gave Stephen's number. How strange, she thought, at such a moment to turn instinctively to Stephen!

"Mr. Carver," she said to his secretary. "Mrs. Carver speaking."

"Yes, dear," Stephen's familiar voice trickled over the wire.

"Stephen," she said quickly, "Stephen, I've just had a wire from Agnes. Jimmy was killed on the Marne."

Time to Catch Her Train.

"Yes," said Jane dully, "he's dead. He's been dead for two months." Suddenly she heard her voice break into breathless sobbing. But still there was no feeling. "Agnes wants me. Will you get me a compartment on the 5:30, this afternoon? I've just time to pack and catch it." She was still sobbing.

"Of course," said Stephen. "But Jane——"

"I'll motor in," said Jane, "and pick you up at 5 o'clock at the office. Can you see me off?"

"Of course!" cried Stephen. "But Jane——"

Jane hung up the receiver. She had never told Stephen, she reflected weakly, that Jimmy was in the German army.

"Sarah!" she called sharply. "Bring down my big black bag to my bedroom and order the motor for a quarter-past four."

"He was killed instantly," said Agnes. "He was shot in the trenches. He was shot through the head. This German saw it happen." She handed Jane a creased and wrinkled paper. It was the letter of the Prussian officer, written in perfect English, in a fine German hand, on a sheet of plain block paper. Jane took it in silence. She was sitting beside Agnes on the battered davenport sofa of the Greenwhich Village flat. Little Agnes was playing in the nursery beyond the half-open folding doors. It was Saturday afternoon and Agnes had just come home from Macy's. She was still wearing her new black serge street coat. She had not even taken off her hat. The sheer black chiffon of the widow's veil, thrown carelessly over it, shadowed her weary eyes.

Can't be Any Mistake.

"He saw him buried," went on Agnes tonelessly, though Jane was reading the letter. It was as if she could not make herself stop talking about it. "He saw him buried next day. There can't be any mistake."

Jane went on reading the letter in silence.

"It was nice of the French to let him mail that letter, wasn't it, Jane?" said Agnes. "Otherwise I might never have known what happened. I might never have known that he had gone to war."

Jane having finished the letter, sat turning it over in her hands.

"Jane," said Agnes suddenly, "Why did he do it? Why did he go to war?"

Jane still sat staring at the finished letter.

"I suppose," she said a little huskily, "I suppose he—he was just caught up in the general excitement."

"But that wasn't like Jimmy," said Agnes earnestly. "General excitements always left Jimmy cold. There was nothing that Jimmy despised more than the mob spirit. Why, Jimmy was a pacifist—as much as he was anything——" He voice trailed off into silence.

Concerto Still With Him.

Jane looked slowly up at her. Agnes' sad, worn face was twitching and her throat was throbbing convulsively with the sobs she was trying to master. Jane took her hands in hers.

"Don't—don't think about that, Agnes," she said simply. "It won't do any good. You'll never know."

"No," said Agnes. "I'll never know." Then, after a pause, "Jane, you saw what he said about Jimmy's concerto—that he had it with him at the front."

"Yes," said Jane.

"It—it must be lost," said Agnes sadly. "They fought over that trench for days after Jimmy—died. The dugouts must have been simply exterminated."

"Yes," said Jane.

"Jane," said Agnes, "did you ever hear the end of it? Did he play it for you?"

"Yes," said Jane.

"Was it good?" asked Agnes eagerly. "Was it really good?"

"I thought it was very beautiful," said Jane.

Thanks for Helping Jimmy.

"Jane," said Agnes suddenly, "isn't it dreadful to think there's nothing left of Jimmy? With all his cleverness and all his talent he left nothing behind him. The world is just the same as if he had never lived."

"He left you," said Jane tremulously. "He left you and little Agnes."

"Yes," said Agnes, "of course he left little Agnes. And he left me. You're right, Jane. He left me a very different woman than if he'd never loved me. You're very clever, Jane, darling, to think of that. A man does live in the change he made in the life of a woman who loved him."

"Yes," said Jane.

Again there was silence. Again it was Agnes who broke it. And this time with a gallant attempt at a cheerful smile.

"I haven't thanked you, Jane, for all you did for Jimmy last winter. He simply loved Chicago. He was awfully happy there. He wrote me the gayest letters."

"I'm glad he did," said Jane.

"He was happy in his work and happy about the concerto. He seemed so young, Jane, and somehow carefree—just the way he did when I first knew him. He wrote me very often—and always such funny letters."

"No one could be as funny as Jimmy," said Jane.

"No," said Agnes. "He was always funny when he was happy. Do you know, Jane, I've always understood why he didn't come back to me? I understod it even at the time. The strongest thing in Jimmy's life was his sense of adventure. I think those months in Chicago must have seemed rather adventurous, after the years with me and little Agnes in this flat. That seems absurd to you and me, of course, for to us Chicago is just the town we grew up in—but to Jimmy I think it must have been rather a castle in Spain. He couldn't come back to humble domesticity just after it. He had to wander. To look for other castles, you know, in other countries. But he would have come back to Jane." Her voice trailed off a trifle wistfully.

"Of course he would have!" said Jane warmly.

Life Might Have Been Different.

"The thing that kills me," said Agnes soberly, "is that if he had, you know, our life might have been quite different. My play's doing awfully well, Jane. They're going to start a second company on the road. I'm going to take a chance, Jane, and resign from Macy's to write another. I think—I think that perhaps I can really make a lot of money. Enough to have changed everything for Jimmy."

"Agnes," said Jane solemnly, "you're perfectly wonderful."

"No, I'm not," said Agnes. "I'm just a worker."

"You're always right," said Jane. "But not wonderful," smiled Agnes. "Jimmy was wonderful. And always wrong. Oh, Jane!" Agnes's smile was very tremulous. "Wouldn't you know that Jimmy would fight with the Germans and die a hero's death on the wrong side of the Marne? Jimmy was on the wrong side of every Marne from the day he was born!"

"To me," said Agnes gently.

"To me, too," said Jane.

Why Men Prefer the Stacy-Adams

Men who wear them prefer them, of course, and the number of wearers is increasing by leaps and bounds . . . and for very good reasons!

Men like the prestige that this well known name gives . . . they like the styles that are just a little more distinguished than the average . . . they like the fine mellow leathers, the longer wear, the comfort, of this bench-made shoe. Summer Styles in black and tan calfskin.

What Today Means to You

"GEMINI."

IF JUNE 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:10 a. m. to 11:25 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 10:20 p. m. The danger hours are from noon to 1:50 p. m. and from 5:25 p. m. to 7:55 p. m.

The planetary aspects of June 11 counsel alertness, as an opportunity, not easy to recognize, will present itself. Its seizure will lead to both important and beneficial results. After sunset, the atmosphere will be charged with uncertainty, and rest and quiet should be enjoyed.

Children born on this June 11, will be, in early years, rather impossible, just prior to adolescence, however, they will take a tumble to themselves and purge themselves of objectionable faults. They will take on new characters, becoming modest, industrious and unselfish. Their horoscope indicates a fair measure of success and considerable happiness.

Born on June 11, you are simple and easy to understand. There is nothing complex about your character. You are impulsive and age itself will never restrain you from from rushing into things. You have sudden enthusiasms, unexpected crazes and notoriety is unction to your soul. You, too, are very self-conscious about your appearance; this, however, does not make you any the less likeable. You are admired, not because, but in spite of your peculiar individual idiosyncracies.

You tackle every problem in life with a freshness and a zest that compels admiration, and almost defies failure. You are extravagantly generous—like a schoolboy with both hands full of pocket money. You will never amass riches by the practice of thrift. All days are, for you, full of sunshine, and you never give a thought to the rainy ones.

When frustration does come your way—and it visits every one in the course of a lifetime—you will take it badly, worse than a less temperamental person would. This phase, however, will not last long. Nothing can submerge you. Being a born fighter, you will fight back, and prove yourself superior to circumstances or environment. Your early married life will be rather marred by misunderstanding. Later on, however, it will afford both you and your mate an ever-abounding felicity.

Silver Plaque Awarded To Central Company A

Company A, Central High School, has been awarded the silver plaque awarded annually to the best drilled Washington cadet company by the Military Order of the World War.

Presentation of the plaque was made yesterday to Capt. Hinkle, of Company A, which also took first prize in the annual competitive drill of the Washington High School Cadet Corps, by Maj. Charles Demonet, commander of the District of Columbia Chapter of the Military Order of the World War. In awarding the trophy the Military Order had in mind the stimulation of interest in military training for high school students.

Optimist Club to Buy Canoes for Boys' Camp

Members of the Washington Optimist Club, at their luncheon meeting in the Hamilton Hotel yesterday afternoon, voted to purchase two canoes for the use of the boys at the Boys Club camp this summer.

The premier showing of a new educational film of the Department of Agriculture was the entertainment feature at the meeting. The film shows the depredations of mountain lions and methods of hunting and capturing the animals alive for zoos. Two new members were received into the club, the Rev. George J. Farnham, pastor of North Cleveland Park Congregational Church, and Bernard O. Grant.

NATS TROUNCE INDIANS, 9-4, WITH 6-RUN STAND IN FIFTH;

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

TOM KEARNEY, who books the bets on the Kentucky Derby, the big fights, the pennant races, and who, it is said, would make a book on the ebb and flow of the Mississippi hard by his betting establishment in St. Louis, has a discomforting announcement for Washington fans.

Mr. Kearney, who keeps the sports scriveners informed of the beat of the Nation's betting pulse, has announced that there is nothing doing in the books against the Athletics. In plainer language, he means to convey that there are no odds quoted against the Philadelphia Team in the American League pennant race. Washington and the rest of the clubs notwithstanding.

You may be able to get a bet down with a friend, but Mr. Kearney, whose business it is to figure the percentages to the infinite, does not care to risk any of his shekels on the possibility that the Mackmen will lose, no matter what the odds may be.

Nats Quoted at 4-1

That's comforting news for Washington fans. And here's some more. Mr. Kearney offers odds of four to one that the Nats will not win the pennant and he rates the Yankees in the same class despite the Nats' second-place standing.

Cleveland is a ten-to-1 shot to win the pennant in Mr. Kearney's book and the other clubs in the league are also rans with the betting against them as high as 100 to 1.

Home-town pride has not influenced Mr. Kearney's opinion of the chances of the Cardinals in the National League, for he rates them as cofavorites with the Giants to win the pennant at odds of 2 to 1. The Cubs are a 4-to-1 shot in Mr. Kearney's book; Brooklyn, 6 to 1; the Pirates, 12 to 1, and the Phillies and Reds' chances are adjudicated at the munificent odds of 500 to 1, pay or play.

Stribling Favorite

The Stribling-Schmeling affair at Cleveland is a tight squeeze for the books. They do not go far out on the limb with the odds quoted on the heavyweight championship.

The German, who grabbed one of the dullest fistic coronets of history out of his fiasco with Jack Sharkey, is rated a bit behind the perennial Georgia schoolboy, who is held at odds of 4 to 5 to win, while one may bet even money that Schmeling will retain his title.

The odds are quoted, too, on the Belmont stake at New York next Saturday. In this clash of the thoroughbreds greats of the year, he will lay you 4 to 5 against Twenty Grand, thus making the Kentucky Derby winner the favorite over Widener's Jamestown, his most serious challenger, who is rated just behind at even money.

The chances of the others in the field are not highly regarded. Ladder is 15 to 1, War 20 to 1, while Clock Tower, Sun Meadow, Anchors Aweigh are rated as 30 to 1 shots in the Western books. These odds, however, are made on the play-or-pay system in which the horses yield no return from the books if scratched.

Man O' War 1 to 100

The refusal of the bookmakers to lay odds against the chances of a ball team in the pennant race, is in shining contrast to the bookies who confine their wagering to the races, either on the lawns of the classic courses at Belmont and Chicago or in the smelly recesses of the poolrooms.

Man o' War went to the post on occasions at odds of 1 to 100 and any person of a speculative inclination could get a bet down. The race bookies never closed shop on the wonder horse, no matter what the odds.

French Limits Giants To 3 Hits; Pirates Win

Pittsburgh, June 10 (A.P.).—Bunching their hits for five runs in two innings while Larry French's southpaw slants held the Giants in subjection, the pirates scored an impressive victory over the McGrawmen, 5 to 1, in today's opener.

French was in rare form, allowing only three scattered blows, and would have recorded a shutout but for an infield error behind him in the sixth. Only two Giants were left on base.

Bill Walker, who started for the visitors, was relieved by Heving in the third, when the Pirates scored three runs. Paul Waner gave the Pirates a commanding lead when he hit a home run with Bennett aboard in the fifth.

20-Foot Putt For 75 Fails To Drop

87 Highest Score to Qualify; Match Plan Today.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

WHEN the third day of the qualification round in the annual spring invitation tournament of the Columbia Club ended yesterday 532 players had actually started from the first tee. When all the cards had been turned in no less than six tied for the medal with 76, while nine of the contestants with 79 played off for six places in the first sixteen.

Three years ago there was a quintuple tie for medal at 76, and two years ago another play-off was held, with nine players competing. Yesterday's record, therefore, was merely history repeating itself.

On each of the first two days of the qualification 76 had been posted as low score and notwithstanding the field which played yesterday no one was able to turn in a better card. Harry G. Pitt, former Middle Atlantic champion, seemed destined to carry off the medal when on the sixteenth tee he needed three pars for a 74. He was one over par on the sixteenth and again one over par on the seventeenth, finishing with a par on the eighteenth for 76. He had a 20-foot putt for a birdie on the home green, but the ball failed to drop, and he missed a 75. No one else during the day came nearer than three strokes to the leading figure.

Play-Off Attracts Large Gallery.

The play-off for the first sixteen naturally attracted a large gallery and was a prolonged struggle. Thorp Drain, Washington, who pitched his third shot within a foot of the cup and holed out his 4; Gordon Wood, Hermitage, who played out of a trap and ran down one putt for a 4, and John C. Holsberg, Columbia, who was on the green with his second and holed out in the regulation two putts, were the first to survive. On the second hole John W. Owens, Columbia, eliminated himself by two misadventures into traps, but John J. Lynch, Argyle, scoring a par 4, secured the coveted position. On the third hole M. A. Shipley, Argyle, lost out with a 5, and on the fourth hole, John G. Biggs, Argyle, with a 3, survived. M. Parker Nolan, Congressional, and M. Oliver, Argyle, then carried the struggle to the fifth hole, when Oliveri lost out by taking three putts. Owens and Oliveri were assigned to the second sixteen but Shipley withdrew.

Play-Off for Medal Due Sunday.

The sextuple tie for the medal will be played off at 1 o'clock next Sunday afternoon, the players and the scores with which they tied being as follows:

William Howell, Hermitage	40 36—76
Frank K. Roesch, Washington	41 35—76
J. M. Hunter, jr., Indian Spring	38 38—76
Volney Burnett, Beaver Dam	40 36—76
C. M. Merrill, unattached	41 35—76
Harry C. Pitt, Manor	39 37—76

It is rather remarkable that although 80 players are listed for match play this morning only eiven strokes separate the six who tied for the medal at 76 andthose who were fortunate enough to be drawn into the fifth sixteen with 87. Consequently, the contestants in the various sixteents are evenly matched and extra hole battles are assured. There will be two rounds of match play today, with the semifinal and final rounds tomorrow.

The pairings and times of play this morning are as follows:

FIRST SIXTEEN.

Root, of Cubs, Blanks Phils With 3 Hits, 3-0

Chicago, June 10 (A.P.).—Charley Root gave the Phillies only four hits as the Cubs won the series opener, 3 to 0, today. The victory advanced the Chicagoans into a tie for second place in the league.

For six innings Phil Collins matched Root's shut-out pitching, but in the seventh Jurges walked and Grimm sacrificed him to second. Root then won his own game with a whistling double down the left field foul line that scored Jurges. Cuyler doubled to score Root, and Collins was replaced by Stoner. English greeted him with a single counting Cuyler, but Hornsby hit into a double play.

Root never permitted more than one hit an inning, and no Phillie reached third base. It was his sixth victory of the season.

MANY STARS GRADUATE AT ARMY

Special to The Washington Post.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 10.—With 96 cadets, winners of athletic honors, receiving their diplomas as graduates of the United States Military Academy, and commissions as second lieutenants in the Regular Army next Thursday, the seventeen Army athletic squads will lose a number of excellent athletes.

Maj. P. B. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics, stated that the football, track and lacrosse squads would suffer the severest losses, while from the golf, tennis and baseball teams only one letter man each would be lost.

Included in this group are two cadets who have particularly distinguished themselves on Army teams. They are John T. Malloy, of North Adams, Mass., who has won letters in four major sports, and Carl E. Green, of Dayton, Tex., who has an outstanding track record. Malloy has won three letters in basket ball, two in football, one in baseball and two in track.

Green, in the 1929 Penn relays, won first place in both the broad jump and the hop, step and jump; in 1931 he was a member of the Army team which won the 880 relay championship and placed second in the 440 relay. Green also took second place in the hop, step and jump.

The Army Football Team, according to Maj. Fleming, will lose Carlmark and Messenger, regular ends, together with Malloy and Fletcher, reserve ends. In the line Miller, center, and "Polly" Humber, captain and left guard, will graduate. Bowman, regular quarter back, is another loss who will be difficult to replace. Other losses in the line include Parham, Gordon and Carlson.

Stripp, Cuccinello Bat Reds to Win Over Robins

Cincinnati, June 10 (A.P.).—Steady pitching by Eppa Rixey and the slugging of Joe Stripp and Tony Cuccinello featured the Reds' 10-to-3 victory over the Brooklyn Robins in the first game of their series today.

While the veteran Rixey kept ten Brooklyn hits well spaced, his mates got their fourteen off Babe Phelps and Cy Moore in clusters, including three triples and a pair of doubles. Stripp and Cuccinello led the attack with three hits apiece, Cuccinello cleaning the bases with a triple in the first inning, when the Reds scored four.

Humphreys, Washington Fort Teams in Area Clash

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 10.—The Fort Humphreys baseball tossers, winner of the Northern division of the corps area title in 1930, will play their second game in the series Saturday at Fort Humphreys, mixing with the crack Fort Washington post nine, it was announced today by Lieut. George C. Reinhardt, athletic director.

Fort Humphreys, Walter Reed and Fort Washington are playing in a triangular series, and the winner will be pitted against the champion of the Fort Hoyle, Edgewood Arsenal, Fort Meade and Carlisle Barracks series.

Tourney Leads to Play For Corps Title.

It was announced the winners of these two groups will clash for the Northern title on July 18, 19 and 20. The winner of the Northern title will play the Southern champion for the corps title.

In the first series game played this season the Fort Humphreys tossers defeated Walter Reed, 6 to 2. Sergt Perkins pitched the contest, fanning sixteen and allowing but three hits.

Athletic Director Lieut. George C. Reinhardt is after contests for June 14, 20, 24 and 28. He is willing to entertain good teams from Washington, Maryland and Virginia on these dates. He stated the post nine would also be willing to play on a foreign field, but must be offered reasonable guarantee.

13th Engineers Led by Company E.

Company "E" annexed the Thirteenth Engineers Baseball League championship. Eight teams were entered in this competition. The battery of Nate Perkins and Bill Rowe carried the "E" nine to the honors. The team, captained by Louis Kingsburg, was the first from the second battalion of the Thirteenth Engineers to win a post title at Humphreys. Formed last year, the second battalion has been aggressive in both basket ball and soccer. Company "D" finished second in the former sport. First Sergt. Henry Gensch was coach of the winning baseball team.

In the play-off for second honors, Company "B" trimmed Company "A," 5-3, in a fourteen inning battle. Chunkey Baumgartner was the leading hitter in the league. He was pushed by Kingsburg for the honors.

11-Stroke Hole Costs Miss Quier Golf Title

Roslyn, N. Y., June 10 (A.P.).—Miss Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa., had the women's Eastern championship in her grasp with only two holes left to play today, but tossed it away by taking eleven strokes, seven over women's par, on the 363-yard seventeenth hole.

On the last nine, Miss Quier slipped badly, getting her par on only one of the next six holes and losing seven strokes to par over that stretch. Even then her margin was such that she could play the next two holes in one over par and still win. But going to the seventeenth she topped her drive into the rough and took three strokes to get out to the edge of the fairway, from where she went back into the rough and finally wound up with 111, which put her completely out of the running and droped her into fifth place.

As a result, Miss Helen Hicks and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, neither one of whom have ever won the championship, finished in a tie for the championship, their three-round totals being 263. They will play off for the title tomorrow afternoon.

Horse Sense Is Advanced By Pegler as Reason for Refusal of Steed to Run

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Various reasons have been offered for the refusal of Gallant Knight, the Western horse, to run himself a horse race in the Suburban Handicap, the big race at Belmont Park, last Saturday, but I wonder if it could not be that the horse just didn't want to run.

Sport is supposed to be fun, and if a man doesn't want to play a round of golf or go swimming at a certain time he either calls off the date or goes, under protest, and consequently gets no pleasure out of it. His feet may hurt, or he may be worried, small matters which, in a horse, might not reveal themselves to a trainer's or a veterinary's eye, or he may merely be in the throes of one of those little temperamental rebellions in which a man simply doesn't want anything from any one but only to be let alone.

Horseman Say Steeds Are Intelligent.

Horse people tell me that these thoroughbreds, such as Gallant Knight, are intelligent and high strung. It seems possible, then, that the long and expensive campaign to improve the breed of horses by racing them has begun to show this result: That when a steed doesn't care about running he has sense enough to refuse. Gallant Knight may have been talnking things over as he stood there in the stall, waiting for the send-off, and if he reached a sudden decision to chuck it and walk off, that was a course of conduct which any motion picture director would be certain to recognize as distinctly human.

Possibly Gallant Knight wanted nothing more than another start, and this would have been recognizable as a human notion, too. It was only a couple of years ago that a college rowing crew, composed of the best type of young human beings, balled up a big boat race at Poughkeepsie to such an extent that most of the boats foundered, by insisting again and again that they hadn't really got away in their stride and should be allowed to start over.

Each time this happened, the big fleet of water bugs would come slowly about and walk back up-river, the long wooden legs flashing redder and redder as the sun dropped closer to the Western ridges, and there would be a long to-doing out on the water as they all backed their sterns up to their stake boats. Then the tide would take hold of the referee's boat and flip it around in such a position that he would have to yell, "Everybody hold still while we take a little ride for ourselves."

Still Another Start Is Requested.

Then the referee would go upstream and come back down and fire his pistol. And then, again, after two or three jerks, some one in the bad-acting boat would discover a mosquito boring him in the neck and up would go his hand, asking for still another start.

As a conscientious race horse, Gallant Knight may merely have been

JAMES V. MULLIGAN, of this city, a graduate of Georgetown University, class of 1906, has been appointed track coach at the Hilltop to succeed John D. O'Reilly, recently resigned after seventeen years of service, it was announced yesterday.

It will not be Mulligan's first coaching assignment at Georgetown, since he was in sole charge of track and field activities at the school during the span of 1912, 1913 and 1914 and understudied for O'Reilly during a portion of the 1922 season, when the veteran was laid low by illness.

He took up the duties of track coach of the United States Naval Academy in 1917 and remained at Annapolis until the finish of the 1918 season. Only one meet was dropped by Navy during his tutelage of the Middy teams.

Mulligan still is party to an extant intercollegiate record, the 1,280-yard relay, established in 1906 by the Hilltop team, of which he was anchor man, in the time of 2:27.4. He attained the captaincy of the track team during his senior year at Georgetown and was a member of the squad during undergraduate days.

Since 1923 he has not been actively engaged in track and field coaching, but has been prominent in the realm of meet officiating. For several years he has been connected with a local jewelry firm.

Braves Down Cards; Pound Three Hurlers

St. Louis, Mo., June 10 (A.P.).—Pounding three pitchers for nineteen hits, the Boston Braves handed the champion Cardinals one of their worst defeats of the season here this afternoon, 13 to 4. Two big innings, the fifth and sixth, in which nine runs were scored, gave Boston the victory after Chick Hafey, of the Cardinals, gave the champions a 3-to-1 lead in the third with his home run, his second in two days. Berger hit for the circuit for the Braves in the fifth.

Paul Derringer, Cardinal recruit, lost his first game of the season before he was relieved by Lindsey in the sixth. Kaufmann, the other St. Louis hurler, was also hard hit. Old Tom Zachary was credited with the victory.

MISS ORCUTT BEATEN IN ENGLAND

Bows to Miss Corlett, 4 and 3, After Victory in Morning.

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland, June 10 (A.P.).—The ladies' golf championship, only one of Great Britain's major golf titles never won by an American, was made safe for the king's subjects again today as Elsie Corlett, former Lancashire champion, eliminated Miss Maureen Orcutt in the third round of play.

The tradition that a champion seldom repeats also was kept safe as Miss Fishwick, the little English girl who handed Glenna Collett, champion of the United States, a surprising defeat in the finals last year, fell before the fine stroking of Miss D. Pimm, one up in nineteen holes.

In the 33 years of the competition only Lady Margaret Scott, the first title holder; Cecil Leitch and Joyce Wethered have won two titles in succession. Lady Margaret won the first three years—1893-94-95. Miss Wethered and Miss Leitch both have won it twice in succession.

Miss Orcutt 4 Down On Outward Holes.

Miss Orcutt, holder of several titles in the United States, proved no match for the determined Miss Corlett, who led her American opponent by four holes at the end of the first nine and finished out the eighteen for a 4-to-3 victory.

Miss Orcutt had barely won her second-round match from Miss Kathleen Garnham, who visited the United States with Miss Fishwick last winter, going to the last hole to win, one up, and fell easy prey to Miss Corlett.

The American girl and Miss Fishwick were the only favorites to fall, Enid Wilson, English champion; Wanda Morgan and Molly Gourlay winning their third-round matches with ease. Miss Gourlay defeated Miss Park, 9 and 8, Miss Wilson won from Mrs. Goats, 6 and 5, and Miss Morgan defeated Miss Rudgard, 7 and 6.

Miss Wilson will meet Miss Corlett in the quarter-finals tomorrow.

Tambour, 13 to 20, Wins $15,000 Oaks

Belmont Race Track, June 9 (A.P.).—Tambour, a daughter of Gen. Thatcher-Castanet, owned by Preston M. Burch, proved her class by carrying 121 pounds over a mile and three furlongs of mud and slop to win the coaching club American Oaks here this afternoon. Favorite at 13 to 20, Tambour covered the long distance in meritorious time of 2:20 2-5 to collect $15,000, the winner's share of the purse.

The race was not without its unpleasant developments, for Bab Kenny, E. R. Bradley's filly and second choice, broke down after running three furlongs.

Even with Baba Wenny out, Tambour found strong contention coming from A. C. Bostwick's Scuttle, which forced Tambour to give her utmost to win by a length in a hard drive. Scuttle, second in the Pimlico Oaks, was wearing the winner down at the end. She took the place by ten lengths from W. M. Jefford's Allez Vite, with Blind Lane last.

Washington Is Outhit, 11-10; West, Manush Get 3 Safeties.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

ALL the Nationals can do in their chase of the leading Athletics is to win consistently themselves and pray that one of the other clubs knocks down the leaders. Their prayers have not been answered recently, but the finally gained half a game yesterday, thanks to the weather man, who forced the Men of Mack to idle in Philadelphia while the Nats were turning in a 9-to-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians. As a result of this combination of events, Manager Johnson's charges are now trailing by four and a half games.

Although admitting that his salary wing was slightly sore, the veteran Sage Sam Jones volunteered to stop the Indians, being quite an optimist in view of the fact that the Tribe is leading the league in hitting. Although Jones was given credit for the victory, he did not deserve it, as he had little stuff on the ball and was fortunate that some of the blows through the box did not injure him.

Jones Lifted for Pinch-Hitter.

After the Indians had knicked his offerings for two hits in both the first and second, Jones managed to get by for two frames, but was hit hard and often in the fifth and gave way to a pinch-hitter starting the home half of this round, which saw the aliens knot the count at 3-all.

After Jones was out and before Fred Marberry, returning to action for the first time since he was injured on May 23, came in as relief, the Nats pounded Willis Hudlin and Southpaw Milburn Shoffner for six runs, so it was Jones' victory, although Marberry really deserved it. With Sad Sam's retirement, the Washington string of having nine successive pitchers go the route was snapped.

For four and a half innings the Indians put up quite a battle, with the lead constantly shifting, but the natives' six-run stand in their fifth knocked all of the competition out of the game.

Heinie Manush, who, with Sammy West, had a field day at bat, each cracking out three hits, put the Nationals in the van with a home run drive over the right-field wall—a real clout, which went on a line all the way. This lead stood up no longer than the second, though, when an error by Joe Cronin aided the Tribe in knotting the count. It was followed by singles by Goldman and Porter.

Round four saw the Nats go to the front again when one of the three passes granted Dave Harris, Hudlin's error on West's scratch single, Kuhel's useful out, and Bluege's long fly netted two markers. In the next round, the Indians got to Jones in earnest, tying the string again. Hodapp inserted a single between two outs and then followed successive one-shots to center by Morgan, Vosmik and Kamm, the rally ending when West's good return of Kamm's single nipped Vosmik trying to reach third on the clout.

Harry Rice Starts Rally With Single.

This inning convinced Manager Johnson that Jones was only a thrower yesterday and Harry Rice hit for him opening the home half. He was up twice in the round, in fact, but did his best work when he singled to center starting off. After Myer sacrificed and Manush's single and Cronin's double netted two runs, Shoffner replaced Hudlin and a walk to Harris, West's double, Kuhel's single and theft, and Spencer's one-shot to right netted four more runs and the verdict before the relief hurler could stop the advance.

After that, Shoffner pitched mixed ball, but the damage had been done. Meanwhile, Marberry showed that he is back in form again, granting but three hits and one useless run in the four innings he toiled.

The Nationals were outhit, 11 to 10, but only one of their safeties was inserted in an inning in which they failed to score, while many of the Tribe's were wasted. Ed Morgan led the allen attack with three hits, including a double.

NEW GOLF BALL ON TRIAL WITH U. S. G. A., IS REVELATION

Group Makes Thorough Study

Average Golfer Chief Adverse Critic of New Model.

(United Press Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK, June 10 (U.P.).—The new golf ball, basis of the most widely discussed golfing subject of the day, is under test by the United States Golf Association, the United Press learned today.

A survey of all phases of the subject is well under way. It was started during the winter campaigns in Florida and California. With the tournament season in full swing, further data is being accumulated.

The association will compare handicaps of the 1930 season with those of 1931. Scores made in the major competitions will also receive study. In addition, the association is to continue its study of the action of the new ball.

However, not until all findings have been studied will the results be made public.

Golfers Agreeing That New Ball Is Evil.

The golfers continue to talk. And most of the conversations terminate in agreement that the new larger and lighter ball is a thoroughgoing evil.

Most of the adverse criticism is made by the average golfer, the fellow who is elated at a 90, but sometimes goes a shade past the dreaded 100 mark.

The is easy to understand. The poorer golfer almost always has a slice, especially on his tee shots. The new ball accentuates the slice. Also, the poorer golfer doesn't get any too much distance. The new ball reduces his distance. The poorer golfer doesn't connect any too well with a fairway lie. And although the new ball unquestionably "sits up" higher in the grass, the dub isn't conscious of the fact.

For the game generally, the new ball may prove a blessing. There is little doubt that the game needed a corrective measure.

New Ball Started At Handicap.

The new ball started off at a handicap. Few Northern golfers were able to play in the winter months. They heard bad reports of the new ball from the South. They began to play a month or so ago. They had their usual springtime errors, and the ball gave them an alibi. By the time the season is half complete they may like the ball better.

The U. S. G. A., by the very fact that a survey is being made, has shown that it has an open mind. If the howls of protest are backed up by figures, a return to the old heavier and smaller ball may be ordered.

Newspapers in many sections of the country are conducting polls among their golfing readers to help decide the question.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

WILLIAM J. SIDIS at the age of six months knew the alphabet. When he was but two years old he could read and write with ease, spell correctly and carry on an intelligent conversation. By the time he was four he had mastered four languages. At six years of age he completed an entire eight-year grammar school course in six months, and two years later he was graduated from the Brooklyn High School after completing the four-year course in half a year. Entering Harvard University at the age of 11, he was graduated with honors four years later. Sidis then took post-graduate work and became a teacher of mathematics. This boy wonder was discovered five years later running an adding machine in a New York store.

—Washington Park Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS.

WASHINGTON PARK, Chicago, June 10.—The card of seven races at Washington Park received numerous entries, but with the Exclusively, a test at seven furlongs, the program will be contested by the cheaper steeds. Another allowance event, for juveniles, which will be decided over the five and one-half-furlong distance, will support the main event.

PITTSBURGHER, consistent colt, in the Shady Brook Farm Stable, is selected to lead home his four rivals in the seven-furlong dash of the feature. With the track in good condition, the son of In Memoriam should romp to an easy victory. Chief opposition will be furnished by SPANISH PLAY. This smart 3-year-old colt displayed plenty of speed to finish second to Lightning Bolt last start, and off that effort should force the pace. BURNING UP, in his last meeting with SPANISH PLAY, faltered at the seven-furlong distance. However, the Mrs. Denemark colt scored in his previous four successive starts and may prove troublesome.

The juvenile cofeature, which brings together a list of fourteen youngsters to contest the $1,300 purse of the Cherry Hills, third on the card, will be sent over the five-and-a-half-furlong route. SUN'S SON, from the Bill Bee Stable, scored in a drive in his previous winning effort and is on edge. BOURBONITE, owned in the Lair-Parrish interests, favors a muddy track, but should finish in the runner-up position. ANNIE J. graduated from the maiden ranks in her last start. She has only to defeat GOLD CHECK for the minor award.

FIRST RACE—DELVEN, from the Laffoon Leiser Stable, raced forwardly to finish second last start and should improve enough to enter the winner's circle. NIGHT VINTAGE finished behind the top one in their last meeting and should go as well here. DIXIANA appears best of the others for the show award.

SECOND RACE—MAJOR LANPHIER is selected to show the way to his nineteen rivals in the 7-furlong dash of the Ivanhoe purse. PHANTASIME showed a return to his best form last start, in which he was overmatched. Against this class he should force the pace. DUSKY BOY and DOCK LIGHT are closely matched for the show, with the former fancied.

FOURTH RACE—JOEY BIBB, from the C. C. Vanmeter Stable, is the most consistent of this lot and figures to lead the way. TRY IT was compelled to overcome early interference to score in his last effort at 6 furlongs. He will favor the longer route here and should extend the top one. J. W. May's BLACK BELT turned in an easy victory in her Chicago debut, but the Whisk Along filly is moving up a notch in this field. However, she should hold the show safe.

SIXTH RACE—Another limit list was received in the 1 1/16-miles of the sixth event, with Tack, from the Greentree Stable, as the logical choice. LAURA NEGLEY displayed rare courage last start to defeat a similar field and should contest the issue with the top one.

SEVENTH RACE—CHUM, from the H. C. Hooper string, was weakly ridden when installed the favorite, but under better handling should redeem himself here. HOMEWOOD scored over a heavy track last out and may furnish the opposition. PLAY BALL tired at 1 1/4 miles, but should improve over that effort to account for the minor award.

FAST TRIAL BY TWENTY GRAND

NEW YORK, June 10 (A.P.).—Working the full distance of 1¼ miles in preparation for the Belmont Stakes, Saturday, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand today left no doubts as to his ability to run in mud.

With an exercise boy in the saddle, the Kentucky Derby winner worked the distance over a racing strip ankle deep in mud in the good time of 2:36. Breaking from in front of the Belmont Park grand stand, he went the first furlong in 12 4-5 seconds, the quarter in 0:25 and passed the half-mile post in 49 seconds.

In the next furlong, he quickened his pace, clicking off the 6 furlongs in 1:13 3-5, the mile in 1:40 and the mile and one-quarter in 2:07. St. Brideau, a stablemate, attempted to keep pace with Twenty Grand in the early part of the work, but was soon left far to the rear as the son of St. Germans-Bonus gathered speed.

1930 Finalist Wins Close Match

Ritzenberg Misses on Set Point to Bow 6-4 and 8-6.

Willis Joins Daly in Junior Finals; Pair Meet Today.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

A STARTLED-LOOKING youth, who mixes his shots like a cagey old vet and who has learned prematurely the demarcation between hitting hard and socking is the new boys' champion of Washington. His name is Gilbert Hunt, and twice he has been turned back at the threshold of the title by Jock McLean; but yesterday, with McLean not competing, he strode over Nathan Ritzenberg to win in straight sets, 6—4, 8—6, in a match that never lagged and occasionally sparkled.

And while Hunt was winning a year's possession of a silver trophy, Rickey Willis stroked his way into the final round of the junior tournament, where he was joined in short order by Charles Daly. The defeated semifinalists were, respectively, Bob Smith (who beat Willis ten days ago in the prep school championship) and Al Perkins (a chop-stroking artist from the netherlands of Rockville).

Willis and Daly Meet Today.

Willis and Daly meet today to decide the junior championship at 3 o'clock at Sixteenth and Kennedy streets, with the outcome pretty much in doubt. Willis' natural game is a net attack, while Daly is an out-and-out back-court man. Willis can vary his game more, but Daly has the finer concentration and the greater industry. The finalists will team up later in the day in the semi-final round of the doubles.

Fewer lapses than ever marked the game of Hunt yesterday, as he alternately drove and chopped his way into victory over the cocky little Jewish lad, Ritzenberg. He set out to win and did it just about as soon as he could against the consistent back-court driving of his opponent.

Hunt coasted into the first set after leading, 5-2, breaking Ritzenberg's service thrice, but holding his own only twice along the way. Ritzenberg pulled up to 5-4 by refusing to miss Hunt's well-angled shots and went to 40-15 on his own service, but Hunt deuced the game with a hard-earned overhead smash and a good angle volley, and ran out the next point on Ritzenberg's error and ended the set with another volley placement, 6—4.

Hunt Displays Rare Form.

Just when most of the experts expected Hunt to commence his customary fiddling with the situation, he raced into a 3-1 lead in the second set, hitting the ball as well as any player in the city. He rammed his service across the net with surprising speed and accuracy, put his shots away at the net, and chose the time of his volleying attacks with rare acumen.

Ritzenberg overhauled Hunt by his finest display of steadiness to lead, 5—3 and 30-40 on Hunt's service, only to see his great chance dissipated as Hunt laid a difficult backhand volley on the top of the net and watched it drool over into Ritzenberg's court. Hunt was unstoppable to 6-5 in his favor, but relapsed in the twelfth game and lost it at love. He took his own service, 7—6, and then outmaneuvered Ritzenberg in the last game, Ritzenberg ended the match by double faulting.

PEFFER STAR IN STATE SERIES

Hurls Hyattsville High to 8-1 Victory Over Lackey.

SMASHING out eighteen hits behind the stellar southpaw pitching of Francis Peffer, Hyattsville High School's baseball team, Prince Georges County champions, drubbed Lackey High, of Indianhead, Charles County title holder, 8 to 4, here yesterday in a third-round game in the State title series.

Hyattsville scored in the first inning and steadily increased its lead. Lackey, which won the State title last season, presented a combination containing only two members of the 1930 nine.

Hyattsville in Western Shore Final.

Hyattsville's win over Lackey followed recent victories over Towson, Baltimore County champ, and Annapolis High, Anne Arundel County, and put Hyattsville in the Western Shore final against Hagerstown High of Washington County. The teams will meet Monday afternoon at Clifton Park, Baltimore, to determine which shall carry the Western Shore colors against the Eastern Shore finalist for the State flag.

MEDALIST IS BEATEN IN UPSET

Miss Holzderber Bows in Dixie Women's Title Play.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

PRINCESS ANNE COUNTRY CLUB, Virginia Beach, Va., June 10 (A.P.).—Miss Virginia Holzderber, of Baltimore, medalist in yesterday's qualifying round, today fell before the superior stroking of Mrs. Kenan Rodwell, of Norfolk, three and one, in the first selective match play round of the Southern women's golf championship here. A cold, slight sheet of rain blowing through most of the round handicapped both Mrs. Rodwell and Miss Holzderber as well as all other players, but the medalist who shot 82 yesterday could not match Mrs. Rodwell's game.

The defending champion, Mrs. David Gaut, of Memphis, eliminated another former champion, Miss Margaret Maddox, of Atlanta, 1929 winner, two up after a hard match. Mrs. Gaut's victory enabled her to secure revenge for the 36-hole defeat Miss Maddox handed her in the 1929 finals at New Orleans.

Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake, of New Orleans, had little difficulty coasting through the first round with a five and three decision over Mrs. C. V. Creasman, of Norfolk, the only southpaw in the top flight.

The only other upset in today's play came as Miss Barbara Hendley, of New Orleans, playing in her first round, put Miss Helen Waring, a scratch player from Pinehurst, N. C., three and two after Miss Waring led through the first nine.

Mrs. Priddy, of Richmond, Virginia state champion, staged a fine comeback to beat Mrs. W. H. Willard, of Charlotte, N. C., 1 up after being 2 down through the turn.

Mrs. Ruth Reymond, twice winner of the Southern title, handed Miss Emma Durrett, of Norfolk, a 7-to-6 set back. All other favorites came through.

Mrs. J. M. Haynes, of D. C., Wins Handily.

Mrs. Henry Dodge, of Jacksonville, Fla., beat Mrs. Lillian Wood, of Richmond, 8 and 6; Mrs. J. M. Haynes, of Washington, beat Mrs. L. H. Windholze, of Norfolk, 4 and 2; Mrs. Leon Solomon, of Memphis, beat Mrs. Alvin Thomas, of New Orleans, 9 and 6; Miss Jane Cothran, of Greenville, S. C., beat Mrs. Jerome Sloman, of Baltimore, 6 and 4; Miss Estelle Lawson, of Chapel Hill, N. C., beat Mrs. Ashby Taylor, of Atlanta, 5 and 4; Mrs. Jean Jones, of Richmond, beat Mrs. John Ryland, of Richmond, 6 and 5; Miss Anne Cochran, of Baltimore, beat Miss Betty Wicks, of Baltimore, 2 and 1; Mrs. Boyd Morrow, of Baltimore, beat Mrs. George McAllister, of Hampton, Va., 4 and 3; Mrs. Carl Hess, of Birmingham, beat Mrs. George Schenck, of Norfolk, Va., 2 up; and Miss Elizabeth Dunscombe, of Memphis, beat Mrs. H. C. Kerston, of Richmond, 2 and 1.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 10.—Ralph Scrivener's Alpha Delta Omega Baseball Team will cross bats with the West Washington Baptist tossers Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in Baggett's Stadium.

Scrivener announced today he had secured the use of Baggett's Stadium for each Saturday afternoon the remainder of the season

The Virginia Juniors will mix with the Indianhead Cardinals Sunday afternoon on the R. F. & P. diamond at 3 o'clock. The invaders have defeated many of the leading clubs in this section. Manager Johnny Travers announced today his boys would sport new uniforms in this game.

Coach Earl Cronin has called an important practice for Thursday at 5 o'clock. The following players are asked to report at the R. F. & P. diamond: Mumford, Pullman, Gensmer, Gorman, Travers, Baber, Carr, Cliff, Schriener, Nugent, Scott and others. It was announced that Gene Zimmerman has been signed to play with the team. An important meeting of the organization will be held Friday night at Hurshy's.

The Colonial Athletic Club will meet the Swift & Co. nine, of Washington, Sunday on Guckert's Field, it was announced today by Manager Bill Hammond. An important drill for the club has been called for Friday. Jack Hudson, star pitcher with the "Twins" this season, has been signed to play with the locals.

Manager Johnny Welsh of the Columbia Outlaws, has scheduled a game with the Carter Motor Co. nine for Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock on Guckert's Field. All players with the Outlaws are requested to be on hand.

The Boys Club nine defeated the Red Robins in a game on Haydon's Field yesterday, 8 to 7. Tomorrow the Boys Club will meet the Nationals. Manager Cornell is after games. He can be reached by phoning Alexandria 1121 between 4 and 8 p. m.

ED YEOMANS BALTIMORE WINNER

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 10.—A drizzle made the going in the Maryland grass court tournament heavy today, but it did little to stop the trek of Eddie Jacobs, defending champion, and Ed Yeomans, Washington, D. C., star, both of whom entered the quarterfinal round. Jacobs trimmed Malcom Oates, 6—2, 6—2, and Yeomans did away with Alex Kelles, 6—2, 10—8.

Berkeley Bell, seeded No. 1 in the draw, remained idle today, but Billy Jacobs, brother of Eddie, gained the round of eight by nosing out Eric Jacobsen, 6—1, 7—6, 6—3.

Frederico Sendel, of Washington, fell by the wayside today, losing to Ted Easton, of Stanford, 10—8, 6—4, in one of the best played matches of the day.

In one of the few doubles matches played today Yeomans and Bud Markey defeated F. B. Harvey and R. G. Vaughan, 6—3, 7—5.

and world's championships for Connie Mack.

In 1914, when the Boston Braves startled the baseball world by defeating the Athletics four straight in the October classic, Connie Mack broke up his celebrated team and Collins was sold to the Chicago White Sox. He remained with the Sox from 1915 to 1926, inclusive, part of that time as manager, and returned to the Athletics in 1927. He played in 95 games in that year and in 36 in 1928, and then became more or less inactive.

Collins has a life batting average of .332. He appeared in six world's series games as a player, four with the A's and two with the White Sox, and was a member of the Athletics in the world's series of 1929 and 1930, but did not get in any games.

gan's drive in the first and managed to get his gloved hand on the ball, after a long run. He could not hold it, however, so the blow went as a double.

Hudlin was constantly in the hole with the batters in the first inning, the count being 3 and 2 on three of the five who faced him.

Cronin's error, a fumble of Sewell's grounder in the second, but for which the Indians would not have scored, was only his second in his last eleven games.

West gave the fans heart failure when he stumbled while setting himself for Averill's drive ending the second with three Indians on the runways. The center fielder managed to make the catch, however.

Bluege raced in and over toward short to make a great gloved-hand catch of Averill's liner. The third-sacker snared the ball only about 6 inches off the ground.

Harry Rice pinch-hit for Jones, opening the home fifth, and had the unusual experience of coming up twice, both opening and closing the round. He singled his second.

Fred Marberry, injured in New York on May 23, was given an ovation when he toed the slab starting the sixth. It marked his first appearance in the line-up since he was put out of commission.

Manush covered lots of ground when he raced in back of short to gather in Goldman's looper in round 6.

FRENCH OPEN ANNEXED BY BOOMER

DEAUVILLE, France, June 10. (A. P.).—As a fitting climax to a morning of thrilling golf in which the recently made record of 71 for the Deauville course was broken four times and tied once, Aubrey Boomer, British-born professional from St. Cloud, turned in a sparkling round of 67 this afternoon, to win the French open championship with a 72-hole total of 291. He equaled the mark set in the morning by the Argentine ace, Thomas Genta.

In the morning, Genta shot his record-smashing 67 to take the lead, nine strokes ahead of the eventual winner, while his countryman, Marco Churio, had a 69; Michael Bingham, English player, shot 68, and Percy Alliss, another British-born pro who hails from Berlin, had a record of 70. But every one of Boomer's rivals weakened in the final test.

Bloomer Win in 1926 and 1929.

Boomer, who had won the title previously in 1926 and 1929, played three rounds close to the par of 75 for the short course, then dazzled the gallery with a round of 33—34—67 to capture his third championship. Genta, who appeared to have the title clinched at the fifty-fourth hole, weakened badly on the final 18 holes, taking 78 strokes, 11 more than his morning round, to finish with a total of 293, tying Alliss for second place. Alliss required 75 strokes for his final round.

Joe Kirkwood, the only entry from the United States, took an 80 for the last round and finished in a tie with Churio for seventh place at 298. Yesterday he held a tie for the lead at the halfway mark of the tournament and was in a threatening position with a good 73 on the morning round today.

STOCK LEADERS GAIN IN REVIVING MARKET

New York, June 10 (A.P.).—The stock market had difficulty making up its mind today, but when it finally did reach a decision the trend was definitely upward. Grains eased after an early advance. Cotton followed shares.

Trading in stocks was dull, partly because the market spent much of its time awaiting news developments and partly because only professionals seemed to have any interest in its affairs. Prices jiggled indefinitely until the New York Central dividend was out of the way and then the rails led a rally.

This gain wilted, but the fact that unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation showed less than an average loss in May, and that the figures were quite in line with expectations provided the basis for another upturn which after one false start swung through to the close. Most of the favorites were up 1 to 3 points; some improved more extensively. The turnover was 1,800,000 shares.

Shorts Beat Retreat.

Shorts in New York Central retreated when fears of a dividend cut proved unfounded and the stock rose several points above the early low, closing 4 higher. United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Westinghouse, Loew's, General Motors and Case advanced 2 to 3, while the utilities were rather buoyant. Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, North American and United Corporation traded actively on the rise. Western Union was up 6½, net. Allied Chemical led its strong group with a gain of 5 and Eastman improved as much. Alaska Juneau was sold heavily in the afternoon, closing with a 4-point loss. The stock has been strong in recent weeks.

Rails followed central, although they got some comfort from the less-than-seasonal drop in loadings and from the imminence of the freight rate meeting. Baltimore & Ohio, New Haven, Southern Pacific and Atchison were among the former stocks.

Weekly trade reports failed to indicate that more than a seasonal reaction was taking place. Steel production has lost another two points, going to 40 per cent of capacity, which not so long ago seemed to be the probable bottom. However, the industry's present dependence on automobile orders, which continue to fall off, leads to the possibility that a lower level will be reached. Iron Age said motor car manufacture "seems to be headed for a very low operating rate in July, with suspensions such as occurred a year ago a possibility."

Steel Backlog Shrinks.

The shrinkage in the steel corporation's backlog was 277,277 tons, compared with an average May decrease for the past seven years of 353,000 tons. This brought the unfilled tonnage volume down to 3,820,452, which is regarded as satisfactory when present conditions in the industry are considered.

Wall street was reminded of the uncertainty of commodity prices by reports of the reappearance of 8-cent copper, although the amount said to have been sold at that figure was small and the market generally was holding at 8¼ cents. Consumers seeking the metal at the lower quotation and willing to place substantial orders there have so far been disappointed.

Grains paid little attention to the bullish Government crop estimates appearing late yesterday. Wheat rallied about a cent but then sold off on forecasts of rain in the American and Canadian Northwest. Although June was up 2¾ net, other months closed barely steady. Corn finished unchanged at ¼ lower, reflecting bearish weather prospects and a poor Eastern cash demand. Cotton gained 75 to 90 cents a bale.

The Canadian dollar had a sudden sag and was quoted at a discount of 7-32, which may mean some gold shipments. Aside from a jump in the peseta on news of the French loan to the Madrid government, foreign exchanges otherwise were dull.

Associated Telephone Earnings Are Increased

Chicago, June 10 (A.P.).—Consolidated gross earnings of the Associated Telephone Co. and subsidiaries for the twelve months ending March 31 were $16,072,632, compared with $11,265,574 for the similar period a year previous, President Marshall E. Sampsell announced today. Net income was $2,739,922, compared with $2,186,661.

Dividend Is Declared By New York Central

New York, June 10 (A.P.).—Directors of New York Central Railroad, contrary to expectations in many quarters in Wall street, today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50, payable August 1 to stockholders of record June 26.

Expectations in some sections of the financial district had been that the dividend would be again reduced, this time to a $5 annual basis from the $6 rate which was established March 11 last, when the rate was reduced from $8.

BOND PRICES HIGHER IN ACTIVE DEALINGS

Largest Gains Develop in Foreign Issues; Industrial Loans Improve.

New York, June 10 (A.P.).—Irregularly higher prices marked the bond market today as activity increased moderately. The rising trend which appeared first among the industrial issues spread gradually to other groups.

Most of the larger gains were scored by foreign obligations, although this group provided a number of weak spots. Australian, Chilean and the various Brazilian loans jumped from 1 to 7½ points each. However, loans of the German federal, provincial and municipal governments and of industrial and public utility companies were generally lower. Aside from the slump in German bonds, the foreign group was usually higher, but there are so many issues of that nation outstanding that the downward movement in them gave the group an irregular appearance.

Loans of the United States Government were quiet until the last hour when the Treasury 4s, the 3¾s of 1941-43 and the 3¼s became moderately active. Most of the Liberty and Treasury issue made small gains.

Gains among domestic corporate loans were concentrated pretty much in the industrial and rail issues. The majority of the narrow changes among the public utilities were divided about evenly between gains and declines.

Some of the larger gains were scored by Central Pacific first 4s, Alleghany 5s of 1950, Cleveland Union Terminal 4½s, St. Paul 5s of 1975, Great Northern 5½s, Inland Steel series A 4½s, Erie refunding and improvement 5s and general lien 4s, Eastern Cuba Sugar 7½s, Missouri Pacific series A and G 5s, Liggett & Myers 7s, Paramount Famous Lasky 6s, Paramount Publix 5½s, Walworth first 6s and Warner Brothers 6s.

Sharp gains and steady trading in Interborough refunding 5s and Third Avenue adjustment 5s and refunding 4s featured the public utilities. A revised plan for transit unification will be made public Thursday morning. International Telephone 5s of 1955 made a good gain also.

White House Attache 37 Years With U. S.

Thirty-seven years in the Government service, the last score of them passed as an attache of the White House staff, is the record of William Pannell, superintendent of the White House executive offices.

He was being congratulated yesterday on the anniversary of his entering the service as a messenger boy in the War Department under the Cleveland administration. He served under four Secretaries of War, including the late William Howard Taft. When Mr. Taft became President he was appointed a doorman at the executive offices.

Income Tax Refund Given Virginia Firm

(Associated Press.)

A refund of $215,072 to the Life Insurance Co. of Virginia, at Richmond, for overassessments of income and profit taxes in 1919 and 1920 was announced yesterday by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

The overassessments were caused by an increase in invested capital.

BONDS ARE PROMOTED BY RIGGS NATIONAL

By THOMAS M. CARIEL.

Election of John R. McMullan, a former national bank examiner, as an assistant vice president of Riggs National Bank, was announced yesterday by President Robert V. Fleming, of that institution. He also announced the promotion of Assistant Cashiers Earle M. Amick and Nelson B. O'Neal to the position of assistant vice president and the election of Daniel J. Callahan, jr., as an assistant cashier.

Mr. McMullan was born in Hartford, N. C., November 24, 1890. Educated in public and private schools of North Carolina, he started his business career at the Hartford Banking Co. He became assistant bank examiner in 1919 and was commissioned national bank examiner in 1921. During recent years he has had charge of conducting examinations of the larger banks of Washington, Richmond and Baltimore. Mr. Fleming advised that Mr. McMullan would take office around July 15.

Employment Began in 1918.

Mr. Amick entered the employ of the Riggs National Bank February 9, 1918. He has served as auditor and as assistant cashier. Mr. O'Neal entered the service of the bank December 7, 1918, and served as an assistant cashier and as manager of branches. Mr. Callahan became an employe of the bank on March 8, 1923, and has been in charge of the securities department of the bank for several years. He will continue to have charge of this work in his new official position.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Hamner P. McLachlen, wife of the president of the District of Columbia Bankers Association, arrangements for the ladies at the thirteenth annual convention of the association at Hot Springs, Va., June 18 to 21, have been completed.

Added Social Event.

The added social event this year is the afternoon tea, which will be held at the Casino between the hours of 4 to 6 o'clock, Thursday, June 18. The other events are as follows: Thursday, June 18—Tom Thumb putting contest; 4 to 6 p. m., afternoon tea at the Casino; 10 to 12 p. m., dancing in the crystal room of the Homestead. Friday, June 19—Tom Thumb putting contest; 1 p. m., ladies' luncheon and bridge to be held at Cascades Clubhouse. Bus transportation is to be provided to the clubhouse, starting at 12:15; 10 to 12 p. m., dancing in the crystal room. Saturday, June 20—10 a. m., ladies' outdoor putting contest.

The ladies' committee is composed of Mrs. McLachlen, chairman; Mrs. E. J. McQuade, vice chairman; Mrs. Claude H. Woodward, Mrs. F. H. Cox, Mrs. H. G. Hoskinson, Mrs. C. P. Jacobsen, Mrs. L. E. Schreiner, Mrs. A. S. Gatley, Mrs. C. H. Pope, Mrs. George O. Vass, Mrs. Frederick P. H. Siddons, Mrs. J. Frank White, and Mrs. Wilmer J. Waller.

Cronin Extends Streak; Leader in 3 Respects

While Shortstop Joe Cronin can not point to the home-run record of Babe Ruth, Al Simmons, Jimmy Foxx, Lou Gehrig and many of the other stars, there is no question but that he is as important to the Nationals as are many of those named to their baseball machine, and one can truthfully say that "as goes Cronin, so go the Nats," paraphrasing the saying connecting the Yankees' success with the manner in which Babe Ruth carries on.

Cronin is now leading the American League in three respects—driving home runs, most hits and most triples—and he added to two of these totals yesterday, bringing his "runs batted in" figures to 53 and his hit total to 75. Joe has eight triples to his credit. In addition, he extended his consecutive-game hitting streak to 19, this folowing a previous one of 14 straight games when he connected safely at least once.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau Washington: Wednesday, June 10—8 P. M.

For the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia—Partly cloudy and somewhat warmer Thursday and Friday; moderate northerly winds.

Pressure remains low off the southern New England coast, Nantucket, Mass., 29.86 inches. Another disturbance is central over Nebraska, North Platte, 29.62 inches, and still another over Alberta, Edmonston, 29.60 inches. Pressure is high over Newfoundland, with a ridge extending west-southwestward to the lower Lake region and thence southward to Florida, Cape Race, N. F., 30.50 inches, and Elkins, W. Va., 30.12 inches. Within the last 24 hours rain has occurred in the North Atlantic and portions of the Middle Atlantic States, and local showers and thunderstorms in the Plains States and at scattered places in the Rocky Mountain region. The temperature has risen in the lower Lake region, the Ohio Valley and Tennessee, and in the Atlantic States, except along the coast, and has fallen in the Plains States.

The indications are for showers in the lower Ohio Valley Thursday, and on Friday in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee and the lower Lake region, and for rain Thursday and probably Friday in portions of New England. It will be warmer Thursday, except in the North Atlantic States and the extreme South. It will be somewhat cooler Friday in the lower Ohio Valley and warmer in the North Atlantic and Middle Atlantic States.

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 10 (A.P.).—Five crews took advantage of fine rowing conditions on the Hudson and covered the full regatta course against the watch today. For several of them the trials probably wound up the most strenuous part of their training for the Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta next Tuesday.

Columbia, which went down first with a good running tide and following wind, apparently was the fastest.

Massachusetts Tech followed, making a time which Coach Haines said was about 22 minutes. Then came Cornell, caught in 19:59; Syracuse in 20:50, and Wisconsin, with the worst tide conditions, in 21:48. For Cornell and M. I. T. it was the first workout on the Hudson, but the others had morning drills today.

CHOICES WIN IN WOMEN'S TOURNEY

No Upsets Recorded in Tennis League Championship.

PLAY in the annual tournament of the Women's District Tennis League swung into action yesterday at the Sixteenth and Kennedy courts, with favorite surviving and nothing untoward in the way of upsets scored. Mrs. Ruth Martinez and Frances Walker, seeded No. 1 and No. 2, respectively, had no trouble in winning their matches.

One of the most interesting matches of the day was the test in which Corella Morris defeated Ann Ebbeson, while another feature was the battle between Edith McKelvey and Katherine Wasaman, which was won by the former in a three-set match.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

First round—Marion Butler defeated Helen Chaffee, 6—1, 6—2; Peggy Keyser won from Florence Joyce, by default; Margaret Graham defeated Grace Young, 6—4, 6—1; Margaret Butler defeated Elizabeth Wiles, 6—0, 6—1; Dorette Miller defeated Polly Linville, 6—2, 6—2; Frances Callaghan, defeated Reba Kirson by default; Frances Walker defeated Marcita de Souza, 6—1, 6—1; Cecyle Raver defeated Marywood Moore, 7—5, 6—1; Mary Rivers defeated Bernice Read, 6—0, 6—0; Corella Morris defeated Ann Ebbeson, 6—2, 6—2; Edith McKelvey defeated Katherine Wasaman, 6—3, 6—7, 6—0; Mattie Pinette defeated Claire Callaghan, 6—3, 4—6, 6—2; Emma Shaw defeated Maude Sewell, 6—0, 6—4; Ruth Martinez defeated Marion Lum, 6—2, 6—0.

TODAY'S PAIRINGS.

CONSOLATIONS.

First round—4 o'clock, Claire Gallagher vs. loser of Ferry-Cochran match; Maude Sewell, bye; Helen Chaffee, bye; Marywode Moore vs. Elisabeth Miller; Polly Linville vs. Marion Lum; Marcita de Souza vs. Katherine Massman; 6 o'clock, Grace Young vs. loser Moore-Philpitt match.

Brooklyn, June 10 (U.P.).—Heavy rain today caused a postponement of the Primo Carnera-Pat Redmont heavyweight boxing bout scheduled at Ebbets Field tonight, until Monday, June 15.

British Ryder Cup Golf Team Sails for U. S.

Southampton, England, June 10 (U.P.).—Great Britain's Ryder Cup golf squad sailed today for New York aboard the S. S. Majestic. The team will compete against a United States squad at Columbus, Ohio, June 26 and 27 in the Ryder Cup matches and remain in America for the United States open tournament at Toledo, July 2, 3 and 4.

The squad included Archie Compston, W. H. Davies, Charles A. Whitcombe, Abe Mitchell, Fred Robson, Ernest R. Whitcombe, George Duncan, Syd Easterbrook, Bert Hodson and Arthur Havers. Aubrey Boomer, of France, and Percy Allis, of Berlin, will join the squad at Cherbourg, France.

TIGERS TRADE AKERS.

Detroit, June 10 (A.P.).—William Akers, infielder with the Detroit Tigers, has been released to the Kansas Cley Club of the American Association. In exchange, the Tigers will receive Louis Brower, a shortstop, who has batted .308 in 44 games this season.

Diamond Dust

GAMES, games, games, games, games, games, games and games. Wanted, desired, looked for and sought after. Here they are, sandlotters:

The Lionel Seniors could use an opponent for Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock on No. 4 diamond, in the Monument group. Call Adams 0485.

The choice Army Medico team has decided to play Saturday games during July. Unlimited organizations are invited to call Georgia 1000, branch 190.

The Nation-Wide Stores aggregation has a diamond at Fairlawn Saturday, between 5 and 7 o'clock, and is awaiting a challenge from a senior team. Call Manager May, at Lincoln 3275.

So do the Bethesda Firemen, except they want two games, one for Saturday and one for the Sabbath, to be played on the Fire Eaters' diamond. Call Bradley 651.

Here's an item of interest for ambitious local unlimited teams. The Frederick Athletic Club, semipro champions of western Marylapd, have June 21 open for a game and would like to play some strong local or nearby outfit. This game would be played locally and a return game will be arranged for July 19 in Frederick.

The National Pale Dry Midgets desire a Saturday game, to be played on the Pale Dry Field (provided no heavy rains ruin its complexion), at 1 o'clock. Call F. M. Cole, at Lincoln 2700.

And then there are meetings and such things. For instance, the Koontz nine will meet tonight at 8:30 o'clock at 2202 Shannon place southeast, at the same time the Potomac Food Distributors are talking over matters at the home of Bernard Jackson. So have the Ross Jewelers scheduled a meeting tonight but theirs is at 8 o'clock, at 156 Tennessee avenue northeast.

The Washington Oriole Insects have a couple of berths vacant on their team, which will give that many more boys a chance to play in The Post's Capital City League. All candidates are cordially invited to attend a meeting of the Orioles tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at 140 Eleventh street southeast.

Bids for additions to the Patrick Henry School and the Jefferson Colored School, opened by the county school board yesterday, ranged from $53,278 to $81,887. The bids include the work on both buildings.

C. M. Buchanan, of Clarksville, Va., was announced as the lowest bidder. Superintendent Kemp said the board will meet early next week to award the contract.

Walter B. Huffman was elected noble grand of Arlington Lodge, No. 193, I. O. O. F., at a meeting in Clarendon last night. Other officers are: Roy Tucker, vice grand, and C. W. Myers, treasurer.

Emily Payne last night was declared winner in the high school group in the essay contest sponsored by the beautification contest committee of the Arlington County Bicentennial Council. More than 7,000 school children in Arlington County participated. The junior high group winner was Eleanor Stewart, and Alger Loving, a pupil at the Woodrow Wilson School, Fort Myer Heights, was judged winner in the elementary school group.

Honorable mention was given Silvia Lamar in the high school group, Louis Burchell in the junior high school group, and Mildred Marbaugh, of the Thomas Nelson Page School, Ballston, in the elementary group.

The title of the essay was "Why Should Arlington County Beautify for 1932?" Judges were Mrs. Sade Catherine Coles, president of the Creative Arts Club of Arlington County; Mrs. Fielding M. Lewis, of Lyon Village, a prominent civic worker, and Maj. E. W. Cushing, member of the county school board.

The Arlington County Monarch Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting at noon at Windsor Arms.

The newly elected officers of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Stonewall Jackson School, Ballston, will be installed at a meeting in the school auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock.

Fisherman Shot Over Changing $5

Charles Arnold Loses an Arm From Wound; Assailant Held.

Shot while fighting over change for $5 yesterday, Charles H. Arnold, of Piscataway, later had his arm amputated, while his alleged assailant was arrested and charged with assault with a dangerous weapon and assault with intent to kill.

The arrest of James Welsh, the reputed assailant, was the first to be made by the new county police force. Welsh was taken into custody by Policeman William F. Gray, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff A. C. Thompson.

Arnold, who is 58 years old, and a fisherman, was shot at the climax of a quarrel which started over an alleged shortness in change for a bill he had tendered. Welsh is said to have fired at him once with a shotgun, mangling his arm. The injured man was taken to Dr. John E. Bowers, of Brandywine, who brought him to Emergency Hospital here.

2 Leap Into River From Blazing Boat

Leaping from a burning motor boat in the Potomac River, near the Highway Bridge yesterday afternoon, James Hamilton, of Silver Spring, Md., and Edward Grier, 2000 Sixteenth street northwest, Washington, narrowly escaped with their lives. Hamilton, who was working on the motor at the time the fire started, suffered a badly burned hand.

Mr. Grier, after a swim of more than 200 feet to the boathouse, stated that they had taken the boat out to tune up the motor, as it had not been acting as it should. Engines from the Washington Fire Department responded to the call and soon extinguished the blaze. The damage was estimated at $800.

PIEDMONT DAIRYMEN PLAN FALL FESTIVAL

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., June 10.—Responding to an invitation by Richard S. Hynson, temporary president of the Piedmont Dairy Festival Association, more than 50 farmers and dairymen from the Piedmont counties and Stafford and Spottsylvania Counties, of Virginia, and nearby Maryland counties, met at a dinner today in the Prince William Hotel to discuss plans for a festival in the fall at Manassas.

Mayor Harry P. Davis welcomed the guests and assured them that should plans come to fruition people of the community as well as members of the town council will cooperate in every possible way to make the affair outstanding.

Another speaker was former Judge Howard W. Smith, now representative in Congress from the Eighth District, who prefaced his remarks by saying that "Any organization of dairymen and farmers is a good thing," and declared the festival project is well worth attention of farmers and dairymen.

Other speakers were P. R. Hynson, who outlined a proposed program; E. L. Preston and W. H. Thomas, Warrenton; R. G. Connelly, dairy expert, V. P. I., Blacksburg; T. T. Curtis, Orange; C. W. Abernethy, Washington, D. C., Dairy Council; H. D. Derr, Fairfax, W. L. Browning, Stafford, and A. L. Thompson, Washington.

County agents and superintendents of schools from counties involved assured the organizers of their desire to assist in every way, while dairy representatives from the same counties joined in the plan. Another meeting will be held early next month to perfect the organization, elect officers and appoint committees.

Bumper Crops Predicted For Page County Farms

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., June 10.—Officials of the Page County Farm Bureau, who have made a canvass of crop conditions in the four magisterial districts of this county, say the present outlook indicates the biggest wheat yield ever known.

E. Y. Yates, of Marksville district; H. L. Kite, of Shenandoah district; C. E. Musselman, of Luray district, and Oscar Hammer, of Springfield district, have made the wheat canvass. They also predict the biggest potato yield the county has ever known, based on the completed survey, while the prospects for a bumper hay crop is flattering.

EXPENSE OF SCHOOLS RUMRUNNER EXCUSE

Necessity for funds sufficient to keep his children in private schools was the reason for bootlegging given yesterday in the Prince Georges County Police Court at Hyattsville by Oscar Thorne, of Sixth street northwest near G street.

Thorne, who was charged with disorderly conduct, speeding, assaulting an officer and second offense possession, was convicted on all counts and fined a total of $260. He told Judge J. Chew Sheriff that he had a daughter in one school and two sons in another, and that he was bringing in the liquor to pay their school bills.

According to Constable Ralph Brown, who arrested the man, Thorne put up a stiff defense and tried several times to escape. Brown stopped his car near Lanham, he testified, and put the handcuffs on Thorne, after a short chase on foot. While the policeman was getting his own car off the road, he said, Thorne started the liquor car and attempted to run him down. Failing in this Brown said, Thorne got out of the car and again ran. In between the attempted escapes, Brown said, the prisoner belabored him with the handcuffs.

On April 1 Thorne was convicted in the same court of carrying liquor, but explained about his children, and Judge Sheriff imposed a small fine. Yesterday, however, he was given a fine of $200, with an alternative of six months in jail. He was fined $25 for the assault, $10 for disorderly conduct, and $25 for exceeding 40 miles per hour.

Stafford H. Giles, colored, of G street near Second street northwest, driver of the truck which broke the arm of Marion Duckett in an accident at Cottage City, was also fined. He was sentenced to pay $5 for having bad brakes, $25 for reckless driving, and $5 for passing when the road ahead was not clear. Testimony showed that Giles swung out to pass a wagon and struck Mr. Duckett's arm, which was projecting out of a window.

The trial of two men held for setting up a gaming table in Mount Rainier was held yesterday, and resulted in a fine of $75 for John Liston, while William Brown was fined $10 for disorderly conduct, the other charge being dismissed. These two men were taken in a raid on a house in Mount Rainier which netted 20 prisoners. The others forfeited $10 collateral each last Wednesday.

Buck Jones, colored, of N street northwest, near Fourth street, was fined $200 for possession, with an alternative of six months in jail, and fined $5 for excessive speed. He was arrested by Ralph Brown with a load of contraband beverage. William Lee, of Baltimore, was fined $100 for driving while drunk, and $5 for reckless driving, after being arrested in College Park, on the Baltimore boulevard, by State Policeman Harry C. Clarke.

Elmer Barr, of Riverdale Heights, was convicted of nonsupport of his wife, Lois, and two children, and sentenced to pay them $15 per week. Robert Fearson, a taxi driver of G street northeast, near Second street, was fined $100 for exceeding 60 miles on the boulevard, and $5 for reckless driving. Three passengers in his car, Earl C. Tollefson, James Mills and Charles Wilkinson, were each fined $10 for being disorderly. They were arrested by Constable Howard M. Slater near Beltsville, after a chase of about 1 mile.

Charges of reckless driving and hit-and-run, prefered by Edmund Sousa, of T street northwest, near North Capitol street, against Harold T. Deane, of Berwyn, were dismissed. They arose out of an accident below Marlboro, when Sousa saw only the first three numbers of the tag. State Policeman C. W. Cubbage saw that Deane's car had these first three numbers and fitted the description, and notified Sousa.

The case against Earl Blackwell, constable in Capitol Heights, who was indicted for malfeasance in office, collapsed yesterday when the Circuit Court sustained a demurrer entered in the case.

Blackwell was indicted because he did not put a woman prisoner, held for "jumping" her bail, in jail, but held her at his office until she could arrange for another bond. Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer, Blackwell's attorney, argued that bail jumping was not a crime in Maryland, and therefore it was not wrong to keep her out of a cell. The court upheld this opinion, which invalidates the indictment.

Wallace Bowling, convicted of manslaughter in connection with the death of Raymond Grimm, was fined $250, while Frederick Randolph, also convicted of manslaughter, was sentenced to three years. Grimm, who was killed in an auto accident near Clinton last fall, was the son of Mrs. Lulu Mae Gamble, freed in La Plata last fall on a charge of shooting an alleged rival for her husband's affections.

Randolph was convicted of responsibility for the death of George L. Portrast on July 6, 1930, in an auto accident. After the crash Randolph is said to have left the State and was only apprehended a few weeks ago when recognized while awaiting trial in the county on a charge of driving while drunk.

Frederick Ohm, of Maryland Park, was freed by a jury on a charge of stealing tobacco from Sam Stamp, but Russell Chaney, indicted with him, was sentenced to two years after a plea of guilty. Another man indicted, Robert Withers, was freed after a trial by the court yesterday.

William Floyd Pinkney, a prisoner at the House of Correction at Cheltenham, who pleaded guilty to a charge of arson, was sentenced to serve two additional years in the institution. He was one of several boys who fired the broom factory at the school last January. James Medley, indicted and convicted on a charge of stealing a leather coat from J. H. Anderson, was sentenced to one year. The coat was valued at $12.

The sentences pronounced yesterday finished up this term of court, which began on June 1, taking care of those cases left over from the April term. A number of indictments returned by the April grand jury have not yet been acted upon, however. They include the case against William Kappel on a charge of injuring a district policeman and his brother during a fight in a roadhouse, and a case which will establish whether or not the use of a smoke screen is an assault with a dangerous weapon. These cases are expected to be tried at the October term.

Maryland Park High School, Marlboro High School and Bladensburg High School were tied for attendance honors for the month of May, according to an announcement by Miss Kathleen Shears, attendance officer. All three schools had an average of 95.64 per cent.

The highest average in the county was gained by the Seabrook School, a one-teacher institution, with a grade of 99.1 per cent. Ardmore, with 97.9 per cent, led the two-teacher schools. Honors among the graded schools went to Edmonston, with an average of 97.2 per cent.

The drive for funds for the improvement of the Hyattsville High School athletic field has netted about $450, according to Leland G. Worthington, treasurer of the fund. This leaves about $1,500 yet to be collected and the whole school will start out today to raise the money.

So far collections have been made by selected pupils of the high school who canvassed in the communities served by the school. It is pointed out that at least $2,000 will be needed to grade the school grounds and remove the brush to make the field usable.

The principal of the school, Prof. K. J. Morris, and Mrs. Lillian Bender and Miss Vera Parker, of the faculty, organized the canvassers, who included Ernest Michaelson, Alfred Bolz, Jack Gahan, Solomon Pincus, Alvin McChesney, Ruth Gover, Anna Shegogue, Jack Hurley, James Rimmer, Esther Pyles, Carleton Heyser, William Stanton, York Hollingsworth, Coleman Headley, Jule Bladen, Clifton Byrd, James Whalen, De Voe Meade, Mabel Schrom, Charlot Schrom, Andrew Beveridge, Walter Jeffries, Roberta Hannum, Walter Armiger, Ella Allison, Betty Cage, Marjorie Gruyer, Marie Howard, Dorothy Ordwein, Walter Welsh, Fred Baird, Walter Alexander, Ruth Jehle and Jean Hamilton.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE CHART MAKER.

"I WOULD like a position," said Mr. Scrufflethumb, submitting his card.

"What do you do?" asked the editor of the financial page.

"A chart maker, and unemployed at a time like this?" exclaimed the financial editor. "It seems incredible. I didn't think there was an unoccupied chart maker in America."

"Oh, I had steady employment, but I lost my last position through a little error, due to preoccupation, I suppose."

"What did you do?"

"Well, I was working for an investment house and the editor of the house organ lost his job with me. We were both a little careless. I absent-mindedly drew the chart upside down, and he put it in the paper sidewise."

"I don't see how that would make much difference to the reader," said the financial editor.

"That's the point," said Scrufflethumb. "The house organ got letters from hundreds of people saying that for the first time in their lives the charts seem to mean something to them."

* * * *

"WHAT did they seem to mean?"

"They weren't quite certain, but they insisted that they held the interest more. They were at least different. That's why I figured I might catch on with a newspaper. Newspaper readers are tired of seeing statistical charts drawn and printed the same old way week after week, aren't they?

"I shouldn't be surprised," admitted the financial editor. "I saw several of our readers studying one of our charts wrong-side up, and he seemed very well satisfied. I spoke to him about it. In fact, I begged his pardon and told him he was holding the chart upside down—it was a chart showing the market movements since January—but he said it was clearer that way."

* * * *

"THAT'S a point editors have been slow to appreciate," said Scrufflethumb. "For years they have been publishing these charts of price trends, earnings, overloadings, &c., in the same old stereotyped form. Nobody really understands a chart, anyhow, and it's a good idea to twist it around and make it a little more cockeyed now and then, if only for a diversion."

"Do the men who draw the charts understand them?" asked the financial editor. "I've always been curious about that."

"I'm the seventh son of a seventh chart maker and I have made charts ever since I was a boy, but I might say, in fact, I do say, that I haven't the slightest idea what they're all about. They're almost as difficult to understand as a railroad time table. I could make good as a time-table maker, but I thought it would be funnier to make charts."

"I think you were right," said the financial editor.

THE TRAVELER.

I sit and type my life away—
Dear Sir: We're writing you to say * * *
And on and on the clinking goes
I sit here writing boresome letters
To swift dictation from my betters,
When barely three short blocks from me
The stately ships sail out to sea.
I hear them call with throaty noise
To a carefree life and a wanderer's joys—
But I sit till 5, when I grab my coat
And set sail on an Erie ferryboat!

MILDRED ZELLER.

COL. LINDBERGH will take his wife with him on a flight to China and Japan via Greenland and Siberia. The flight has been made before, and its value to the world will rest in establishing the trip as an ideal excuse for parents wishing to get their parents to mind the baby a little while.

"Nice baby," one can imagine Mrs. Lindebrgh saying to Charlie, jr., "popper and mommer are going away to get 'ums a booful Japanese doll."

MR. ARMOUR.

For it's "Tommie this" and "Tommie that" when the early rounds are played.

But it's "Tommy, take the prize, sir," when the final dash is made.

Pulling a rabbit out of a hat is always considered a fair trick, suggests "Q," but the directors of the Irish Hospitals Sweepstakes improved it by drawing millions out of a derby.

Power Group Sued In New River Case

(Associated Press.)

The five members of the Federal Power Commission yesterday were served with summons to appear July 10 in a suit brought at Lynchburg, Va., by the Appalachian Electric Power Co. in the New River case.

The company's action was brought in the Federal court for the Western District of Virginia "to remove an encumbrance or cloud upon the title to property within this district." The commission recently asserted full jurisdiction over the New River power site sought by the Appalachian company for a hydro-electric development.

The commissioners yesterday pointed out there was a question whether they could be sued outside the District of Columbia for their official acts. The matter will be referred to the Justice Department for consideration of the Attorney General, who in any case would defend a court action against the Federal agency.

War Veterans Attack Crime Pictures, News

Harrisonburg, Va., June 10.—Resolutions against featuring and exploitation of crime by the motion picture industry and by news gathering associations were adopted by the Rion Bowman Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at a meeting here.

The veterans called upon the Virginia Board of Motion Picture Censors to exercise more rigid censorship of films released for this State. It is understood that similar resolutions will be adopted by the Rockingham Post, American Legion.

CLASH OF LAWYERS DELAYS OWENS CASE

Court Is Adjourned Until Today After Battle; Accused Testifies.

The trial of Garry Owens for the alleged slaying of James H. Lane, street car motorman-conductor, was adjourned yesterday after defense counsel engaged in a bitter wrangle with Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins. Justice Peyton Gordon adjourned court to allow both sides to cool off.

The wrangle began when Aubrey Pillsbury, a relative of Garry Owens, was called to the stand by Collins. He was asked if Charles Owens, another defendant, who turned against Garry Owens and testified for the Government, had been at his home all night, March 18, the night of the murder. The witness answered affirmatively.

Collins thereon told the court he was "surprised." He showed the witness a written statement, allegedly signed by him, and given to police of the Eleventh Precinct. This statement, according to what Collins read from it, stated that Charles Owens was not at Pillsbury's home the evening of the murder.

At this point Attorneys James A. O'Shea and John H. Burnett, for Garry Owens, objected strenuously to the form of the questions. Under instructions from the court, Collins rephrased his question and again objection was made. Several heated bits of repartee were inserted at this point, and court was adjourned until today.

The testimony of Garry Owens went into the record yesterday. He entered a complete denial of the charges against him and offered an alibi for the hour when Lane was shot. At one point he said a policeman at the Eleventh Precinct had threatened to "kick him in the eshin." He said he did not kpow the officer's name.

Owens' attorneys rested his case and the Government began its rebuttal just before court was adjourned.

9 AMERICANS MAKE BRITISH COURT BOW

Debutantes Are Thrilled by Presence at Function of Prince of Wales.

London, June 10 (A.P.).—The last royal court of the season took place tonight with nine Americans among the throng of white-clad debutantes and matrons who made their curtsies before King George and Queen Mary.

An additional thrill was given the debutantes when the Prince of Wales, who had been absent at last night's court, took his place this evening behind the golden thrones of his father and mother.

The Americans who made their bows tonight were Mrs. William H. Amon, of New York; Mrs. James Baldwin, of Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. Charles C. Broy, of Sperryville, Va.; Miss Carol Donohugh, of New York; Mrs. Herbert C. Greer, of Morgantown, W. Va.; Mrs. Ernest L. Ives, of Bloomington, Ill.; Miss Barbara Peart, of San Francisco; Miss Augusta Trimble, of New York and Seattle, Wash., and Miss Quentelle Violette, of New York.

Among the group of women presented last evening at the final drawing room of the Court of St. James this season was Mrs. Ernest Simpson, now married to an Englishman, and formerly Miss Wallis Warfield, of Baltimore, daughter of the late Charles Carroll Allen, of Washington. Mrs. Allen, who before her second marriage was Mrs. Teagle Warfield, was one of the beautiful Montague girls, who for many years dazzled Washington and Baltimore society.

As Mrs. Winfield Spencer, Mrs. Simpson was popular in the younger naval and diplomatic sets before her marriage to Mr. Simpson several years ago. She is a cousin of Mrs. George Murray, wife of the American Naval Air Attache at the embassy in London, the former Miss Corrine Montague, who has been called by London people the most beautiful American woman in London. She is also a cousin of Mrs. George Barnett and Mrs. C. Phillips Montague, and a niece of Mrs. C. Buchanan Merryman.

Car-Motorcycle Crash Injures Maryland Man

Annapolis, Md., June 10.—Brice Manley, young Severn man, is in a precarious condition in Camp Meade Hospital, result of an accident last night in which a motorcycle on which he was riding crashed head-on with an automobile driven by Roy L. Taylor, also of Severn. The mishap occurred on the Friendship road.

The impact threw Manley and his motorcycle into the front yard of Howard Disney, a county employe. The automobile also was badly wrecked. Manley was rushed to the Army hospital, where it was found that he sustained a fractured skull, a broken arm and other injuries.

Virginian Faces Murder Count in Death of Kin

Charlottesville, Va., June 10.—Roy Shiflett, of Mission Home, charged with the murder of Ellis Shiflett, a kinsman, was arrested yesterday afternoon and is being held for hearing before Magistrate Colthurst.

Roy Shiflett was arrested May 28, but was released on bond. Ellis, at first not thought seriously wounded, died June 5. The second warrant, charging Roy with murder, was sworn out the next day.

Virginia Elks to Hold Flag Day Celebration

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 10.—The Virginia State Elks Association will hold a joint flag day celebration at Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson, next Sunday. The exercises will start at 3 o'clock, and the address will be delivered by Lawrence H. Rupp of Allentown, Pa., grand exalted ruler of the Order of Elks of the United States.

The Monticello Guard and Municipal Band, of this city, and the Elks Glee Club, of Lynchburg, Va., will take part in the services. The Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation announces free admission to the grounds.

Methodist Women in Session.

Martinsburg, W. Va., June 10 (Special).—The sixteenth annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Baltimore Conference, Southern Methodist Church, opened here today, attracting delegates from northern Virginia and the Eastern Panhandle of this State.
